COUNCIL FINDS NO GROUNDS FOR KOSMET ACTION

Group Decides Take No Steps in Kosmet, Law Argument.

SANCTIONS COBS' TRIP

Two Members Selected for Journey to Mizzou This Weekend.

In a special meeting of the Student Council last night, that body officially decided to take no action on the petition of the students of law college relative to the passage by the Kosmet Klub of an eligibility rule for the election of Nebraska's Sweetheart.

The judiciary committee of the Council, which consists of Berneice Hoffman, chairman, Edwin Faulkner, president of the council, Julia Simanek, secretary of the council, Gretchen Fee, and Walter Huber, met last Friday. The committee heard representatives from Kosmet Klub and Law college and discussed the matter. After a discussion of the report of the committee, the council decided that it found no grounds for action on the question.

At the last meeting of the student council, members of the law college through their representative John P. Jensen, presented a petition to the council protesting the action of Kosmet Klub. The petition asked that the ruling of the Klub be declared inoperative and of no effect, and asked that a new election be called.

Huber Presents Petition.

After Jensen had presented his petition, Walter Huber, a member of the council, presented a petition which in substance asked for a new election or demanded a mass meeting of the students to consider the question. According to the constitution of the student council, a petition signed by at least fifty students and asking for

POOL CONSTRUCTION PROGRESSES RAPIDLY

Foreman Says Work Being Hastened to Complete Coliseum Project.

TILE DESIGN UNIQUE

Construction work on the new Nebraska University swimming pool is being carried on a rapid pace as soon as possible. According to the foreman, Ted Goldammer, it should be completed about Dec. 15 if nothing goes wrong in the proposed plans.

Construction work is being handled by the George M. Robinson Construction company while the tile work is under the supervision of the Cornhusker Tile and Marble company.

The pool is to be seventy-five feet long and ten feet deep. It will be a concrete pool faced with glazed tile and the ten foot walk around it will be laid with ceramics. A large filtering plant will purify all the water that flows into the pool.

The shallow end of the pool will be about four feet deep while the deep end will be ten feet in depth. At the deep end will be mounted three diving boards. Of these, two will be regulation height but the third will be mounted on a ten foot tower.

Novel Tile Effect.

A novel tile effect is being worked into the ceiling. Also eight high illumination lights and two large ventilators are built into the ceiling. In addition to these lights, large windows of ground glass around the pool on three sides will provide further illumination.

LeRossignol Favors Cancellation of War Debts as Remedy for Depression

Editor's note: This is a second of series of interviews with University of Nebraska economists dealing with the recession of world trade. In conducting these interviews the university news and feature service is attempting to describe in a non-technical language.

To speed relief from the business depression that has throttled world commerce and trade for the past two years, it will be necessary to restore the buying power of Europe, according to Dr. J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the college of business administration at the University of Nebraska.

Dr. LeRossignol suggests two possible means of restoring this buying power of Europe which is essential since western European nations have been the chief market for United States surplus for years. The first suggestion has to do with the lowering of tariff barriers to international trade but since this is not likely to come for quite some time, he selects as an alternative complete—or at least partial—cancellation of war debts.

"Most of our business forecasters expected that the bottom of the depression would be reached in the spring of this year and that there would be steady slow improvement after that. However, owing to conditions over which they had no control and could not

NATIONAL FIGURES SPEAK

Psychology Authorities Are Scheduled for Radio Addresses.

"Psychology Today" is the subject of three radio lectures to be given by national authorities during the month.

Edward S. Robinson speaks on the subject, "Learning and Forgetting" on Oct. 31. On Nov. 7 Gardner Murphy speaks on "Our Social Attitudes." Robert S. Woodworth will talk on "Old Prejudices and New Schools in Psychology" on Nov. 14. These three men, instructors at Columbia and Yale universities, have written text books that are used at the University of Nebraska.

These radio talks will be broadcast over national network at 7:45 central standard time.

COBS, TASSELS WILL OPEN YEARBOOK SALE MONDAY NEXT WEEK

Cornhusker Offers Awards For Best Salesmen in Annual Drive.

