Security was the subject of the first plenary session. John Le-wein, Hastings, was the first speaker and took the role of the official French delegate. He was recognized by the chairman, and gave the viewpoint of his country. Alice McDermott from the university agricultural campus presented the position of Germany. Yugoslavia was defended by D. D. Brown of Kearney who explained the belief of that country as to what armaments they needed for self defense.

Delegates Speak.
William Hica, York, took the stand of Russia from the point of view of nonmembers of the League of Nations, but one of the outstanding powers of the world. The Italian view and the influence of Mussolini upon them were presented by Miss Ellen Tweedy from Doane college at Crete.

Security was the subject of the first plenary session. John Le-wein, Hastings, was the first speaker and took the role of the official French delegate. He was recognized by the chairman, and gave the viewpoint of his country. Alice McDermott from the university agricultural campus presented the position of Germany. Yugoslavia was defended by D. D. Peterson for U. S.
F. V. Peterson of the University of Nebraska cleverly closed the formal session with a discussion of the position of the United States. He presented the role of the U. S., another nonmember of the League of Nations, as being midstage attempting to bring the great powers to compromise with the satisfaction of their own safety.

Dr. Terry then conducted a round table discussion on security before the luncheon hour. Dr. Terry was a special correspondent on the western front and Russia for metropolitan dailies and literary magazines. He attended the last session of the disarmament commission and is the expert on disarmament of the League of Nations association of the United States. He will soon publish a book on the subject.

At 1:15 o'clock the conference again convened to complete their discussion of security. The same countries were represented by different delegates from the colleges. At the close of the meeting, Dr. Terry again led the round table discussion on security and answered questions of the delegates and visitors.

Informal Hour.
At 3:45 there was a social hour and refreshments were served by the members of the Y. W. C. A. social staff under the direction of Carolyn White, chairman. She was assisted by Christine Carlson, Sally Seely and Helen Cassidy.

The economic aspects of disarmament were presented at the plenary session Saturday evening. The order of speakers by their countries was Italy, France, Russia, Great Britain, Germany, Yugoslavia, Hungary and the United States. Dr. Terry's round table discussion followed the session.

An informal party with dancing was given at 10 o'clock for the delegates, Miss Bernice Miller and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Hayes were among the chaperones which included several members of the faculty. Refreshments were served.

Final Plenary Session.
The last plenary session of the conference will be held Sunday morning at 9 o'clock in Ellen Smith hall. Methods of disarmament will be the subject of the meeting. The questions of budgetary limitation, boundaries, wealth and national progress will be brought up. A round table discussion will follow the meeting.

The final general session will be conducted by Berenice Hoffman, and adjournment will immediately follow at 12 o'clock.

State Committee.
Meredith Nelson and Berenice Hoffman were state co-chairmen of the conference. Members of the committee from the University of Nebraska were Rachel Branson, Helen Cassaday, Harold Dahms, Sally Seely, and Ralph Bush. From Nebraska Wesleyan were Jean Tyler, Evan Davies and Kermit Stewart.

Similar conferences have been sponsored at the University of Colorado in Boulder and at Washburn college at Topeka, Kas. PICTURE SECTIONS WILL CLOSE SOON

Cornhusker Editor Warns Upperclassmen; Staff Is Commended.

"Last reports from the photographers indicated that the individual picture sections were filling up very rapidly," Otis Detrick, yearbook editor, said yesterday. "At the present rate it seems only a very short time will remain until the sections are filled up."

"I hope students keep in mind that when the final whistle blows—when the last space is taken, there simply will not be any more pictures inserted in the annual," he warned. He reiterated his warning, mentioning that space in the book had been reserved for only a third of the junior and senior classes.

"And when these sections are filled, that's all, there won't be any more pictures used," he declared. Outlining the way work is progressing, he said, "Every page in the book is being worked on, and things are coming along fine. We sincerely believe that this year's annual is going to be the best Nebraska has ever had."

CAMPUS IS HOST TO BOY SCOUTS DURING ROUNDUP

were the guests of the local chamber of commerce. Just before the convention left the coliseum, Ralph Rodgers and Harold Nelson, last year's yell leaders, led the scouts in a few cheers.

After lunch, the convention formed on the mall and marched into the stadium to a special section reserved for them in the east stands. All those attending the convention were guests of the university at the football game. Pershing Rifles took charge of the Scouts during lunch and for the parade around the track into the stadium.

During the halves of the game, three troops of the convention put on practical demonstrations of scout work. The Covered Wagon Area presented a dramatization of the scout oath, the Nemaha Area put on a signaling demonstration, and representatives from the Cornhusker Area demonstrated wall scaling.

The committee chairman, who handled all arrangements for the round-up are as follows: General chairman, Frank D. Eager; reception, R. M. Joyce; registration, Otto Brinkman; university tours, Col. W. H. Curry; luncheon, Fred Easterday; and line of march, Charles F. Schwarz. Mr. E. R. Danielson was in charge of the scouts demonstrations. The members of Pershing Rifles as the unit served as marshalls during the convention.
