Outstanding among campus events for the remainder of the semester are the traditional Ivy day activities, which will start at 9 o'clock and continue until late in the afternoon of Thursday, May 5. The annual Interfraternity sing, sponsored by Kosmet Klub, will begin at 9 o'clock. Entries in the contest have not been closed yet, but approximately twenty fraternities are expected to enter the competition. Beta Theta Pi has won the sing for the last two years.

Following the ceremony of crowning the queen, the winner of the Ivy Day poem contest sponsored annually by Mortar Board society, will be escorted to the throne where the winning poem will be read to the queen.

Last year it was held on the same night on which the Animal Husbandry building burned. A report from the committee which was appointed to secure medals for the judging teams which were honored at the annual Agriculture College honor convocation will also be heard at the meeting. POOL DENIES PINES WON'T THRIVE HERE

Botanist Explains Work of Late Dr. Bessey in Tree-Planting.

REFUTES M'CULLOUGH

In a statement released Monday, Dr. K. Pool, chairman of the advisory department took issue with a statement made by Col. T. W. McCullough, speaker on the Nebraska City Arbor day program in which he contended that pine trees would not grow in the Nebraska sand hills.

Dr. Pool, a close friend of the late Charles E. Bessey also declared that it was not at all ironic that the Hulse nursery was named after Dr. Bessey. According to Dr. Pool, it was only because of Dr. Bessey's intense interest in the matter that the government in 1891 sent a shipment of Jack pines to the state in the middle of winter asking that they be planted in the sand hills.

Altho Dr. Bessey had no direct contact with any ranchmen in the sandhill country, he finally succeeded in sending the trees to the Bruner ranch in the hills region near Swan, Holt county, and the experiment was so successful that Dr. Bessey advocated the government undertake tree planting in the sand hills on a large scale.

SCHOLASTIC RANKINGS TO BE RELEASED SOON

Dean Harper Will Announce Group Standings First of Next Week.

COMPUTE ALL AVERAGES

Announcement of the relative scholastic rating of all undergraduate groups for the first semester of 1931-1932 will be released probably about the first of next week, Dean W. C. Harper, assistant to the dean of student affairs, stated yesterday.

The groups included in the report are literary societies, professional fraternities, social fraternities, social sororities, women's dormitories, and professional sororities. In addition, the all sorority, all fraternity, non-sorority, non-fraternity, all men, all women, and all student averages are computed.

In determining the average grade points by which the groups are ranked, four grade points are awarded for each credit hour carried with a grade of 90 or above, three grade points for each credit hour of 80-89, two points for each hour of 70-79, and one point for each hour of 60-69. Zero grade points are given for each hour incomplete, one is subtracted for each hour conditioned, and two subtracted for each hour failed or dropped in unsatisfactory standing.

The report for the second semester of 1930-1931 place Phi Upsilon Omicron at the top with a rating of 3.127. Leading the professional fraternities was Delta Sigma Pi with an average of 2.803. The leading social fraternities were Sigma Alpha Mu, Alpha Theta Chi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Theta Xi, and Delta Upsilon.

Showcase Restricts Freedom of Archie's Reincarnated Shell

A one and one-half inch specimen of species 'cucaracha'—cockroach to the ordinary collegian, is reposing in captivity in the Daily Nebraskan office where it was captured by a member of the staff.

Cockroaches, let it be understood, are a royal and ancient order, dating at least from the Carboniferous period. They are usually nocturnal in their habits and almost any evening after 8 o'clock literally hundreds of them can be seen running across the basement floor of "U" hall.

The captive cockroach, which has already been given the name of "Archie," after the famous character in Don Marquis' "Archy and Mehitabel," is confined in a small glass showcase, ordinarily used for displaying the Sigma Delta Chi newwriting cup.

It is not expected that "Archie" will be on view very long for his diet during the first thirty-six hours of confinement has consisted of four shingle nails and one page of the Daily Nebraskan, well-shredded.

INSPECTION WILL DECIDE STANDING CADET REGIMENT

Past Record of Excellence In No Danger States Colonel Oury.

MOORMAN WILL REVIEW

Omaha R.O.T.C. Colonel to Examine Thursday and Friday Maneuvers.

The Nebraska R. O. T. C. unit will be attempting to uphold the standard that it has set in the past when the annual R. O. T. C. inspection by the war department is held this Thursday and Friday. For several years the university has received an excellent rating, the highest given, and it is the opinion of Colonel W. F. Oury this year's corps is better than the prize winners that have preceded it.

"Whatever rating we may receive I feel that the corps is in better shape this year than ever before. We have an excellent quality of men in the advance classes and an interest in the department is shown by the increase in the number who desire to take drill next year. There is almost a 100 percent increase in enrollments. Thirty students took the course during the last year without pay, so pecuniary compensation isn't the major consideration," Colonel Oury stated.

Col. T. S. Moorman, R. O. T. C. officer of the Seventh Corps Area, stationed at Omaha will be the inspecting officer for the local unit. He will select companies to carry out the particular exercises and manoeuvres demanded in the inspection. (Continued on Page 4.)

