Dr. T. Z. Koo Will Address Y. M. C. A. Meetings This Month.

Dr. T. Z. Koo, well known leader of modern China, will speak several times during the fifty-second annual convention of the Nebraska Y. M. C. A. to be held here Feb. 27 and 28. Dr. Koo is vice president of the World Student Christian Federation. He is a graduate of St. John's university at Shanghai, after that he was in business and then became leader of the student department of the Chinese Y. M. C. A. His service included the handling of the troublous times when the communist influence and anti-Christian movement were at their height.

FACULTY BROADCASTS IN HONOR OF FOUNDING

(Continued from Page 1) extension division, who came to the university in 1907, stated that there are now 3,000 students enrolled in the extension division. "Altho this method of education lacks the advantages of personal instruction and the contracts in rubbing elbows with one's classmates, it has the advantages that each student studies and recites the entire lesson and in so doing acquires inestimably valuable habits of independence." The dean of the college of agriculture, W. W. Burr: "I hope this sixty-third anniversary will bring to the minds of many people pleasant memories in connection with it. At the college of agriculture we have fewer students, but no less determination to take advantage of the educational opportunities offered. Another addition to the faculty in 1907 was J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the college of business administration. His message ran: "We do not forget our students of former years even though they are now scattered far and wide; nor do you forget your alma mater as evidenced by the fact that you are listening in. Best wishes for your success!" Miss Margaret Fedde, head of the home economics division of the college of agriculture, sent a message to all the 700 graduates of the department who are now scattered all over the United States and in foreign lands as well. She urged alumnae to send their correct addresses especially in the bulletin might be mailed to them next week. Fling Speaks on Changes. Dr. F. M. Fling, one of the members of the "old guard," spoke of the many changes that had taken place since the old grads were in school. "We are now trying to teach your children, as we tried to teach you how to find life's values. This is a good period to be alive in spite of all the storm and the strife." Dr. R. G. Clapp, for thirty years connected with the university in the capacity of physical education director, gave a resume of athletics especially in the earlier years when there were no paid coaches in athletics, when, but to the coaching ability of Booth and the outstanding caliber of the football players, Nebraska beat Minnesota 6-0 in 1902. Chairman of the department of chemistry, Dr. F. W. Upson, who was graduated in the class of 1907 and has been a member of the faculty since 1913, is also dean of the graduate college. He said "A teacher's thoughts go back to his students at a time like this. It is only a combination of teachers and students that makes a university; a teacher's greatest satisfaction is the success of his students." Alumni Remain Loyal. Dean Amanda Heppner, dean of women, spent Charter Day last year in Hong Kong, China, and her remarks gave her impressions at that time: "No matter where the alumni are gathered in the many corners of this globe, they are all still loyal to their alma mater. All is well with us. Wherever you are and whatever you may be doing—greetings!" Dr. J. O. Hertzler, chairman of the sociology department, came to the university in 1923. He said: "It is our privilege and pleasure to greet all of you. Those of you who have spent hour after hour with me discussing sociological problems I greet especially warmly. I would not take for these hours all the money people have lost in these past periods of strife." Concluding the list of speakers, Prof. H. C. Filley of the department of rural economics stated that of the 402 men who had graduated from the department during the years 1920-1930, 129 are now farmers; those in agricultural pursuits other than farming number 21 percent; teachers are next with 17 percent of the number engaged in such work. "To all of you," he concluded, "greetings."

PAYMENTS MUST BE MADE ON YEARBOOK

Manager Asks That Groups Pay for Their Panels Immediately.

Most of the payments on the 1932 annuals have been completed to date, but there are still a few that have not been paid, according to Russell Mousel, business manager of the Cornhusker. Students who purchased the books on the installment plan were to have completed the first three payments by Jan. 15, as stated in the contracts.

The plan offered during the sales drive last fall was for the payment of one dollar at the time the book was ordered, one dollar on Dec. 1, and another dollar on Jan. 15. The balance to be paid when the book is delivered. "It will not be long now, until we will have to send in the order for the 1932 books, and when we do we are going to order only the number of books that have been paid for. The students who are behind in their payments had better see that all payments are made up within the next few days or we will not be able to order a book for them," he said.

Mousel also called attention to the payments due from the sororities and fraternities for their panels in the new annual. He pointed out that no panels can be sent to the engravers unless the money for the engraving costs has been paid. He requested that the sororities and fraternities give their attention to this matter as soon as possible, as the delay will necessarily slow up the production of the book.

Another article is about a graduate student who came here from Russia to study plant pathology and another by the associate editor that tells of the life of one of our professors when he was a forest ranger several years ago. GOEDS TO TAKE PART IN JUNIOR AK-SAR-BEN Shetland Pony Showmanship Contest Will Attract Several Girls.

Nearly ten high bred Shetland ponies will be imported to the college of agriculture campus for the co-ed showmanship contest to be held in connection with the annual Junior Ak-Sar-Ben livestock show on Feb. 27. Manager Fred Siefert announced this morning.

Altho Siefert announced several days ago that a Shetland pony showing contest was tentatively planned, it wasn't until Monday of this week that definite negotiations were complete. A well known breeder of the ponies will import them to the college for the occasion.

It is expected that nearly fifteen coeds will enter the contest to test their ability to show the ponies. Manager Siefert has not announced what prizes will be offered to the girls but it is expected that similar prizes to those given in other classes of the show will be awarded the winners.

Fifty men students in the college have definitely entered the showmanship contest and are now busy grooming their animals for the exhibition. They have from now until the time of the show to get their animals in condition for showing. All drawings were made by numbers. All classes of livestock will be shown in the evening's entertainment. George Harrison of Havelock was the grand champion showman last year.

With practically a new building in which to hold the event, Manager Siefert feels assured that the event will be well attended. It will be held in the recently repaired judging pavilion. O. O. Waggener, agricultural agent, will judge the entire show.

Dr. O. W. Reinmuth, department of the classics, attended a banquet of the Princeton university alumni at the Omaha club in Omaha Tuesday evening. Dr. Reinmuth received his doctor's degree from Princeton.

OFTEN a serious strain on the parental pocket-book—not only while college is in session but during the summer. Here's an idea. It's literally true this year that you can live in Europe for less than you can at home. Plenty of pensions or snug little inns in fascinating spots in Europe will put you up with three meals a day for $40 or $50 a month. With the present rate of exchange, your American dollar does wonders. Why not spend the summer or part of it abroad and actually spend less than if you were at home? An excellent opportunity to brush up on your French—or your English history, or what not.

Getting over and back is not hard. Just about $200 in Tourist Class via White Star and Red Star Lines—on some of the world's finest ships. We'll guarantee you a jolly time. Seems to us that the summer in Europe might be the means of a pleasant reduction of the family budget and a glorious time for you in the bargain.

If you agree—why not try the family out on it. If you want more information, write us for our Tourist Booklet—or see any authorized travel agent.
