The Projection Booth

By John Quinn.

Movie presentations at the Lincoln theaters this coming week offer great variety in entertainment. At the Stuart "Dance Team" gives fans an inside view of the professional hoofers' work with James Dunn and Sally Eilers acting the dancers.

"Dance Team," Stuart.

A light, amusing, entertaining yarn is unfolded under this professional title. The story is apt to leave the fan with a pleasing, inconsequential satisfaction at being temporarily delightedly entertained. It will leave little of a lasting dramatic impression.

"Tonight or Never," State, First Half.

Here is the story of an American opera singer attempting to reach the heights of accomplishment on the European stage, but failing because she lacks the incentive of that great emotion, love.

"The Unholy Garden" State, Last Half.

A clever crook and his less clever accomplice are forced to take refuge in an isolated desert mecca where several others of their kind are similarly confined.

"Broken Lullaby" Lincoln.

This production serves to show one phase of the folly and inhumanity of war. It is the story of a soldier who has killed a German in a hand to hand combat, and his attempt at restitution for his action.

at Westminster house Saturday afternoon with Dean K. Leland reading the service. The couple formerly attended the university, where she is a member of Alpha Phi and Mortar Board, and he with Alpha Gamma Rho. She is taking graduate work at the university.

lip Holmes adds another unhappy characterization to his career as the haunted and mentally torn soldier, and Nancy Carroll plays the German sweetheart. The film was first released under the title "The Man I Killed" and is from the popular novel by that name.

"Cock of the Air" Orpheum.

The air corps serves as the locale for this war time story. It involves a Parisian enchantress and the rivalry she causes in the ranks of the aviators.

During its showing of re-run productions the State theater will institute a reduced price schedule. The adult admission fee at any time of afternoon or evening will be twenty-five cents, and children's admission price remains at ten cents.

ANNUAL ART EXHIBIT WILL CLOSE SUNDAY

(Continued from Page 1.) check room and shows five figures, the first of a girl operator who is still taking a few last minutes of sleep, the second of a girl who is hurriedly drinking a cup of coffee, another dressing, etc.

Some of the best known artists represented in the exhibition are Arthur B. Davies, who has three pictures here; Leon Kroll, three pictures; Ernest Fiene, three pictures; Ross Moffett, a former Iowan; Ivan Olinsky, two pictures; Birger Sandzen, two pictures; (Morrill hall contains two of his pictures now); Savelly Sorine, three pictures, who is a decided modern in painting; Robert Spencer, one picture; and Olive Rush, four pictures. The latter two artists are both former Nebraskans.

On Sunday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock the gallery will be open free to the general public. This is the last opportunity to view these pictures, as the exhibit will be taken away the following week.

BIZAD PUBLICATION READY

College Newspaper Will Be Distributed Wednesday Jones Announces.

The Bizad News, publication of the College of Business Administration, is to appear on the campus Wednesday, March 16, according to Pierce Jones, head of the Bizad Executive Board.

Features of this issue include an article by Walter Keller, graduate student from Switzerland; a review of his doctor's thesis by E. R. McCartney, instructor in economics; and an article "Bizad Students in Outside Activities," by Bertha Debus, junior in the college.

About 800 copies are to be distributed among the Bizad students, says Jones. The paper is put out at no cost to the students as the advertising pays for the cost of publishing, he explained.

SPRING AWGWAN PRINTS SECTION OF CAMPUS GORE

The staff of the Awgwan stated that they hoped that they would be able to continue with the enlarged Awgwan as it not only adds to the prestige of the magazine but enables the staff to print more student contributions.

The cover of the spring Awgwan, in order to fit in with the theme pictures a woodland gnome in colors on a background of solid black. The cover was printed in New York and was received last week. It was drawn by Marvin Robinson.

Among the new features of the most colorful Awgwan of the year is a new page in which several prominent girls will be pictured. The same page will be continued in all of the editions for the rest of the year. The Campus Tempo section is to be augmented in this number with illustrations of the material contained in the department.

Several new contributors will make their debut in this issue. Among the contributors are: Leavitt Dearborn, Francis Cunningham, J. T. Coffee, Francis Byron, Katherine Howard and many others.