ORGANIZATION STEP ON BARB CALENDAR

Constitutional Committee to Be Selected at Tuesday Meeting.

CLUBS TO TAKE SHAPE

Appointment of a committee to draft a constitution for barb organization will be the main purpose of a meeting of the barb club representatives Tuesday at 7:30, in room 111 of U hall, according to Edwin Faulkner, president of the Student council, which is sponsoring the movement.

Representatives of barb clubs are urged to attend the meeting by President Faulkner and bring with them the names of at least ten other students whom they are representing. The committee which will be appointed will draw up a constitution to provide for central organization of the individual clubs.

Steps were taken to organize students who did not belong to fraternities following the appointment of a Student council committee after an actively meeting of the innocents society pointed out that lack of interest in activities was partly caused by unaffiliated students. The lack of connection on their part with the student activities and the unbalanced political situation were considered the main causes for the lack of interest in campus affairs.

Overalls and Ambition Characterize Students Small Arkansas 'Seminar'

Overalls are the common costume in the classrooms of Commonwealth college, ten miles from Mena and four miles from the Oklahoma line in the state of Arkansas.

CITIZENSHIP TO FURNISH KEY TO TUESDAY SPEECH

Den Lindsey Blayney From Carlton College Will Talk at Temple.

PRaised BY LOCAL MEN

Frankforter, Thompson and Oury Say Minneapolis Able Speaker.

Dean Lindsey Blayney, dean of Carlton college, Minn., will speak at an open meeting at the Temple theater at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Dean Blayney, who is a lieutenant colonel, will speak on "The American Citizen and the Changing World."

The Minnesota educator was induced to come to Lincoln by the military department and by his friend Prof. C. J. Frankforter of the chemistry department, who served with him at Fort Snelling, Minn., last summer. The Innocents society is also sponsoring the lecture.

"I served with Colonel Blayney last summer and we became good friends. I can't say anything too good about him. Besides being a scholar of note he is what is called a 'regular fellow.'" Colonel Frankforter stated.

Dean T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs, attended a national meeting of college executives where Dean Blayney was one of the speakers on the program. "I was more than favorably impressed with Dean Blayney, he is an excellent speaker and a prominent scholar. He has traveled extensively and is a man of experience. I am looking forward to his address as one of the best of the year."

Colonel Praised.

"Colonel Blayney is a nationally known scholar and lecturer. The university is indeed fortunate in having a man of Dean Blayney's reputation come to Nebraska. He isn't a militarist in any sense of the word and he has shown that he is willing to bear his part in the defense of institutions during the last war as an unusual record is born out by the fact that he received six citations for the American Expeditionary Force." NEW GROUPS NAMED FOR ENGINEER WEEK

Special Committees to Care For Traffic, Campus Development.

WILL HELP IN DISPLAY

Two new committees have been added to the various groups of engineering students who have control over the arrangements for engineer week. They are a traffic committee and a campus development committee.

The traffic committee, of which Dale Parks is the chairman, was installed this year to handle the crowds during open house night. Last year it was felt that many people did not see all the exhibits of the college, because they did not know where all of them were located.

In order that all people attending the open house may inspect all buildings and the work of every one of the several departments, members of the student body have been selected to be stationed at different places on the engineering campus and direct the people to every department of the college and aid in preventing congestion.

The purpose of the campus development committee is to advertise the week on the campus separate from the campus structure, which will be erected by the mechanical engineers this year. Elmer Lohr is the chairman of this committee.

American Disturbances Recall Those Of Other Countries' Youthful Revolts

The pilgrimage of university students to Kentucky mines, the student strike at Columbia university, and the delegation sent by American students to the disarmament conference at Geneva, raise the question whether American students are likely to enter the political arena, as students in many other nations have for years. Americans who are accustomed to smile benevolently at what they term "student pranks" would be appalled to witness student strikes such as those of other lands, where death and destruction are common results of such movements. In Latin America, for example, almost everyone of the numerous recent revolutions has been initiated by students with reform programs.

In Havana the student movement shows what it means to sacrifice life for a cause. The university is closed as it has been on and off for four years, because the students are in violent opposition to the dictatorship of President Machado. Recently the president announced amnesty for political prisoners, but many university students still languish in prison. At first the students merely adopted resolutions and refused to attend classes. But more recently they have inaugurated a veritable reign of terror. Students in the government high schools have joined in the movement, and as a result these secondary schools all over Cuba have been closed.

In Peru an organization called the Apra, composed of students, of young men in the labor group and of young women who are going into business and professional life, is urging a fundamental reorganization of the nation's life. Asia, too, has its protests by students. In China the youth movement resulted in the student strike at Peking, which was a violent protest against the proposal in the treaty of Versailles to hand over to Japan much of the province of Shantung.

The youth movement of Europe, like that of Asia, is in one way or another in revolt against the old order, opposing materialism with its massed wealth on the one hand and its awful poverty on the other. All autocracy, whether intellectual, political, industrial or racial is the object of attack.
