

COEN PLAYS AGAINST HUSKER TEAM TODAY

One Time Protege of Tilden Now Captains Kansas Tennis Squad.

MATCHES START AT 3

Junior Coen, captain and ace of the Kansas tennis team heads the Jayhawk squad that meets the University of Nebraska racquet wielders Tuesday afternoon at 3 p. m. The matches will be played at the Lincoln Tennis Club, but in case of wet courts play will take place at the coliseum.

Coen, who also coaches the K. U. team, has enjoyed national prominence as a protege of "Big Bill" Tilden, and once ranked No. 8 in the national ratings. Wilbur Haegen, Husker sophomore star, will meet Junior in the feature singles duel of the afternoon. That Haegen's case is not entirely hopeless is revealed by the fact that Charles Davis, Oklahoma ranking player, took one set from Coen last week and had a 5-2 lead in the second set, only to slump and lose the match. Haegen gave Davis a fine match when the two met Saturday in the Nebraska-Oklahoma dual.

That the Kansas netters are a formidable crew was shown by the way the Jayhawks whitewashed the Oklahoma squad, 6 to 0 last Thursday. Three lettermen in addition to Captain Coen will represent the Lawrence outfit.

The Huskers will probably list the same four that met the Sooners, with Haegen, Mario, Davis and Miller playing in the singles and Haegen-Davis and Mario-Fling in the doubles.

INTRAMURAL baseball teams go in for swatting the pill, if a glance at scores compiled in recent games reads correctly. It is not at all uncommon for the fraternity bat-swingers to amass a total of fifteen runs. The prize tilt of the season was played Monday evening, however, when Delta Sigma Phi nosed out Zeta Beta Tau by a 39 to 8 count.

Ben Rehmar, who played with the losers wasn't sure that anyone knew the real score, as the players began to get somewhat dazed when the score passed the twenty-five mark.

After his team had piled up thirteen runs in the previous inning, Frank "Herr" Mueller, the red haired Hampton flash, offered to settle with his opponents for six runs during the next inning, but Rehmar would not treat with the enemy. Thereupon, Mueller's team went to work and ten mere runs crossed the plate.

IT was a neat bit of headwork and courage on the part of Ralph Rodgers that helped to win that breath-taking mile relay and incidentally, the meet, for the Huskers against Oklahoma Friday. Rodgers kept ahead of Hewitt, the Sooner 440 star, clear around to the last turn when Hewett challenged him for the pole. Ralph buckled down and kept the inside position, forcing Hewett to run outside around most of the curve. The Husker runner retained his slim lead to the tape. If Rodgers had allowed his opponent to pass on that curve, he would have simply handed Hewett the race, saying in effect: "Here, it's yours." It would have been virtually impossible for the man trailing to catch up, which Mr. Hewett discovered. "Rodg" must have done some heavy thinking during the final seconds of the race. Then again, perhaps it was instinctive.

Another Husker who did his bit in the mile relay was Bob Ostergard. In the words of Coach Schulte, "Ostergard ran a glorious race." No watch was held on the fleet Gothenburg runner, but Schulte believes it must have been close to a 49 second quarter. When "Osty" ran off the track in an attempt to pass his Oklahoma opponent in the stretch, spectators wondered if Nebraska would not be disqualified. However, it develops that the Cornhuskers started the race from the pole position, and so Ostergard was entitled to the inside lane. His Sooner competitor would not move over into the second lane, forcing Bob to run off the track in order to get around him and hand the baton to Rodgers.

CHARLIE DAVIS, ace of the Oklahoma tennis team which played here Saturday is one sweet player. Davis knows his court game thoroughly. He combines a smashing service with beautiful forehand and backhand strokes. Possessing an overhead game that is extremely hard to combat, the Oklahoman rifles off volleys and smashes for point after point.

Bill Haegen, No. 1 player on the Nebraska team gave the Sooner netman a warm argument for the first set. Haegen led 3-1, but Davis rallied to win the set 6-4. It was nice work on Haegen's part, as he was meeting a ranking player in the southwestern region. Playing against Junior Coen in a dual meet against Kansas Thursday, Davis held a one set advantage and a 5-2 lead in the second. About that time the Lawrence gallery started giving Davis the "razz" which succeeded in throwing the Sooner star off his game. Coen won the set and then took the third and the match. The Nebraska dual at the coliseum Saturday completed the season for Oklahoma. It was the first match for the Huskers.
