Journey to England Shows Rotten Golf Courses Says Marni

"Golf courses in England are rotten compared with ours," Dr. Archimede Marni, of the department of romance languages, stated concerning one of his recent trips to England. "An American golfer would lose a dozen golf balls on a typical rocky, rough, English course."

"We landed at Plymouth, England, the very first part of June. Professor Marni accounted 'which is, indeed, the very best time for seeing it. All that the English poets and novelists have written about the luxurious meadows and marvelous beauty of Doveshire and Summerset counties were seen at this point at their best."

CAMBRIDGE STUDENTS TRAINED IN CULTURE

Exams Given Only Once in Three Years; Little Social Activity.

Students at Cambridge University spend more time for culture and thinking, wear caps and gowns to class, and have examinations once in three years. They devote less time to social activities than American students, observes Professor Donald Barnes of the University of Washington history department.

Comprehensive review after three years of education gives the student an opportunity to discover what he really learns," he said in pointing out that the Cambridge system of examinations is one feature of English colleges that is superior to American colleges. Our reviews after perhaps two weeks of work namely hand back to the professor a paper-like memorandum in installments of a certain quantity of "knowledge", states Mr. Barnes.

PROF. DALE IS TO BE SPEAKER AT CONVOCATION

Professor M. J. Merrill of the law college and formerly of the Oklahoma faculty made.

MINNESOTA DEAN SPEAKS TUESDAY NIGHT IN TEMPLE

The convocation will be held in connection with the program of the Mississippi Valley Historical society meeting which is convening in Lincoln, April 28 to 30. The convocation will be held in the Temple theater and will begin at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

Professor Dale received his A. B. degree from Oklahoma university and his Ph. D. from Harvard. He was a cowboy and rancher from 1896 to 1901. The Oklahoma professor collaborated with the historical research department of the United States department of agriculture and is a member of the Indian Survey Commission. He is a member of the American History association and of the Oklahoma State Folk Lore association.

As well as being a historian of note Professor Dale has written several books of verse and of cowboy stories. "Territorial Acquisitions of the United States," "Fables of the Tepee," "Prairie Schooner and other poems," "Rise and Fall of the Cattle Industry," are among his publications. He was editor of "Letters of Lafayette" and "Frontier Trails."

PROF. BARBOUR TELLS STUDENTS TO FACE TRUTH

ing the world round to the present time there are gross injustices being practiced to prevent young people from knowing the truth, according to Barbour.

As head of the department of geology Professor Barbour has a great respect for the truth and his talk centered around the trials of the geologist and his love of the truth.

"Whenever truth has to be concealed to bolster up religion then that religion is pretty weak," he said. He added that truth in science was sacred and that truth in theology was also sacred and that the young people of today should not be afraid to face it.

Professor Barbour reviewed the struggle of science to make truth public. He told of the times when scientists were punished for calling fossils by that name. They had to be dubbed "freaks of nature" or punishment would come to the offender. He related how all manner of hindrances were put in the way of Columbus when he wanted to sail around the world simply because people were afraid of the truth.

PHYSICS PROF. TELLS OF COLLEGE LIFE IN BERLIN

(Continued from Page 1.) he continued, "is based, in part, on the fees from the courses they teach, which means that each professor strives to make his course a popular one if he is to receive a much compensation as the others."

"In most of the colleges the student may choose his own courses, and it was quite common for students to change from one university to another because all of the schools were at that time under royal control. During the summer term many students preferred to go to some school in the mountains where they found more favorable weather. Credits were accepted without question."

In conclusion he stated that there were no student politics, no student control, but that local management was more or less democratic and the faculty had a large part of control over the courses offered by the university.

Stanford university men are raising a war cry against coed chiseling of grizzled professors in order to get their grades. Women are being accused of flirting and practicing other feminine wiles for the low purpose of raising their grades. "Coeds get their grades the same way Cleopatra got hers," the men claim in an editorial.

Kappa Kappa Gamma First Sorority Established at Nebraska University

Editor's note: This is the first of a series of articles on sororities and fraternities of the campus.

Sigma chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma was established at the University of Nebraska May 19, 1884, growing out of a local club which was composed of about twelve members. It was the first of Nebraska's twenty-two sororities. The national organization was founded Oct. 13, 1870 at Monmouth College, Illinois.

