LINCOLN, NEBRASKA, FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1932

PRICE FIVE CENTS

MAY 25 IS DATE OF DISTRIBUTION FOR CORNHUSKER

Yearbook Office Will Be Open from 8 O'clock Until Six.

1200 BOOKS ORDERED

Everyone Requested to Call Wednesday in Order to Avoid Rush.

The 1932 Cornhusker will be ready for distribution Wednesday, May 25, according to an announcement made Thursday by Russell Mousel, business manager of the yearbook. The Cornhusker office in U hall, will be open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock Wednesday evening to distribute the new books.

About 1,200 books have been ordered and will be ready for distribution at that time. The Cornhusker staff is exceedingly anxious that everyone call for their books at that time, in order to avoid any last minute confusion.

Several new features have been incorporated into the 1932 volume of university life. The pages of junior and senior class pictures present a different appearance this year from the customary style of presentation. Three horizontal tiers of pictures are used at the top of each page with the names and activities of the individuals listed in three vertical columns beneath the pictures.

In the fraternity and sorority section, informal pictures of each group are shown as well as the customary panels of individual pictures. Actual halftone photographs are reproduced in the sports section of members of the respective teams instead of the drawings which were used in last year's book.

The book this year is approximately the same size as in previous years, according to the staff. Although the financial situation made it impossible for some organizations to pay for pages in the book, other new organizations have made up for the decrease. Seven major sections are included.

The last section of the book, entitled "Corn Campaign" is the traditional student life section. Reverted to the custom followed in years past the section uses as victims many of the well known students on the campus. The section will be illustrated to some extent. Arthur Wolf, editor of the Daily Nebraskan is editor of this division.

SENIOR'S HONORED AT METHODIST BANQUET

Kappa Phi Have Installation Of Officers for Coming Year at Dinner.

Senior farewell and the installation of officers for the coming year featured the annual banquet of Kappa Phi, Methodist girls club, Thursday evening at Grace Methodist church. More than seventy-five members, alumnae and guests attended the affair.

Twenty seniors were honored at the traditional senior farewell ceremony with Eileen Moore, retiring president, in charge. Prior to the service the senior members presented a tapestry to the group to be hung in the Kappa Phi living room at the Wesley Foundation parlors.

Miss Ruby Waters, sponsor, received a walnut what-not by Kappa Phi in appreciation of her services. Miss Moore received a pair of candlesticks as retiring president. The gift was presented by Rachel Baker, incoming president, who was installed for the coming year.

A lavender and yellow motif was used in the table appointments which included large bouquets of iris and novel favors for the seniors. The patronesses of the local chapter were special guests.

MOCK CONVENTION HELD

Northwestern Students Will Conduct Republican Meeting.

(From the Daily Kansan.) EVANSTON, Ill. May 16. (Special.)—A mock republican convention will be held by a group of Northwestern university students on May 24. It is to be conducted according to the organization rules of the republican party. As far as possible, state delegations will be appointed, and the final balloting will be by state roll call. Demonstrations for candidates are to be encouraged, it was announced by the student leaders.

Two meetings will comprise the convention. In the afternoon, the temporary chairman will preside and deliver the keynote address. Then the platform committee will report, followed by the representation of majority and minority bloc leaders. The nominating speeches and the regular nominations will be made in the evening meeting.

Two professors from the political science department and one member of the personnel staff will make up the advisory council. Plans are already being formulated by other students to hold a mock democratic convention.

DRAMATIC RECITAL IS GIVEN

Jane Schaible Presents Three Act Drama 'Elizabeth The Queen.'

Miss Jane Schaible, senior dramatic student, presented the three act drama, "Elizabeth the Queen" by Maxwell Anderson, in her senior dramatic recital Wednesday evening at the Temple theater.

Taking the parts of all the players, Miss Schaible did an admirable piece of work. Act one had as a setting the queen's study and the council room; act two, the same and the final episode, the queen's apartments in the tower. Following are the characters as they appeared:

Sir Walter Raleigh, Penelope, a lady.
A captain.
Sir Robert Cecil.
Sir Francis Bacon.
Lord Essex.
Queen Elizabeth.
Captain Armin.
Marcel, a guard.
Eliot.
Tressa.
The fool.
Aston guards, men at arms, maids in waiting.

