Student Loan Fund.

The student loan committee at a meeting Tuesday expressed its desire to help as many worthy seniors as possible with the addition of $6400 to the student loan fund.

Student loans have helped many students to continue their education where it would otherwise have been impossible to do so.

At the University of Wisconsin and the University of Syracuse as well as at many other colleges, there has been an effort made to increase the size of the student loan funds.

Any philanthropist who is interested in putting some of his money in a worthwhile place, can seriously consider the student loan fund.

Men at Northwestern university declare the perfect code must have charm, personality, intellect, and sophistication, abstain from use of tobacco and liquor, and must be tall enough to see over.

Vacation Between Semesters.

Altho Christmas vacation ended almost two weeks ago, there is still some talk over whether or not two weeks of vacation near the end of the semester is as much of a blessing as it is intended to be.

One student, in a letter to the editor says, "Final examinations are really very serious; too serious to have the students trend of that broken and completely undone by a two weeks vacation just before the final weeks.

Another student thinks that "Most students go home for the holiday vacation with the idea that much studying must be done before finals. They plan to go home and study for finals during the vacation, but nine times out of ten they fail to do this.

It is a fact that most students could use a little of the time during vacations to study; but it is also a fact that very few of them do this. Because students do not study during vacation is no indication that the vacation is of no value, it is merely a reflection upon the student.

The Christmas vacation gives an opportunity for those who need to and want catch up to do so. Whether or not they take advantage of their opportunity is another matter.

What is the difference if one forgets before or after the finals, except that a better grade might result if the forgetting process was postponed until afterward. The high grades of this type mean nothing.

Those who do not like the present arrangement of the Christmas holidays, do not advocate abolishing them, but merely wish to see them rearranged so that they occur between semesters. This would eliminate their difficulties and make the vacation a much better one.

This changing of the semesters so that Christmas will come after the finals of the first semester, may be a good idea, but it involves several serious changes, such as starting school during the last part of the hot month of August.

The entire cost of going to college in Berea, Ky., is $146 per year. Students earn their way by milking cows, shoeing horses, and making brooms.

More About The Law Derby.

Mr. L. D., who writes to the editor thru the Morning Mail, seems to have come upon a startling conclusion while he was searching for clues with which to solve the brown derby mystery.

We will admit that it is possible that a journalist or several of them could have done the job, but we can also see how it is possible for any of the five or six thousand students in this university to have done it.

Some wanted to know if a "dutch date" was one at which you eat sauerkraut instead of sandwiches before going home.

The so-called "monkey wrench" was not named because it was a handy thing to monkey with or for any other kindred reason and monkey is not its right name at all.

MORNING MAIL

The Brown Derby.

Everyone knows by this time that the lawyer's brown derby has passed into the hands of the engineers. On the night of Saturday last, at the Engineers' Ball, a box was presented and opened before all the guests.

There are several possibilities, one or two of which are quite probable. Number one possibility is that the lawyers themselves might have sent it in an ironical mood regarding the idea of the engineers giving a ball, a formal ball. But, on the other hand, who ever heard of a lawyer being ironical?

About four years ago there was an awful riot between the engineers and the lawyers. The lawyers, as per habit, tore up the engineers bridge that stood South of Pharmacy Hall, and then rushed up to the P. A. D. house where they proceeded to throw rotten eggs by the truck loads until the streets were all gummed up with eggs and hanks of hair and teeth and things.

It was noticed that on the borders of each riot, both at the campus and at the P. D. A. house there were to be seen people with pencil and pad in hand apparently taking some sort of notes. Who were they? They were journalists collecting data to put in their "rag" and save themselves the trouble of making up fairy tale stories about the "da-rate big courtesy man" and "The Beautiful Prince Of The Leap Year Ball".

The authorities over at the law school request that nothing further be done about the derby situation until exams are over. Of course, there is a possibility that the lawyers can't wait that long.

It wouldn't be at all surprising to see the dean of the college of law running hither and thither in the next riot. Maybe that's why the lawyers prefer to wait until after exams; so everybody can be there. Even the journalists. L. D.

CHICAGO ADVERTISES WITH TALKING FILM

'Life on Quadrangles' is Shown High Schools In Illinois.

A three reel talking picture, "Life on the Quadrangle," has just been completed for the University of Chicago.

Touching on all phases of college activities, the picture presents realistically the student life of the University of Chicago. It takes the audience into the lecture room, the conference room and the laboratory.

There is a representative selection of campus activities, among them scenes showing women's athletics, archery, hockey, and swimming.