This fraternity follows a conservative policy, only granting charters to groups in growing institutions. At the present time Kappa Kappa Gamma has sixty-seven chapters throughout the United States. The chapters are grouped geographically into provinces with not more than eight in each province which are presided over by province presidents. A national convention is held in years alternating with province conventions.

Since 1926 an efficiency cup has been presented at conventions to the chapter which has most satisfactorily fulfilled its obligations to the national fraternity during the past two year period.

The organization maintains three funds: the Student Loan fund maintained by the alumnae as a memorial to the founders; the Rose McGill fund which is a gift and loan fund for members, and the Endowment fund which is a loan fund for the building of chapter houses.

Kappa Kappa Gamma is represented in various University of Nebraska activities some of which are: Dramatic club, Phi Beta Kappa, A. W. S. board, Cornhusker staff, Pi Lambda Theta, Daily Nebraskan and Tassels.

Prominent members of the sorority are Lou Henry Hoover, wife of the president of the United States; Dorothy Canfield Fisher and Alice Duer Miller, writers; Louise Pound, educator at the University of Nebraska; Emily Eaton Hepsburn, philanthropist, and Helen Wills Moody, tennis champion.

be afraid of the truth. "When you criticize your neighbors," he said, "be charitable, and see if there may not be some truth in them."

YOUNG ELECTED PRESIDENT OF BARB MOVEMENT

(Continued from Page 1.) the Innocents society which first carried to the student council the suggestion that the remedy for dearth of interest in campus activities must be found in an awakening of the barbs, spoke briefly at the meeting. E. W. Lantz, faculty advisor to the student council, was present at the session and also addressed the body on several occasions. Arthur Wolf and Elwood Thompson, editor and business manager of the Daily Nebraskan, respectively, were in attendance at the meeting.

Barb representatives, the original group on whom rests the burden of enlarging and perfecting a powerful organization of non-affiliated students, who attended the meeting are as follows: L. J. Gier, George A. Rogers, Dean Cole, Robert Morley, Harry West, Willis Thayer, Martin Lewis, W. H. Young, Wendell Cox and Jack Coupland.

Average Freshman Is 'Untrained Cub' Says Dr. Bell, Columbia

NEW YORK, N. Y.—According to Dr. Bernard Bell of Columbia university the average freshman is an untrained cub. "For the most part," says Dr. Bell "he cannot look at a thing and tell you what he sees and neither can he hear, read, feel, write, or speak correctly. Colleges cannot be expected to educate until the freshmen come prepared with these necessary qualities."

A six hundred dollar scholarship awaits the Yale student of "good character and promise." But the successful applicant must have the surname of Leaven worth. The scholarship has not been held since Obelin college, with an endowment of 1919.

Have Ideals. "A country without ideals could never have entered the world with Spain as we did, at the bequest of the American people, in the name of human rights and justice." In spite of our reputation for greediness, he pointed out, we left Havana without asking any pay and left it, at the expense of jeopardizing the lives of some of our best physicians, a healthful and beautiful city.

As another example of American idealism he pointed out that at the close of the Boxer rebellion the United States refused to accept the millions owing to it from China but requested that they use this money for the education of its citizens.

At the close of his address Dean Blayney described the American altar as he saw it with the foundation stones of human rights and human justice. Placed upon these are the stones representing home, school, church and law. Above these he placed the three branches of our government, the legislative, executive and judiciary branches. Topping this is a dome on which the letters "Service" are inscribed. Inside the structure is placed the American flag. To him this portrays the American ideal and he feels it is a formation possessing an ideal that is worthy of perpetuation and deserving of protection.

Traveled Extensively. Dean Blayney spent many years in Europe in France, Italy, Spain and Germany. He has also been in China, Japan and India. After eight years in Europe, during which time he did not see the American flag, he is an authority upon the sentiments of the peoples of those nations in their attitude toward America.

After arriving in Lincoln Tuesday noon, he made a detailed tour of the state capitol and stated that, although he had been in four continents, he had never seen any structure to equal it in the originality of the design and the perfection of detail. He stated that he thought it typified the middle west and its struggles and aspirations.

When the president of Wesleyan university at Middletown, Conn., heard of the $3,000 budget for the junior prom there his ire was aroused. "With so many men out of work," he told students in an address, "it is too much to spend for a good time."

