IVY DAY PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

May Queen Processional Climaxing Morning Program To Have Repainted Throne for Background; Fraternity Sing to Open Events.

HONORARIES TO TAP, MASK NEW MEMBERS

Innocents to Choose Traditional 13; Mortar Boards' Number Unlimited; Party Honoring Alumni At Coliseum Will Conclude Day.

Traditional Ivy Day ceremonies under the direction of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, which will occur Thursday, May 5, will be presented against a newly decorated and enlarged background, according to announcement yesterday.

The throne, which for many years has been of inadequate size and decorated in a monic fashion—unsuitable to its purpose, has been painted a solid color and the platform itself considerably enlarged. Draperies will be used at the openings and sides of the throne chair. A massively impressive throne chair which has been borrowed for the occasion, will replace that of former years.

Interfraternity sing contestants will meet in the Ivy Day playground, the grassy area between the administration building and University hall, at 9:30 a. m. to begin the day's ceremonies. Following the announcement of the winning group, and that group's presentation of one of their numbers, the daisy and ivy chain processions will begin at 10:30.

All senior women in the university are eligible and requested to appear in white clothing at Grant Memorial hall at 10 o'clock to carry the Ivy chain. Two representatives from each of the three classes have been chosen from sorority and organized houses to carry the daisy chain. The girls in this procession are to be dressed in pastel colors.

New daisy and ivy chains made of durable wire have been secured by Mortar Board this year, and former difficulties incurred when the chains were broken should be eliminated, according to Jean Rathburn, president. A picked chorus of representative girls' voices will have been directed by Herman T. Decker, instructor in theory of music, will sing the Ivy Day chant during the progress of the two processions.

CADET REGIMENT PERFORMS WELL SAYS INSPECTOR

Moorman Declares Himself "Entirely Satisfied" With Review.

Appearance of the Nebraska R. O. T. C. unit at the annual inspection lasting thru Thursday and Friday, April 28 and 29, was entirely satisfactory, according to Col. T. S. Moorman, R. O. T. C. officer for the seventh corps area, who was the inspecting officer.

The unit as a whole performed very well in spite of its crowded and inadequate facilities, according to Col. Moorman. He was especially pleased with the appearance of the regiment at the retreat parade Friday afternoon.

The inspection held annually by the war department covers both theory and practice of courses offered by the department. During the two days of inspection thorough examinations of work and knowledge of all students in the courses were taken.

Members of the military department staff feel confident the Nebraska unit will retain its rating of "excellent" which it has made for the past several years. A detailed report of the inspection will be made to the war department by the inspecting officer, and rating will be released in the near future.

Features of the annual inspection were a tactical exercise worked out by E. F. and G. companies late Friday afternoon, a personal inspection of the whole regiment Friday afternoon, and the retreat parade held Friday afternoon.

THREE SCHOOLS REPRESENTED AT BIG SIX MEETING

Iowa State, Kansas State And University of Kansas Attend.

FIRST CONFERENCE HELD

Politics, Class Organization, Position of Council Discussed.

Representatives of three Big Six schools attended the first conference of student organizations of the association sponsored by the Nebraska Student Council here Saturday. Iowa State, University of Kansas and Kansas State college were the visiting schools. Oklahoma and Missouri, the other members of the Big Six, were unrepresented, the latter because of a misunderstanding as to the date of the meeting.

Harold Denton, recently elected chairman of the K. U. men's Student Council, Eugene Manning and George Bond were the delegates from the Lawrence school. Representing Iowa State were Porter Hedge and Robert Cochran. Delegates from Kansas State were Edward S. Sullivan and Morris Dumars. Official Nebraska delegates were Eleanor Dixon and Howard Alloway. Phil Brownell and Edwin Faulkner were in charge of the meeting.

The conference began with a discussion session in Morrill hall, gallery A, at 9 o'clock. Denton of K. U. presided at the first session in the morning at which matter relating to campus politics, political factions, and the problem of the monopolization of activities by dominant organized groups were taken up.