Sale of the 1932 Cornhusker will be conducted by the Corn Cobs and the Tassels, when the sales campaign opens Monday, Nov. 2. Marvin Schmid, president of the Corn Cobs and Juliette Deeken, Tassels president, will head the two organizations in the sales drive opening next week, according to announcements made yesterday by Russell Mousel.

The Cornhusker is offering prizes that will form an incentive for these groups to put forth special efforts in their drive for advance orders of the year book. A prize of $25 goes to the group which sells the largest number of books during the campaign. Another $25 prize will be given to the individual, either a Corn Cob or a Tassel who takes the most orders for the annual. A second prize of $10 will be awarded to the individual who ranks second in the number of individual sales.

Installment Plan Offered.

The Cornhusker has arranged a convenient payment plan for students who find it hard to "dig up the dough" during the campaign. One dollar is to be paid at the time of purchase. The second installment of one dollar will be due on Dec. 1, a third payment, also one dollar, will be made on Jan. 15, and the rest of the price, two dollars, is to be paid upon delivery of the book in the spring.

A 10 percent reduction of the price may be obtained by students who pay cash when their orders are placed. However, this special offer is good only during the sales campaign which closes Tuesday, Nov. 10. Cash price will be $4.50.

COUNTRYMAN WILL BE ISSUED AT MID-MONTH

Editor Ag College Magazine Discusses Content of Next Number.

DUNN WRITES OF RUSSIA

The November issue of the Cornhusker Countryman, official monthly student publication of the college of agriculture, will be out about the middle of the month, according to Editor George Round.

At the same time Round announced that the second issue will duplicate the first, in that it will feature short stories about outstanding students and professors. The October issue was well received and many copies were sold.

Greth Dunn is writing one of the leading features for November on Russian situation. He is getting his material from two former university students who recently returned from active work in Russia. Both men were managing hog farms while in the foreign country and Dunn is giving all sides of foresee, the depression has been prolonged," stated Dr. LeRossignol.

Cites Unfavorable Factors.

"Among these unfavorable factors," he continued, "the most depressing and menacing is, unquestionably, the financial condition of western Europe, where the newer countries of the world—the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Argentina—had an immense and growing market for their surplus products. This financial chaos is the aftermath of the war, no doubt, but whatever the cause, our customers are in trouble in the nexus of international commerce, are in trouble too.

"The focus of this financial condition, that was saved for the time being by the moratorium suggested by President Hoover and granted by Germany's leading creditors. Now, however, one of those very creditors, England, occupies the center of the stage, and the flight of the pound sterling, followed by suspension of specie payments by the Bank of England has alarmed the world."

According to Dr. LeRossignol, "It is a case of frozen credits based on debts which cannot be paid immediately, but require ex-

BARN MOTIF TO FEATURE AGGIE FORMAL AFFAIR

Committee Announces Plans For Decorative Scheme Friday Night.

HAY TO SURROUND FLOOR

Unique Tunnel Entrance Planned; Favors to Be Distributed.

Definite decoration plans for the annual Farmer's Formal to be held by college of agriculture students Friday night were announced this morning by Jack Niebaum, co-chairman of the decorations committee. Alice McDermott is acting with Niebaum as head of the committee. Their report indicates the decorations will be more novel than in former years.

At the same time announcement was made that favors are being given out with each ticket purchased. This year the favor consists of a miniature milk pitcher in which is found the invitation to the annual barn warming.

Niebaum's plans for the decorations indicate the activities building, where the event will be held, will be decorated as a barn. Hundreds of bales of straw and hay are being borrowed to help make the scene realistic. They will be placed around the gymnasium floor. In addition dummy stalls will be built in each corner.

Miniature cornfields will be found over the dancing floor, according to Niebaum's plans. Lighted pumpkins sitting on shocks of fodder will also help make the picture more picturesque.

Tunnel Entrance Planned.

Probably the most unique of the entire decorations will be the tunnel entrance to the dance floor. Last year those attending the formal were forced to mount a ten foot ladder to the second floor. The tunnel will be found on the second floor corridor of the building and will be made out of bales of straw.

Being quite dark and with several false sub-tunnels leading off to different sides, Niebaum predicts there will be more than one mixup in the entrance. No one will be able to crash the gate but will have to crawl thru the tunnel to gain admittance to the dancing floor.