PRIZES WILL BE GIVEN WINNERS OF COMPETITION

Individual, Company, and Platoon Awards to Be Made Tuesday.

ANNOUNCE DRILL ORDER

Final Arrangements Listed For Last Appearance Of Regiment.

Three basic students representing each company in the regiment will take part in an individual competition in the manual of arms as a part of the annual inter-company competition to be held May 24, Tuesday, starting at 1 in the afternoon.

The drill for individual competition will consist of the manual of arms and foot movements. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded for first, second and third places in the competition. Judges will be Col. C. J. Frankforter, Col. Cunningham, Captain J. W. Crispy, Captain R. G. Lehman, and Captain T. A. Baumeister.

Nine areas for the different phases of company and platoon drill have been marked off on the drill field and the field just north of the coliseum. Companies will enter the first block in the order selected, complete their drill there and move on to the next block. As soon as a company is through in one block, the next company will move in.

Officers Will Judge. Judges for all phases of the competition will be officers of the regular army, members of the national guard, and members of the Organized Reserve Corps. They will be assigned to different blocks for judging the competition.

A platoon from the Pershing Rifles company and another from the headquarters company will engage in a competition during the period in which the individual competition is taking place. Members of the Pershing Rifles will remain with their respective companies during the regular competition and later form with the headquarters company as a separate battalion under Major Milton Gish.

The prize for the best basic student in the regiment, who was selected in a test held Saturday, May 14, by the military department, will be presented to the winner by the American Legion auxiliary.

Honorary Colonel Awards. The medals for the three winners in individual competition will be presented by Miss Jean Rathburn, honorary colonel of the regiment. The bars awarded for company and platoon competition will be awarded (Continued on Page 3.)

Women's Residence Campus at Iowa State Embraces Six Halls and Two Lodges With Capacity of 800 Women

(Editor's note: This is the second of a series of articles dealing with women's residence halls in other schools in an attempt to give students a comparative study by which to judge Carrie Belle Raymond hall.)

Women's residence campus at Iowa State college at Ames, Iowa, embraces six halls and two lodges to accommodate a total capacity list of over eight hundred women according to information sent to the Daily Nebraskan for the express purpose of publication. All buildings are supervised by directors, but residents are responsible for the observance of self-made regulations through the agency of the Women's Self Government association, comparable to the A. W. S. board on this campus.

Like Carrie Belle Raymond hall, kitchettes are to be found in each of the six buildings for students' convenience, but unlike Nebraska's dormitory system, at least when completed, the Ames system provides a dining room in connection with each hall. The central unit of Carrie B. Raymond hall being erected now will be enlarged when additional units are added to the structure to provide a common dining hall for all 600 girls which the building will some time house.

Margaret Hall, accommodating 56 graduate women, has student rooms on two floors, but meals are not served in the building. Students, however, have access to the kitchen for light cooking. Mary Lyon hall houses 96 girls on three floors where hot and cold running water is a feature. Mary B. Welch hall east provides quarters for 120 girls and has been completed only since 1925. It is a fireproof building with a large, light airy dining room on the ground floor. On the first floor are an suite with connecting bath, but all rooms on each of the other three floors are provided with lavatories and hot and cold running water.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT GIVES SPRING CONCERT

Orchestra and Men's Glee Club Assist in Annual Program.

'FAUST' SPECIAL FEATURE

Concerted selections from "Faust" by Gounod was the feature attraction of the Choral Union spring concert, given Thursday evening in Grant Memorial hall, directed by Prof. Howard Kirkpatrick.

The University of Nebraska school of music orchestra, directed by Carl F. Steckelberg, and the university glee club, directed by Harold Hollingsworth, assisted in the program.

More than 200 persons attended the concert which Mr. Kirkpatrick declared to be an excellent performance.

The glee club opened the program with the "Hallelujah" from Beethoven's "Mount of Olives," "My Native Land" by Forcyst and an encore medley of Nebraska university songs were well received.

This concert was a step toward a proposed music week to be instituted on the campus in the future, according to Professor Kirkpatrick.

