NATIONAL SURVEY OF COAL FIELDS PLANNED

Chicago Students to Lead Students to Kentucky Strike Areas.

CHICAGO, Ill.—A crusade of college students, bringing truck loads of food and clothing to destitute coal miners of Kentucky and launching an investigation into the conditions that exist in the coal mining regions of the south, is being organized on a nationwide scale by a group of thirty University of Chicago students.

In the face of recent forcible ejections and physical attacks that have greeted other student groups that recently invaded the mining region of Kentucky, these men, many of whom are graduate students here or members of Meadville Theological seminary, have formed a "Student Bureau for the Miners' Relief." They are encouraging chapters of the organization at thirty other universities throughout the country, will gather quantities of food and clothing during the next month, and will, in June, lead a mass movement of interested men into the Kentucky hill district. It is planned to hold a hearing with the government officials, miners, and coal operators on the scene, in an attempt to secure relief legislation and more human treatment for the families of miners living in the regions.

Questioned as to the means that will be used to avoid similar results of ejection when the university group enters Kentucky next month, Van Dyke, president of the bureau and leader of the movement, stated that he believed the great number and widespread interest which would attach to the project would assure them a hearing. "Our primary motive is to bring relief in the form of food and clothing to these families. Secondly, we wish sufficiently to dramatize, and to reveal information about these conditions that will result in governmental action."

DEBATE TOURNAMENT ENTERS SECOND ROUND TUESDAY

(Continued from Page 1.) Debates will be switched so negative teams will be hosts. Judges for the debates will not be announced until just before the debates commence, according to Professor H. A. White, debate coach who has selected the judges.

Varsity Men Judge. Judges who officiated in the first round were varsity debaters. The following have served as judges: C. E. Gray, Albert W. Seek, James H. Anderson, Harold W. Wynkoop, Donald Shirley and Woodrow Magee. Carl S. Marold and Howard V. Holtzendorff were scheduled to officiate but the forfeiting of matches interfered.

Debates will begin at 7 o'clock; main speeches will last six minutes and rebuttals four minutes. There will be two debaters to a team. Intramural debate is under the direction of Rudolf Vogeler, intramural sports chairman, who has been responsible for putting the plans of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary intercollegiate forensic society, into operation.

Semi Finals Thursday. Semi-finals will be held this Thursday and the finals will be staged next week. The winning team will probably be awarded a suitable trophy, although winning or placing in intramural debate will not count towards accumulation of points in the sport program.

The question teams are debating is: Resolved, compulsory military training be abolished at Nebraska. Teams alternate between negative and affirmative sides of the question.

Debates are being held in the fraternity houses of the participants so that forensic artists will be assured of an audience. Contests are scheduled at an early hour so students will be able to attend without interrupting school work.

It is essential that all debates scheduled for Tuesday be run off in order that the schedule for Thursday may not be retarded.