Harlan Bollman is arranging the details for the crowning of the queen and it is thought she will be crowned in an original way also. Bollman promises more information on the crowning festivities plans Friday.

Today all students in the college of agriculture are wearing overalls, aprons and old clothes to school in order to increase the spirit for Farmer's Formal. Delphin Nash said they would also be required to wear the old clothes Friday and anyone not doing so will be reprimanded by the loss of shoes and other parts of the clothing.

LOWER CLASS HEADS ISSUE CALL FOR MEN

Applicants for Tug of War Team Asked by Sauer and Soderlund.

Meeting with the Innocents committee on freshman caps, George Sauer and Harold Soderlund, presidents of the sophomores and freshman classes respectively, issued a call for men for the freshman-sophomore tug of war, to be held Nov. 7, at the Iowa University-Nebraska game.

Twelve men of each class will be chosen and will take their positions on the field between halves of the game. Three trials will be made, the class winning two being the victor.

Deciding the important question of whether the freshman class continue to wear their caps, or be allowed to discard them, this event is being looked forward to by the two lower classes. If the sophomores win, the freshmen must wear their caps until the first snow.

PRESENT FOURTH PROGRAM

School of Music Sponsors Convocation at Temple Wednesday.

The University of Nebraska School of Music presented the fourth musical convocation Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 28, at the Temple theatre. The program was given by Floyd Robbins, pianist, and Edith Lucille Robbins, soprano. The program: Scarlatti-Godowsky, Concerto Allegro; Mozart-Fricman, Larghetto; Rhene-Baton, Sprinklers at Carante; Groulez, The Donkeys; by Floyd Robbins; Soderberg, Norwegian Cradle Song; Grieg, With a Water Lily; Sinding, Sylvelin; Thrane, Norwegian Echo Song; by Edith Lucille Robbins.

The song was sung in Norwegian dialect, and the costume was from the Voss-Haranger district of Norway. It was given to Mrs. Robbins during her summer there. Mr. Robbins ended the program with Chopin Concerto, E minor, Romanza, and Kondo. The orchestral parts were played on a second piano by Ruth Randall.

CORN COBS PLAN TRIP TO MIZZOU GAME SATURDAY

Pep Group Secures Sanction Of Dean Thompson and Student Council.

ONLY ACTIVES MAY GO

Eligibility of Members Now Being Checked; Special Bus Chartered.

Having secured sanction of T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs and from the student council, the Corn Cobs will go to Columbia, Mo., to attend the Nebraska-Missouri game. The organization has chartered a special bus in which they will leave Friday afternoon. It was announced last night.

Since no other campus organization will attend the Missouri game in a unit, it was deemed fitting that the Cobs should take it upon themselves to represent the university and support the team in its fight for the "Big Six" championship.

The organization is permitting only eligible active members to take this trip, since its present funds are not sufficient to pay all expenses of both the actives and the pledges. The organization is also contemplating taking the Manhattan trip on the special train that is to run.

Eligibility Being Checked.

Eligibility of active members of the organization is now being checked by the Dean's office. Only those members who are up in all their hours, carrying 12 and having made 27 in the last two semesters will be permitted to make this trip.

Members of the organization have invited a faculty member to accompany them on the trip as their guest. The professor had not officially accepted last night, but declared his intention of doing so.

According to present plans, the Cobs will leave Lincoln shortly after Friday noon and drive to Kansas City, where they will spend the night. They will continue to Columbia the following morning.

Arriving in Columbia shortly before noon Saturday, the Cobs, in their emblematic uniforms will parade thru the streets, lead a few yells for the team, and sit in a group in the stands. The Cobs have received many favorable comments over their contemplated trip in view of the following that Missouri had here last year. The Tigers were supported by the Missouri band, men's and women's pep organizations, and approximately 400 students when they met the Huskers in Memorial stadium last year.

"Since no other representative Cornhusker group had signified its intentions of going to the game, we felt that the Corn Cobs ought to go," Marvin Schmid, president of the pep organization stated.

The Cobs also plan to go to the Kansas Aggie game at Manhattan two weeks from Saturday, when they plan to take the whole group, both actives and pledges.

STOKES PUBLISHES WORK

Political Science Instructor Writes of Godkin for Quarterly.