REGENTS NAME HALL AFTER MRS. RAYMOND

Memory Former Director of University Chorus Is Enobled.

SERVED HERE 33 YEARS

Honoring her thirty-three years of service to the University of Nebraska as director of the university chorus from 1894 until her death in 1927, the board of regents at their meeting Saturday voted to name the new residence hall Carrie Belle Raymond Hall.

"It is only fitting that we honor in this small way a person who has done so much to forward the cultural life of the city and the state," said Chancellor E. A. Burnett. Saturday afternoon in announcing the decision to make the new residence hall a memorial to Mrs. Raymond, "Too often we are prone to forget those who have done so much for us in the past."

Mrs. Raymond came to Lincoln in 1886, and during her thirty-three years with the university as head of the chorus with the title of director of the vocal ensemble, she also arranged orchestral programs for presentation under the auspices of the university. For twenty-five years she conducted Handel's "Messiah," presented by the chorus at the Christmas season, an institution still preserved with Prof. Howard Kirkpatrick conducting.

COED RIDERS TO COMPETE IN AG FAIR FESTIVITY

Inter-Sorority Contest Is Again Scheduled; Plans Near Completion.

An inter-sorority riding contest will be an added feature of the annual Farmers fair next Saturday, according to action taken by the senior fair board Friday. The event was scheduled at the last meeting.

In past years the inter-sorority contest has been popular among University of Nebraska co-eds. Last year several houses were represented by girls. Jane Beaumont was the winner. A loving cup will go to the winner in the inter-sorority contest, according to Fair Manager Fred Meredith. Richard Faulkner of Lincoln is donating the cup to the winning girl. He has also been secured as a judge for the contest.

"Though we realize the announcement about the inter-sorority riding contest is rather late, we hope many co-eds will signify their intentions of entering," Meredith declared this morning. "Horses are being arranged for early this week. Some co-eds from Nebraska Wesleyan are planning to ride in the contest but it is hoped the cup will go to some Nebraska university girl."

Ralph Copenhaver, chairman of the concessions committee for the fair, also announced today that a baby show will be one of the main fun attractions at the Saturday event. Active members of Tassels, honorary pep organization, initiated twenty-six new members at their annual banquet Saturday evening which was held at the University club. There was both a formal initiation ceremony and an informal one, the latter consisting of extemporaneous skits furnished by the initiates when called upon by the chairman of the program committee.

The new officers are: Jane Youngson, president; Margaret Cheuvront, vice president; Anne Bunting, secretary; Lucille Hendricks, treasurer; and Mildred Huff, notification chairman.

The table appointments were red and white and at the close of the program each Tassel was presented with a white chevron to signify a year's service.

Unemployed Teachers Asked Notify Bureau

Students registered with the bureau of educational service who have not yet secured teaching positions should send in availability slips on May 1, notifying the bureau that they are still available for a position. DIRECTOR R. D. MORITZ.

The budget approved Saturday was compiled, according to university authorities, on the basis of income and of the budget for the current year, making all possible reductions in operation and maintenance expense and with the salary cut ordered at the last meeting of the board. This salary cut, which will affect 686 persons, amounts to 10 percent on all salaries in excess of $1,000 per year. At the previous meeting of the regents it was decided that a $1,000 exemption for faculty and employees should be allowed, while the amount of salary received above this amount should be cut 10 percent.

The total reduction of the 1932-1933 budget amounts to $162,494.84 and was attained by reducing salaries and wages $144,966.51 and maintenance and expense items of the various university departments $17,528.33. Of this sum $143,365.84 will be a reduction in expenditures of taxation funds. The balance of the savings will meet expected reductions in cash receipts.

While the total budget for the year 1932-33 will be slightly in excess of $3,500,000, Chancellor E. A. Burnett explained that but $1,727,294.55, or less than half, will be derived from general taxation sources; the balance of the income coming from student fees, departmental sales, federal funds, and other sources.

Ag Has Largest Budget. The largest departmental budget in the new schedule is for the College of Agriculture, it was explained. (Continued on Page 4.)
