

FINAL SCRIMMAGE WEDNESDAY GIVES HUSKERS WORKOUT

Sauer's Leg Injury Keeps Him Out; May Not Go Against Mizzou.

KREIZINGER GOES OVER

Backfield Ace Counts Four Times Against Second Aggregation.

The Cornhuskers settled down in a businesslike manner Wednesday afternoon for their last scrimmage before the game against Missouri at Columbia this Saturday. Nearly every varsity man was in the lineup against the nubbins or the freshmen.

Indications that Sauer might be unable to start against the Missouri Tigers was seen in Bible's first string backfield combinations. The shining star of the first half of the K. U. game is being bothered by an ankle injury he received against the Jayhawks last Saturday.

Altho Sauer is able to walk, he is incapable of driving his 180 pounds in football scrimmage.

On the first team yesterday against the nubbins were Kilbourne and Joy at end positions; O'Brien and Rhea, tackles; Adam and Koster, guards; Campbell at center; and Masterson, Kreizinger, Boswell and Bauer filling up the backfield.

After receiving the first kickoff, the nubbins fumbled on the first play and very shortly after that Kreizinger made the first score for the varsity. The nubbins were again put in possession of the ball but made no gains. Varsity got the ball on downs and marched steadily toward the goal line, and Kreizinger scored again. The extra point was made by Masterson.

The next time the varsity got the ball they were penalized for being offside and lost the ball to the nubbins when they failed to make a first down. The nubbins had hardly gotten possession of the ball when Rhea intercepted a pass intended for a nubbin end.

Following the same procedure as before, the varsity scored again with Kreizinger carrying the ball. Kreizinger made the fourth touchdown when he took the ball from center near the middle of the field and skirted right end in a long run which crossed the line. Bauer carried the ball around right end for the extra point.

In the second half of the scrimmage another varsity team overcame the freshman team but not with the success that their predecessors had had against the nubbins. Against the freshmen, Petz and Milne played end positions; O'Brien and Schnutt, tackles; Bishop and Adams, guards; Fly, center; and Staab, Kreizinger, Roby and Mathis were in the backfield.

The varsity kicked off to the freshmen, but soon had the ball again when Weir's team failed to make their downs. With the ball on the fresh-man 40-yard line, Roby made a long right end run for a score. Staab attempted the kick but it was blocked.

The ball was given to the freshmen in midfield and they made several good runs but failed to score. During this second period of scrimmage several replacements were made in the varsity lineup but no more points were added to the score.

The Cornhuskers will leave for Columbia Thursday night at 11:30, arriving there in time to work out Friday. The men to take the trip have not as yet been named, but it is expected that approximately thirty men will go.

SELLECK DISCREDITS RUMOR THAT CHARITY GAME IS SCHEDULED

Negotiations With Colorado School Not Complete at Present.

Unofficial negotiations are being carried on between the Nebraska athletic office and representatives of the Rocky Mountain conference to stage a post-season charity game between the Huskers and either Colorado University or Colorado Aggies, it was admitted last night by John T. Selleck, manager of student activities.

According to the Denver Post, a game between Nebraska and Colorado Aggies has been proposed. This statement according to Selleck is unofficial. He declared that Nebraska has received no official invitation from either of the Colorado schools.

The charity game story carried in yesterday's Denver Post said in substance that Nebraska has tentatively agreed to a game with the Colorado Aggies, but no word has been received from the Colorado school, Selleck says.

"Officials of the Rocky Mountain A. A. U. were to meet with Rocky Mountain conference representatives to obtain permission for a conference team to play. The Colorado school has not given word as to whether or not it will play Nebraska for it will be guided by the ruling of the conference," Selleck reported.

That "Nebraska has tentatively agreed to a game with the Aggies" is merely the interpretation placed upon the unofficial negotiations that have taken place, Selleck declared.

He concluded by saying that since the Huskers will engage in a post-season game it is possible that their opponents could be the Aggies, but "nothing definite has been done."

Joins Orchestra

One of Nebraska's popular college musicians is joining Leo Beck and his orchestra for the remainder of the social season. The orchestra will now include two piano artists, Leo Beck and Mr. Sherman.—Adv.

