

FOUR VARSITY MEN BACK FOR SWIMMING

Vogeler Must Built Tank Squad Around Quartet of Veterans.

FIRST MEET IN JANUARY

With less than a month before the first meet, and two weeks of that, vacation, Rudy Vogeler, varsity swimming coach, is faced with the problem of constructing a team around four varsity men. Kenny Sutherland, and Powell, divers, and Gregg Waldo and Amato, sprinters, are the only varsity men from last year to report. Fred Krause, a member of last year's team, is in school but will be ineligible for the season. The opening meet will be Jan. 15, when Nebraska is scheduled to engage Kansas Aggies in a dual match. A dedicatory program for the new pool is being planned for the same night and will probably include exhibition swimming and diving.

About twenty men have been reporting to the coach regularly for practice. Lowell Thomas, Frank Oddo, Don Carle and Dick Ferguson have been concentrating on the breast stroke. Dan Easterday, Leslie Rood, Bob Rait and Stewart Neitzel are out for the back stroke. Dave Whitworth, Bernie Master-son and Gilbert Yang are prospective sprinters. Ed Elliott, Gilbert Webster, Sam Schoenfield, Roger Wolcott, Charles Baker and May-thew are out for diving.

TROJANS NOSE OUT MIZZOU, 21 TO 20

California Defense Holds Tigers to 5 Points in Second Half.

COLUMBIA, Mo.—The University of Southern California nosed out the Missouri Tiger 21 to 20 on Tuesday night to win their first victory in five starts on their tour of the Midwest. An airtight defense held Missouri to one basket in the second half, and it was due to the free throw ability of John Cooper, sophomore forward, that the Tigers were able to keep the score close.

Missouri took an early lead 3 to 2, but a scoring spree by Pierce, Gardner and Nemer put the Pacific coast champions out in front 9 to 3. The Tigers tightened and kept up to within two points of their opponents as the half ended with the score 13 to 15. The Trojans increased their lead 20 to 15 early in the second period and attempted a stalling game. A furious man for man offense of the Tigers forced California to again go on the offense. Cooper sank one basket and made three free throws good to come within one point of the Trojans as the game ended.

Judging by basketball scores of other members of the conference, Nebraska is going to have a tough time in the Big Six. Missouri was nosed out by only one point against the University of Southern California and Iowa State took Brigham Young by the score of 47 to 26. Kansas University and Kansas Aggies are both represented by strong quintets and will provide plenty of opposition. Little has been heard from Oklahoma and what they have will provide ground for argument.

This is an exceptionally poor time to bring up this subject following the curtailment of minor sports by the athletic directors of the Big Six, but a number of men have spoken in regard to placing golf on the athletic program. Nebraska has a number of outstanding golfers in school, among them Fred Sieman who has made a habit of winning the western Nebraska golf championship. Golf is one of the outstanding games and should have its place in the program here.

I have always been against the wedge in football, and after the Missouri game I was more firmly opposed than ever. It is the most dangerous part of the game. It was abolished from scrimmage play and there is no reason in the world why it shouldn't be abolished from the kickoff. There is only one sure way of breaking it up and that is by hitting the first man of the wedge. The player who gets down there and hits that first man is standing more than an ordinary chance of getting hurt. The play should be removed from the game and placed among the list of has-beens.

John Bentley in his "I May be Wrong" column mentions another thing connected with football that should be remedied. That is the lack of protection for the forward passer. He mentions the punishment Bus Long took against Iowa last year. Long said that he never once saw a pass completed or knocked down in that game. Every time he let go of a pass the Hawkeyes would smear him and he was one mass of black and blue spots after the game. The man who kicks receives protection by the rules and it is only right that the man who passes should get the same treatment.

Altho the Editor here at the Nebraskan is still hot in his attacks against football, I'll drop out. Football is a game which speaks for itself and anything that he or I should say now will be forgotten long before the season starts next year. College football has a hold on the public that no amount of criticism by college editors can remove.

One game which has been tried in a number of schools with success in their intramural programs is touch football. It is entirely a passing game and one of the most interesting contests played. It is not necessary to have equipment for there is no tackling. Whenever a pass is completed it is only necessary to tag the receiver below the waist to stop the play.

Every man on the team is eligible to receive the pass altho the line is used for the most part in blocking. After the touchdown the team making the score is allowed a free kick for the point after the score. It resolves itself down to a game of skill and does not depend upon the weight of the line men. Touch football has long been on the intramural slate at the University of Colorado where it is the outstanding sport.

Cliff Sandahl, former editor-in-chief of the Nebraskan has again arrived back at his old stand. Following his graduation from the university, he was promoted from the editors job to sports reporter on the Bee-News covering all practices here last year. After the regular season, he was moved to the legislature and later called back to Omaha. He was again sent to Lincoln a couple of weeks ago and is responsible for the breakdown in telegraph and telephone wires between here and Omaha as he covered the big controversy waging against football.