This concert concluded the public presentations of the school of music for this year.

The program was: Beethoven, The Hallelujah from "Mount of Olives"; Dowland, Come Again sweet Love; Forcyst, My Native Land; Glee club.
Gounod, Kermesse from "Faust"; Mendelssohn, He Watching Over Israel from "Elijah"; Ippolitov-Ivanoff, Buss the Lord, O My Son; Mendelssohn, Behold, God the Lord from "Elijah"; Choral Union.

STUDIO THEATER FORMALLY OPENS WITH FOUR PLAYS

Members Dramatic Classes Are Authors; Scores Great Success.

'KADDISH' IS APPROVED

Well Written, Portraying a Conflict Between Son and Father.

Playing to a capacity house, the formal opening of the Studio theater Thursday night scored a tremendous success. Four original one-act plays were presented by members of the dramatics classes and each was enthusiastically received.

The climax of the performance came with the presentation of "Kaddish," a play written by W. Zolley Lerner, instructor in the dramatics department. This was a powerfully written play, portraying a conflict between a Jewish father and his son when the son announces his intention of marrying a gentile.

Mr. Lerner, in the part of Avrum, the father, gave a masterly portrayal of the anguish he endured when he learned that his own son was turning against his religion. Jere Mickel, in the part of the son, in the heart of youth and love renounced his religion and received a stinging blow on the cheek from his stricken father.

The part of the gentile girl was taken by Dorothy Zimmer, who also showed the effect of mental conflict and strong convictions. Clara Christensen played the part of the devoted mother, whose life seemed shattered by her son's announcement. Dorothy Zoellner, as her daughter and a staunch adherent to their father, was the support of the mother in her anguish.

Son Dead to Race. The play ended with the Jewish father standing over the lighted candles saying "Kaddish," which is a prayer for the dead. According to his belief, his son, by this act, was dead to his race and so it was fitting that "Kaddish" be said while his wife and daughter clung to each other in tears.

The play was a stirring, dramatic production reflecting the strong emotions and convictions of a religious and intelligent people. The details, language and acting were all of the highest possible caliber.

The first play to be presented was "Sparkin'," written by E. P. Conkle, graduate student in the English department. This play (Continued on Page 3.)

Y.M.C.A. DECIDES ON 'BIG BROTHER' IDEA

'Y' Freshman Will Be Helped By Committee; Nelson Is President.

A "big brother" committee was decided upon by the university Y. M. C. A., at the final meeting of the year, Wednesday evening. This committee will help "Y" freshman to become accustomed to college life in much the same manner as the Big Sister board helps freshman girls on the campus.

Officers for 1932-33 were elected and are as follows: Meredith Nelson, Lincoln, president; Abe Walker, Omaha, vice-president; Willis Thayer, Omaha, secretary. President Nelson announced the following committee chairmen: Harold Soderlund, Lincoln, "N" book; Morton Spence, Lincoln, deputations; Al Adams, Lincoln, freshman council; Ed Lewis, Grant, Big Brother; Robert Davies, Butte, hospital visitation; Ray Meyers, Greenwood, social; Joe LaMaster, Lincoln, city missions; John Kudrna, Clarkston, books; Bob Harrison, Lincoln, world peace; Glen Yost, Sumner, world forum; Carl Grill, Paxton, directory and Herman Bogott, Crab Orchard, publicity.

The first meeting next year will be held the day before Freshman day.

473 WILL GET DEGREES

Diplomas to 600 Candidates From Kansas State in Spring and Summer.

(From the Daily Kansan.) MANHATTAN.—Names of 473 candidates for degrees at the June commencement of Kansas State college were announced here from the office of Miss Jessie McDowell Machir, registrar. The total of candidates for degrees at both spring and summer commencements this year is approximately 600, but summer candidates were eliminated from the list.

Eighty-three of the 104 Kansas counties are represented in the list, which includes 420 candidates for bachelor's degrees and 53 candidates for master's degrees. Fourteen states, two foreign countries, and the District of Columbia have representatives in the June class.

Bishop Robert Nelson Spencer of the West Missouri Diocese, Episcopal church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, May 29, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will give the commencement address on the morning of June 1.