The decision of the Innocents to change the singing of the Cornhusker to before the game instead of after is a wise move. In the big rush to get out of the stadium few people remain to carry on this Nebraska tradition, and the result is a half hearted attempt to sing a song that is worthy of attention by every person present in the stadium. Nebraska traditions have been reduced to too few in number, and this outstanding custom should be retained.

Rumors of a post season game with either the University of Colorado or the Colorado Agriculture college seem to be prevalent both here and in the western state. The Denver Post on Tuesday said that negotiations have already been entered into to play the game with Nebraska at Denver on Dec. 5. The Rocky Mountain conference officials must first give permission to its members to play, however.

It is difficult to understand why the University of Nebraska should want to enter into relations for a post season game with either of these two schools for one very good reason—finances. The only stadium of any size in Colorado is that of the University of Denver. Denver would be the only city that could draw a capacity crowd. If we have been correctly informed, the D. U. stadium would not hold over 20,000 people if a capacity crowd was drawn. As long as the game must be played, why not play where the most money can be obtained? It is going to a worthy cause and as much money as possible should be made.

Also, if Nebraska officials would have to worry about bad weather in Lincoln at that time of the year, they would have just as much grounds for worry in Denver, Colorado is not immune from snow in December.

The possibility of a special train to Columbia has fallen thru due to the lack of interest by the students. Whether the student body as a whole think that Missouri is a setup or whether the depression has really hit the campus is a question. Missouri will be far from a setup, however. With Saturday set as homecoming in Columbia and with the usual resistance put up by the Tigers, Nebraska will have to more than exert herself to win. Last year Missouri came down here as the underdog and held the Huskers to a 0 to 0 tie. The Tigers are always tough opponents for Nebraska.

Now that new flags are on the stadium, our program is half through. If we could only get word of some woman that has condescended to walk to a party then we could throw the typewriter away and retire for the remainder of the semester. This, however, isn't a promise.

CYCLONES PREPARE FOR SOONER BATTLE

Mizzou Victory Last Week Gives Impetus to Ames Spirit.

AMES, Ia. Oct. 27.—Following their crushing 20 to 0 victory over Missouri Saturday the Cyclones settled down Monday for intensive drill in preparation for the conference game with Oklahoma at Norman Saturday. Coach George Veemaker let his regulars off with a light limbering-up session after spending some time pointing out errors committed in the Missouri contest.

Veemaker had little comment on the victory over Missouri, other than to say that the Cyclones played a much better brand of football than in any of the three previous games.

"We ought to be in pretty good shape for Saturday," he said, looking forward to the Sooner game. All of the Cyclones came out of the Homecoming tilt in good condition and with no scrimmages scheduled for this week, Veemaker should have a full-strength lineup to start against the Oklahomans.

Cyclone fans are jubilant over the defeat of Missouri and alumni over the week end are singing the approval of their new coach who marked his entry into Big Six competition with a victory that has been sought for more than two years.

To single out players for special recognition in Saturday's game is a tough assignment even for the experts, for the entire team, reserves and regulars, showed up well. The backfield played a superior brand of football behind excellent generalship by Captain Roger Bowen.

It was Dick Grefe who provided the main offensive threat. He made two touchdowns and one kick from placement in addition to several sparkling runs around end. Ed Schafroth, substituting for Duesenberg, served notice by his play that he is making a serious bid for first call to the full-back position.

Veemaker's line outcharged the Tigers, with Gordon Nagel, veteran center, proving himself the outstanding lineman with his all-around play.

Tuesday the Cyclones will take a look at Oklahoma plays and build a defense against the team captained by Guy Warren, the chief threat of the Sooner backfield.

It pays to look over the wall

The industry that succeeds today is the one that looks outside its own "back-yard" for ways to make itself more valuable.

For many years, Bell System men have been working out ideas to increase the use and usefulness of the telephone. For example, they prepared plans for selling by telephone which helped an insurance man to increase his annual business from $1,000,000 to $5,500,000—a wholesale grocer to enlarge his volume 25% at a big saving in overhead—a soap salesman to sell $6000 worth of goods in one afternoon at a selling cost of less than 1%!

This spirit of cooperation is one reason why the Bell System enjoys so important a place in American business.