Dr. H. W. Stokes, assistant professor of political science, has had an essay, "Edwin Lawrence Godkin, Defender of Democracy," published in the October issue of the South Atlantic Quarterly.

Godkin, as editor of the Nation and the New York Evening Post, was one of the most influential newspapermen of the nineteenth century, according to the article. "Government, to him, was but one means by which the democratic spirit sought expression. Democracy, Godkin believed, is a principle of social life which must be deeply characteristic of a nation before the government of that nation is deeply affected."

ALICE GEDDES LEAVES

Head of Freshman Honorary Goes to National Meet at Du Pauw.

Miss Alice Geddes, president of Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman scholastic honorary, leaves today for Greencastle, Ind., where she will attend a national convention of the organization at Du Pauw university Friday and Saturday. Mortar Board which sponsors the organization and was instrumental in its founding is sending Miss Geddes to the convention.

According to the rules for election to the society a freshman must receive a weighted average of 90 during her freshman year to be chosen.

The members of Alpha Lambda Delta help with the tutoring of all students who are having difficulties with their studies.

JOURNALISM SCHOOL WILL AWARD PRIZES AT BANQUET TONIGHT

Writers of Best Nebraskan Stories Last Semester Are Honored.

Between sixty and seventy-five students of journalism will attend the annual journalism dinner to be held at the University club at 6 o'clock tonight.

Members of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic sorority which is sponsoring the dinner, have planned a program which will include several toasts concerning the evolution of the depression. Elwood N. Thompson will preside as toastmaster, and Jack Erickson, Arthur Wolf, Evelyn Simpson, Marvin Wolf Seggren, and William McGaffin will speak.

Those giving toasts will trace the various prominent historical depressions from the first depression when there was a shortage of leaves, thru the depression of Anthony's and Cleopatra's time when Cleopatra experienced a shortage of lovers, and the depression of Columbus' time when there was a dearth of continents to discover, up to the present depression characterized by a shortage of jobs.

Walker to Present Cup.

According to tradition, the Sigma Delta Chi cup will be presented to the writer of the best news story printed in The Daily Nebraskan during the last semester. Jack Erickson was the winner last semester.

DELEGATES REPORT ON P.B.K. CONCLAVE

Nebraska Chapter Convened In Year's First Meet Wednesday Night.

THREE ADDRESS GROUP

Detailed reports of the annual Phi Beta Kappa convention held last summer at Providence, Rhode Island, were given by the three delegates from the Nebraska chapter at the first meeting of the year last night at the University club. Miss Winona Perry, Clifford M. Hicks, and Mrs. Fred Williams were the Nebraska delegates.

Mrs. Williams reported on "The Background of Personalities at the Convention." Mr. Hicks discussed their report of the officers' semester. Jack Erickson, Nueman to the constitution and by-laws, and the reports from the district conventions; Miss Perry reported on the election of new senators and the acceptance of new chapters. The senators compose the executive board of the united chapters, as the national organization is called, Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law school, who graduated

WEBSTER RECOVERING FROM SKULL INJURIES

Teachers College Senior, Hurt in Upset Friday, Is in Hospital.

Gilbert Webster, Teachers College senior, who was injured Tuesday night when the truck in which he was riding to a picnic turned over, is recovering at St. Elizabeth's hospital. According to X-ray examination he does not have a fractured skull, as was feared, but is suffering from a severe skull injury and is rational only at intervals.

Mr. Webster was accompanying a group of Teachers College high school students on a school picnic when the accident occurred five miles south of Lincoln on 14th street. According to Jerry Smith, the driver of the truck, the radius rods collapsed and the truck turned over. Besides Mr. Webster, two high school students, Walter Paddelford and Howard Walter, were injured, but not seriously. Smith and Frank Morris,

BIZAD STUDENTS RECEIVE AWARDS WEDNESDAY NIGHT

33 Are Honored at Annual Banquet in Ellen Smith Hall.

LIGHTNER TOASTMASTER

LeRossignol Swayzee Speak; Arndt and Hicks Are Recognized.

Presentation of the scholastic awards to students in the college of business administration was made at the second annual recognition banquet of the college last night in Ellen Smith hall. About 125 students, guests, and faculty members attended the affair.

