70 AG STUDENTS TO VISIT OMAHA YARDS

Animal Husbandry Classes Will See Stock Show Thursday.

Nearly seventy college of agriculture freshmen animal husbandry students are expected to make their annual visit to South Omaha Thursday. Prof. H. J. Gramlich announced Saturday. Prof. R. R. Thalmann and Prof. M. A. Alexander of the department will have charge of the journey.

As usual the animal husbandry students will visit practically all of the South Omaha industries and the big Ak-Sar-Ban stock show. According to present plans they will leave Lincoln early in the morning, visit the stockyards in the morning and the stock show in the afternoon. At noon they will probably be banqueted as in former years.

Each year the animal husbandry department arranges the trip for the freshmen students so they may see how the livestock market and packing industries actually operate. Guides will show them thru the packing houses.

Those to be installed are S. Avery, councillor; H. A. Pagel, chairman; G. L. Pfeiffer, vice chairman; Mary L. Morse, secretary-treasurer; M. J. Blish, D. J. Brown, and C. J. Frankforter, members of the executive committee.

Dr. Gornberg will come to Lincoln from Denver. He has been touring states in western and northwestern United States and will continue the tour following his Lincoln engagement.

Born in Russia. Dr. Gornberg was born in Russia and came to America when he was eighteen years of age. In 1886 he matriculated as a freshman at the University of Michigan and received the degrees of B.S., M.S., and Sc.D., from that institution. Later he studied at Munich and Heidelberg.

During his college course he became a pioneer in organic chemistry, at a time when almost all emphasis was placed upon methods of analysis and very little upon synthesis. After studying in Europe, Dr. Gornberg returned to America where he continued his study which resulted in the discovery of the elusive triphenylmethyl, and he rose to fame as a discoverer of trivalent carbon, although it was several years before his position was firmly established.

Many honors have come to Dr. Gornberg in recent years. He was voted a membership in the National Academy of Science, he received the Nichols, Willard Gibbs, and Chandler medals, and now is president of the American Chemical society.

More than two thousand students have received their first instruction in organic chemistry from him, and several members of the university faculty took work under his supervision.