While the picture maintains a tone of dignity throughout, it moves swiftly and holds interest to the final fadeout. The voice of Quin Ryan, of radio fame, makes running comment on outstanding features of the picture.

Several previews of the picture were held to test audience response of the groups toward which the picture is directed, and the university authorities were greatly pleased with the reaction.

A portable sound projector, operated by Kenneth A. Rouse, assistant to the dean and former Chicago football captain and winner of the Tribune trophy, is being used to show the picture before high schools and alumni in the middle west.

"Life on the Quadrangle" was produced at the university and the film studios, under the direction of Avery B. Chereton. The photography and sound are theatrical in character and of a quality not ordinarily found in straight commercial productions.

STUDENTS MAY SEEK ATHLETIC BOARD MEMBER

The delegates to the convention reported that the student government at Nebraska compared very favorably with student government in other universities and was organized and functioning much better than were those in many schools.

Several changes in the by-laws of the council were recommended at the last meeting of the council by Phil Brownell, chairman of the by-laws committee.

1. By-laws of the student council may be passed, revised or repealed by a majority action of the council except that such proposals shall be presented to the secretary and read at one meeting previous to being voted upon.

2. A council member missing three consecutive meetings of the council without excuse may be dropped from the council roll at the discretion of the council, such action requiring a majority vote.

3. For the purposes of transacting ordinary business a quorum shall consist of a majority of the council members.

4. Upon the oral application of any single member of the council for a vote by secret ballot such a method shall be used.

5. Upon the majority vote of the council a vote by roll-call shall be taken; a call for a vote by roll-call shall take precedence over a call for a secret ballot and if a majority is obtained, a secret ballot may not be called for.

6. When individuals not members of the council shall appear before the council to present a proposal or argue a question, such individuals shall be privileged to remain within the council for questioning, but shall not unless the council resolve itself into a committee of the whole, be present during a discussion of the question at issue or when a vote upon a motion arising out of the question at issue is taken.

7. In all cases of controversy over points of order, Robert's Rules of Order shall be the accepted guide.

The constitution of the Economics Round Table, a newly formed organization on the campus, was referred to the committee on student organizations for investigation and report at the next meeting.

At the request of the Mortar Board society, which is planning a leap year party for Feb. 20, permission was granted to that organization by the council to hold the party.

HARPER REPORTS TO FRATERNITIES RULE VIOLATORS

(Continued from Page 1.) the rules that are now in force. "A man to be eligible for initiation must have passed twelve hours the semester preceding his initiation. He must have an average of 72 or above in ALL hours, F counting as 45, and incompletes and conditions as 55 unless they are made up, in which case the grade given by the instructor will apply.

The eligibility of men for initiation into fraternities is checked thru the office of the dean of student affairs, where the scholastic record of the individual is investigated, and the list of eligible men is presented to the fraternities.

TWELVE JUNIORS NAMED TO POSTS FOR CLASS PROM

Mary Alice Kelley, Omaha, is a junior in teachers' college and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Gertrude Clarke, La Grange, Ill., is a junior in teachers college and a member of Alpha Xi Delta. Jane Robertson, Beatrice, is a junior in the college of arts and sciences and a member of Delta Gamma.

One of the features of the Junior Senior prom is the presentation of the prom girl, who will be elected by the students attending the affair.

ROBINSON NAMES MONDAY RELEASE

(Continued from Page 1.) dent at every school throughout the country. It solves these problems and overcomes all obstacles thru a simple mathematical formula. The article continues in showing instantly, thru this formula, whether members of Greek organizations are now satisfied and happy, and explains why or why not they are in either case.

Other material carries out the central theme of this month's issue as indicated by the name of the special issue. Another article contains a directory of fraternities and sororities, and includes a great number of enlightening details concerning the inner mechanisms which drive these organizations on to success or failure.

One page is devoted entirely to caricatures. This sheet, which is entitled, "Greeks Had a Name for Them," features several prominent students on this campus.

Many Contribute Work. Contributors to this month's issue of the Argwan include: Art Wolf, J. T. Coffee, Francis Cunningham, Roger Wilkerson, Howard Allaway, Norman Hansen, Dick Moran, Irma Randall and Marjorie Quivey.

Striking and important changes are being made in this issue, according to Robinson. He refused to reveal the nature of the changes however. Departures from former styles are likewise being planned for the issue to appear next month.

Contributors for February's issue are requested to start work at once. The deadline for copy will be announced soon, the editor said. The changes which are now being made by the editor are hoped to bring the Argwan far to the front and bring its rank among the best publications in the country, so far as the appearance is concerned, the editor hopes.