Keith Lightner, president of the Bizad executive board, was toastmaster at the dinner. Speakers were Prof. C. O. Swayzee and J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the college of business administration. Entertainment was furnished by a trio consisting of Roger Wilkerson, piano; William Beer, trumpet; and James Graham, solo.

The following sophomores were awarded the William Gold keys, which are presented every year to the ten students who made the best scholastic average in the college during their freshman year: Carolyn A. Cummins, Falls City; Alice M. Geddes, Lincoln; Wilbur J. Haegen, Lincoln; Otto Kotouc, Humboldt; Wilbur E. Olson, Omaha; Mabel B. Saer, Treynor, Ia.; William H. Schneider, Lincoln; Edwin F. Speith, Ames; Lester B. Sunderman, Madison; and William A. Twine, North Platte. Honorable mention was awarded to Melvin E. Rascoe, Fairbury; and Juanita Stafford, Omaha.

RALLY TODAY SERVES AS SENDOFF FOR TEAM

Pep Meeting Takes Place At 5:30 at South Stadium Gate.

A pep meeting for the Cornhusker football team will take place this afternoon at 5:30 at the south gate of the Stadium and will serve as the send-off rally for the Missouri game. The team will leave Lincoln at midnight tonight. It will be the first practise field rally of the year and songs and cheers will be led by the yell leaders.

The crowd is to form two lines at the end of the practice so that a lane will be formed for the football team to pass thru on their way to the dressing room. Simultaneously the band will play the Cornhusker.

The practise field rally was necessitated when it was learned that the team would not leave until midnight. Coach Bible approved of the afternoon rally and stated that it would do more to stir up spirit than a send-off at the stadium would.

According to Art Mitchell, chairman of the rally, the Missouri game is likely to prove one of the stiffest games of the season and the team will need the support of the entire student body at the Thursday afternoon rally. He also pointed out that the Missouri football team almost always makes one of the best snowings of the year against Nebraska and points to wards the Cornhusker game. The game Saturday will serve as the Missouri homecoming and the Tigers are anxious to make a good appearance before their grads, he warned.

Funny Glasses Get O. O. When Ida Hozenozle Lounges in Main 'Libe'

BY IDA HOZENOSZLE.
Funny—the number of people wearing glasses. Funny—the number of funny people wearing glasses. Funny—the number of funny people wearing funny glasses. Opportunity knocks but once—I am sitting on the softest of all the hard chairs, in the very back of general libe. I am as comfortable as one sweater, one coat, two notebooks, and three fat textbooks can make anyone. I shall keep on sitting, and being comfortable, and check up on some of these glasses running loose about the campus.

The boy and girl that just came in together—they are both wearing glasses. Plain, brown, horn-rimmed ones—no originality, no zip, no color. They are like their glasses—lifeless, inert masses. They are here to study no doubt. I am glad they didn't sit down near me. I never did like horn-rimmed glasses.

Shades of the Russian Renaissance! That was some ritzy dame that just clipped in on her spikes! Do my eyes deceive me, or is she ... She is! She is wearing a pair of pincers. To prove a semester of French—pince nez—Long may they pince, and longer may they nez! A pair of the pincest pincers you ever saw! She is sitting down right across from me. She removes the pincers boredly, I am gasping. ... Oh, its all right, I had almost forgot what that dainty length of black ribbon dangling nonchalantly against her coat lapel meant. They're hooked together! Heavens, what a relief. I can just see that lovely pair of pincers shattered—smashed on the floor. ...

Not a bad looking fellow just strode in. ... Himless octagons riding a genuine Roman nose. He looks distinguished, and intellectual, and important—I'll bet he is one of the Big Shots on the Campus I've been reading about lately. What could I do to attract his attention? I wonder. ... Let me see. ... Good grief! Just my luck too—he's wearing an obscure pledge button. ...

A pair of gold rims just stalked in—hard, shiny gold rims. That's a hard shiny face back of the rims by the way. She makes me feel sort of guilty—I suppose I might as well start studying. I don't want to miss out on that phase of my college education. ... I'd lots rather just sit—and look—but—Oh well, might as well polish up my glasses, and get to work. ...