According to Sandahl, however, there is nothing like sports reporting and he soon hopes to be placed on the assignment of covering games and practices during the 1932 season. It will be a tough life on the regular reporters here if this should happen because Sandahl really excels in "scoops" on sports stories.

ANSLEY BOY RETURNS NEXT YEAR

Shown above is Carlisle Staab, Ansley, halfback on the Cornhusker varsity squad this season. Staab, a speedster, is considered one of the fastest men on the Nebraska team. Although light, Staab exhibited lots of fire, and showed up especially well in the charity game against the Colorado Aggies at Denver. A junior, Staab will be back next season to perform again under Husker colors.

AMES STAR ENDS CAREER Cole, Wrestling Champ, Gets Diploma at Saturday Ceremony.

AMES, Ia.—When President R. M. Hughes awards diplomas at the Iowa State college graduation ceremony Saturday morning one of the most illustrious of Cyclone athletes will wind up his career here. Dick Cole, Ames, state high school wrestling champion several times and Big Six conference and national collegiate champion last year in the 135 pound class, is among those who are to graduate. "Dick Cole is by far the cleverest and most versatile wrestler ever produced at Iowa State," is the way his coach, Hugo Otopalik, sums up the work of his star wrestler. "He had probably the best record in dual and tournament competition of any college wrestler in the country."

In addition to winning the Big Six and national titles last win-

STANDARDIZATION IN SCHOOLS UNDER FIRE

'Outworn and Indefensible' Says K. U. Professor Of Education.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Education today is attempting to do the impossible task of reaching all children with a single program, and, as a result, is barely reaching a few, declared Prof. Bert A. Nash of the University of Kansas School of Education in a talk over the University's radio station, KEKU.

"The Student's Store"

They learned about football from "him"...

Just a sawdust-stuffed canvas sack, shaped to represent the human form. But the football men dive into "him", tackle "him", put all they've got into bringing "him" down. The dummy represents the human obstacles that will block their way to victory in the real games. They know that once they can take "him" out, they'll be able to pull down their live opponents.

The McGraw-Hill Publications aid engineers and business men in precisely the same way. These magazines show what problems the future holds in store for their readers, how best to tackle each. Business men and engineers know the value of this, and read their McGraw-Hill Publications regularly.

Soon you'll be tackling a real, live job, with real, live problems popping up when you least expect them. Get a taste of the battle now and get the jump on that first job. There's a McGraw-Hill Publication covering the field you intend to enter. Ask your librarian for the latest issue. Most college libraries have McGraw-Hill Publications on file.

grades of mentality, recognizing that the important thing is to keep all children under public control long enough to instill in them the ideas, attitudes, and ideals which are consistent with social good.

This differentiated program may consist of simple skills and handwork for some children, while for others it may be work reaching into fields not yet touched. The undifferentiated program of the present is outworn and indefensible.

An address by Harry F. Huntington of Longmont, Colo., is one of the features of the meetings of the Nebraska Farm Bureau federation held at the college of agriculture campus during organized agriculture the first week in January. Huntington appears on the Monday afternoon program.

The initial meeting of the federation is scheduled for Monday morning Jan. 4. Prof. H. C. Filley, head of the rural economics department of the university will discuss the agricultural situation in one of the main talks. N. W. Gaines of the agricultural college is to welcome the federation to the campus while P. P. Cedar of Genoa, president of the organization, will respond.

Mrs. Chas. W. Sewell, chairman of the home and community department in the American farm bureau federation, appears on the Monday afternoon program. In addition Miss Dorothy Norris, Dawson county assistant agent, will tell about the effects of 4-H club training on farmers in the future. Mrs. Orville Legge of Dekota City, Neb., will report on the home community department while Mrs. Harriet Cruise-Kemmer of Lincoln will entertain the visitors with a group of vocal selections. Harry F. Huntington of Longmont, Colo., is to be the principal speaker Monday afternoon. The annual banquet of the federation is to be held Monday evening at the Lincoln hotel.

Farm bureau federation women attending the annual sessions will give a breakfast Tuesday morning at the Lincoln hotel honoring Mrs. Chas. W. Sewell. M. S. Waide, secretary of the American federation, will open the Tuesday morning program with a talk about the work of the organization. A public relations representative of the federal farm board will impersonate "Farmer Brown" in another talk.

The Tuesday afternoon program will be mostly of a business nature. It will feature the annual report of C. B. Steward, secretary-treasurer.

Thompson, forward, was high score man with 14 points followed closely by Jones, guard, with 13 and Roadcap, forward, with 10.

Brigham Young is Nebraska's next opponent, meeting the Huskers here Thursday night.
