Members of Board Announce Changes and Rules to Be Observed.

MAXIMUM IS 15 POINTS

After an exhaustive survey by members of the A. W. S. board, in which they consulted with deans of colleges and advisors of organizations, a revised point system has been completed by which Nebraska coeds must relegate their participation in extra-curricular activities.

The court of the A. W. S. board, made up of the officers and one senior member, will have final jurisdiction over all points of discussion.

"The point system is devised in order that the honors and duties of campus life may be distributed, and to promote efficiency in the activity and group consciousness in a larger number of university women," according to Berenice Hoffman, president of the A. W. S. board.

ENGINEERS AND LAWS WILL HOLD JOINT MEETING

Final Settlement of Brown Derby Ownership Will Be Made Soon.

LAWS SENT CHALLENGE

Engi s Ask Neutral Party To Decide Matter On or Before March 3.

The definite resting place of the "brown derby," formerly of the Law school and at present in the possession of the Engineering college, will be determined at a joint convocation of both schools, at which time final settlement as to the ownership will be made.

A committee of the two schools will meet at noon today to decide upon a definite plan of procedure and to settle the claims of the two colleges.

Students of the Engineering college issued a resolution Monday night as a challenge to the Law school to meet them and to place the matter of contention in the hands of a neutral party, on or before March 3, and to decide then as to the ownership of the trophy. The brown derby is a Law college tradition and formerly was awarded to the man in the freshman class who made the "dumbest crack" during the week. The winner of the derby was compelled to wear it throughout the week until a new claimant was found.

The executive board of the Engineering college in its meeting Monday passed the following resolution in response to the letter appearing in last Sunday's paper: Resolved: That, since the Engineering college has in its possession one brown derby, to which it has just claim,

And since some other groups on the campus, specifically the lawyers, claim that the hat is being held without just cause or right of possession.

We, the Engineering executive board, will place the object of contention in the hands of a neutral party till such time as any interested parties shall present and establish claims to the hat which are better founded and more valid than those of the Engineering college.

Any such interested parties shall present and prove their claims to the hat, and final settlement of the ownership of the hat shall be made on or before Thursday, March 3, 1932.

If no such claims or action has been taken on or before said date, the brown derby shall become the permanent property of the Engineering college without further controversy.

The lawyers retaliated with the following reply, which was signed by the presidents of the three classes in the law college. The presidents are Glenn McKinney, senior; Thomas Dowd, junior; and Robert Young, freshman.

FIFTEEN TESTIFY IN SKALOWSKY INQUEST

Carelessness and Negligence Of Owner and Driver Is Result of Death.

(From Morning Journal.) ASHLAND.—After hearing testimony of seventeen witnesses, a coroner's jury Monday afternoon returned the verdict that the accident in which Leo Skalowsky, Norfolk, University of Nebraska student, met his death near here last Wednesday night "was caused by carelessness and negligence of the owner and the driver of the truck, but not to the extent of being a felonious act."

County Attorney Worrall announced following the inquest that he probably would file charges of having improper license plates and improper lights against F. J. Kiddie, Ashland, implement dealer, who owns the truck, but indicated he did not contemplate filing any charge of criminal negligence.

It was brought out at the inquest that county authorities had been handicapped in their investigation of the accident because none of the witnesses or principal parties reported it to the sheriff's office. Sheriff Mengel said the first word he received of the accident was after Ashland people read about it in Lincoln newspapers the next day.

All the witnesses except Fred Dolezal, driver of the truck, agreed that the tailight on the truck was not burning and most witnesses said the headlights were dark.

SCHOOLS REPORT STUDENTS HAVE SPORTS CONTROL

Council Athletic Committee Receives Replies to Questionnaire.

RECEIVE THREE REPLIES

M. I. T., South Carolina and Louisiana Reply With Information.

Almost complete control and regulation of athletic policies is exercised by students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, according to a letter received recently by Art Wolf, chairman of the Student council committee on athletic relations. The council is conducting a campaign to secure student representation on the athletic board of control here.

Athletics at M. I. T. are governed by two bodies, the letter reads. These bodies are the undergraduate managers, captains of teams, and an executive committee of men from the senior class. This organization, through the managers, controls the details of athletic management.

The other governing body, known as the advisory council, consists of four graduates of the institution and three undergraduates. It acts in an advisory capacity. Under the existing system the management is practically in the control of the undergraduates, but the advisory council retains authority sufficient to take over the control if necessary, according to Thomas B. Rhines, president of the undergraduate athletic association.