From that day until this there have been efforts made to suppress the truth of science. Professor Barbour says he is harpooned constantly on different issues. One of the most constantly referred to is the age of the earth as the geologist's point of view evidently differs with what most people claim as the Biblical conception. White's "Warfare of Science" is a book which tells of the struggles of science to proclaim the truth and to this day people seize this book and burn it. Professor Barbour says that twelve volumes of this book have disappeared from his shelves and he now has none.

In conclusion he said that geology has had a tremendous struggle, that it is having a struggle and that it will continue to struggle. He urged his hearers not to

MAY 4 DEADLINE FOR W.A.A. STUDENT LOAN

Coeds Must Apply Before Wednesday; To Reveal Plans May 12.

WILL BE KEPT SECRET

Girls interested in applying for the two loan scholarships offered by W. A. A. should make application before Wednesday, May 4, according to Helen Baldwin, chairman of the scholarship loan fund committee. The scholarships amount to $75 a semester and are offered to sophomore or junior women.

Blanks should be secured from Miss Clarice McDonald or Miss Miriam Wagner, following a brief interview with them. Selection of the recipients will be based on scholarship, need, interest in W. A. A. and personality, and will be selected by the two sponsors of the organization. Miss Wagner and Miss McDonald, and the president, LaVerle Herman, and Helen Baldwin, chairman of the scholarship loan fund committee.

A complete explanation of the plans for the scholarships will be announced at W. A. A. mass meeting May 12 at the Armory. The names of the recipients will not be revealed at any time. It is probable that the same student will receive the loan both semesters, making a total of $150.

According to the present plan the loans must be paid back one year following graduation, and if they are not paid back by that time, 4 percent interest per year will be charged.

GREEK GROUPS WILL ENTER SING CONTEST (Continued from Page 1.) held the year before last were won by Beta Theta Pi. If they win the contest again this year, they will gain permanent possession of the silver trophy cup awarded the winner each year.

No fraternity has ever won the cup three times in succession altho Alpha Theta Chi and Delta Tau Delta have also won it twice consecutively.

Last year, for the first time, no specification was made as to the number of men a fraternity might enter in the contest. The Kosmet Klub expects to carry out the same plan this year, according to the president.

Ivy day was held on April 30 last year, but due to other arrangements for that day this year, the Ivy day will be on April 5.

(Continued from Page 1.) are in the dancing acts. Depicting the growth of Nebraska from 1820 until the present time, the pageant is expected to be the big feature of the 1932 fair which will be held Saturday, May 7, on the college of agriculture campus. Several hundred students are being used in the production. Prof. R. D. Scott of the English department and Miss Besse Steele of the home economics division are assisting the students in preparing for the production.

Finals May 3. The finals of the contest are May 3. The judges for the semi-finals and the finals will be announced at the time of the debates, according to Professor White.

Winning of the debate will not count towards the total assimilation of points in the regular intramural sports program.

The only eligibility requirement for participation in the debates that the members of the team be members of the organization that they are representing and that they be enrolled in school and not members of the varsity debate squad.

A questionnaire given Kalamazoo students revealed that: Jimmie Walker is governor of New York; Franklin D. Roosevelt is governor of the Philippines; Andrew Mellon is secretary of the interior; Charles G. measured up to my anticipated picture of them." According to Prof. Marni the friendly atmosphere created by the English people adds a great deal to the enjoyment of the trip. However, it was evident that there was a great deal of deception concerning the physical comfort enjoyed by the average Englishman.

Scotch are Witty. "Besides the ordinary places of interest we traveled thru the commercial centers," he continued, "thru Birmingham, and thru the lake countries in Scotland. Contrary to fact we found that the Scotch were very witty, as I noticed in the bathroom of a fashionable Glasgow hotel the following sign. Kindly report any complaints to the management. (Signed) A. Towell, Manager."

"A trip to England should be a part of the education of every student of English literature," he stated. No one has seen real subways until they have ridden on the London subways of three or four levels. The ridiculous walk of the guards in front of Buckingham palace would get a laugh even from an Englishman if he did not worship his loyal majesty so much. A visit to the Westminster Abbey, which looks more like an over-stuffed museum than a pantheon would tax the learning of half score of college professors. One can never forget the English cathedral countries which appeared more beautiful to me than any of the continental cathedrals because of their simplicity of ornamentation. All of these things could not help but influence and make a literature course more interesting to the English student."