Carolina Students On Board. Three students compose one-third of the membership of the athletic council at the University of North Carolina, according to Mayne Albright, president of the student government at that institution. These students have served since the organization of the council.

The president of the student body and the president of the athletic association, both elected by the students, serve on the board. The third student member is elected by the monogram club, an organization of lettermen.

Student representatives are full voting members in all matters concerning athletics at the university, including the selection and salaries of coaches and the arranging of schedules. The influence of students on the board has been noticeable, Albright stated.

"Student interest and expression through their representatives on the council has been adequate," Albright stated in his letter. "The representatives have interpreted the student sentiment to other members; they have usually followed the advice of older men but have at times persuaded them to change their policies. Very few conflicts arise in the council."

Two students are members of the athletic board of control at Louisiana state university, according to a letter received from Robert E. Jennings, president of the Student council at that school. They are elected annually.

The two representatives, the president of the student body and the president of the athletic association, have equal voting power with other members of the association, and they serve the purpose of effectively presenting the student viewpoint, the letter reads.

PLAYERS WILL GIVE 'THREE SUNS WEST'

Production by Yenne Will Be April Offering At Temple.

Scenes from days when the cowboy was the hero of the southwest constitute the background for the next University Players production, "Three Suns West." The play, a comedy, is the work of Herbert A. Yenne.

Announcement of the production yesterday from the office of Charles Hoff, Players' manager, indicated that the play would be produced the week of March 28 to April 2.

Mr. Yenne, who has spent part of his summer vacation in New Mexico for a number of years, is adequately equipped to write of the frontier period of the southwest. "He has become intimately associated with the Indians," says the bulletin announcing the next show, "having served as secretary of the inter-tribal ceremonials."

K F O R PLANS TO BROADCAST DEBATE

Four Students Discuss the League of Nations Wednesday.

On invitation of radio station KFOR four students from the regular class in debate, English 104, will speak on the League of Nations on Wednesday afternoon beginning at 2:30. This is one of the ways that the students of the university who are not engaged in the intercollegiate debating can secure practice in the art of argument, according to Prof. H. A. White.

Each season several similar debates are held, most of them being usually scheduled before some club or off-campus audiences or at some radio station.

The object is to provide information to the public on questions of the day. On Wednesday the teams will be made up of Virgil J. Witse and Howard L. Holtzendorff, affirmative, and Leslie P. Sorenson and Gordon S. Seniff, negative.

GREEK GROUPS ASKED TO VOTE ON DEBATE

Nebraskan Seeks Opinions Of Fraternities and Sororities.

WHITE FAVORS PROJECT

All of the fraternities and sororities on the campus were called by the Daily Nebraskan yesterday afternoon and requested to bring the matter of intramural debate before their meetings. An effort is being made to ascertain the amount of interest there is in the project and the support that the extra curricular activity would have if it were adopted.

A box calling for the sentiment of the various groups has been printed in the Daily Nebraskan for the past few days. Answers have been received from several organizations. It is hoped that all of the groups will cooperate so that a universal expression of the stand of the organizations may be found.

The opinions of representative men on the campus were printed last week. It was found out at that time that debating could be established as a regular intramural project if the student interest warranted it. Rudolf Vogeler, head of the intramurals, signified his willingness to include debate in the other activities if the students demanded it and said that he would cooperate with them in establishing it.

Opinions Favorable. The opinions of the men interviewed last week seemed to indicate that there are enough fraternity men and sorority women who are interested in the forensic art and who would support it.

The value of debate was agreed upon by all of the students. Lack of the spare time in which to prepare for the proposed debates was the principal defect pointed out.

Professor E. F. Schramm of Geology Department Describes Beauties and Customs of Guatemala in Tropics

BY BOYD KREWSON.

"The boys on our campus who object to military drill can thank their lucky stars that they are not native Guatemalans," stated Prof. E. F. Schramm, of the geology department of the university, in a talk recently before a fraternity. "Down there military service is compulsory for all men from eighteen to thirty years of age. That period of their lives must be spent in the active service, and from the latter age to fifty in the reserve. They don't worry much about the reserve because they usually die before they are fifty years of age. Privates in the army are dressed in ill-fitting cheap uniforms which look like blue overalls, and all of them go barefoot. I do not know whether the soldiers go barefoot due to insufficient funds in the army exchequer or because it enables them to retreat more rapidly," the professor stated.

"You are safer in Guatemala or any other place in the tropics than in the United States for you have little or no chance to be run down by a rattle-trap car, which may (Continued on Page 3.)
