TASSELS DIRECT PLAYERS TICKET DRIVE IN LINCOLN

Youngson Divides Group Into Six Teams to Canvass Campus, Town.

FREHLING LEADS SALES

Effort to Reach Students, Faculty and Lincoln Business Men.

Organized selling of University Players season tickets will begin Monday, when members of the Tassels will invade campus fraternity houses and sorority houses. The girls' pep organization is to be headed by Jane Youngson, Minden, Kappa Alpha Theta, who has selected six teams of Tassels to manage ticket activities which will extend through next week.

With proceeds which they hope to net from the drive, the Tassels will go to Minneapolis for the Minnesota-Cornhusker grid battle. Funds raised from a similar drive last year were used to send the Tassels to the football game at Missouri.

Not only will the Tassels conduct their ticket drive in fraternity houses, but they will extend their activities to the campus and downtown as well. On the campus booths will be maintained in Social Sciences and other campus buildings, while at the agricultural college, a booth will be maintained in Ag hall.

Downtown the Tassels will canvass business houses and plan to open booths in order to reach the adult population of Lincoln. Another group of Tassels will conduct a telephone campaign which it is hoped will reach every patron in Lincoln. Still another group will attend organization meetings and canvass club members.

Appoints Captains. Jane Youngson has chosen Alma Frehling, of Hagler as campaign chairman in the drive. Subordinate captains are Margaret Buol, Randolph, Chi Omega; Alice Geddes, Lincoln; Donna Davis, Grand Island; Alyce Mittan; Helen Shelly, Lincoln; Delta Delta; and Willa Norris, Inavale, Gamma Phi Beta.

DAIRY JUDGING TEAM LEAVES FOR CONTEST

Group Competes in Iowa for Inter-Collegiate Meetings.

In quest of another national dairy judging title, Prof. Morgan's University of Nebraska dairy cattle judging team left Lincoln Saturday morning for Waterloo, Ia., where they are competing this week in the intercollegiate judging contests being held in connection with the national dairy congress.

After a series of workouts, Prof. Morgan picked his team members Friday. Those who are in Waterloo and will represent Nebraska in the contest are Albert Ebers, Farm House, Carlyle; Hodgkins, and Art Peterson, Farm House. No alternate was taken on the team for the contest.

The Nebraska team won the national dairy judging title at St. Louis last year when they competed in the national dairy show intercollegiate contest. Since there is no national dairy show this year the contest is being held at Waterloo in connection with the cattle congress. Dale Bush, Alpha Gamma Rho, was the high individual scorer in the 1931 contest. Victor Rediger, Farm House, and Jay Pierson, Alpha Gamma Rho, were the other two team members last year.

University Players Win Professional Rank and Right to Present New Plays After First Broadway Presentation

A telegram from the Incorporated Society of Author's Representatives, last week notified the University Players, campus dramatic organization, of its reception into professional standing.

Before this time, the University Players have been unable to secure purely professional plays, such as those newly released from long showings on Broadway and other large theatre circuits. Now that they have been given professional rating, the Players will receive all new plays as soon as they have completed their original run.

"Most university dramatic organizations have amateur standing," explained Miss H. Alice Howell, director of the university dramatic department, "and because of this standing are unable to secure the newest and best plays. Rather, they perform the operation of trying out newly written plays, plays that have to be tested, rewritten, and revised before they can be assured of successful production."

"Now that we are professional, we can assure our clientele that

INNOCENTS HAVE PLANS TO TEACH FOOTBALL SONGS

'Know Nebraska Song Week' To Be Observed by All Students.

REP CLUBS TO ASSIST Send Copies Husker Songs To Organized Houses On Campus.

"Know Nebraska Song Week" will be held on the university campus all during this week in preparation for the Ames game Saturday, October 8.

The object of this week which is being sponsored by the Innocents society, with the assistance of the Corn Cobs and the Tassels, is to make sure every student who is attending the university, by the end of the week, knows the Husker songs.

Three songs have been mimeographed and sixty copies will be given to each of the organized houses, where the members will learn the songs and sing them at dinner and other opportune times. A copy of these songs will appear in the Daily Nebraskan in a later issue. "Fight Husker Varsity," "Fight Fight Fight" and the "Cornhusker" are the names of the songs.

"These songs which are all original, having been written by university students," said William S. Devereaux, chairman of the rally committee of the Innocents society, "portray the well known spirit which is so prevalent throughout the middlewest, and by the end of the week, if the student body will co-operate, every one of the students will know the varsity songs. It is my sincere hope that the Greek letter houses will require their members to learn the songs."

He stated that it was the plan to sing these songs frequently at the varsity games and at rallies. "The 'Cornhusker' is our 'alma mater' song and should be our most prominent song. In the past years, and even now, very few members of the student body knew the 'Cornhusker' but if everyone will co-operate in putting over the song week, it will be a proud accomplishment."

Other plans are being formulated in connection with the "Know Nebraska Song Week" and will be in the following issues of the Daily Nebraskan.

RAMSAY PLAYS HOST FOR ALL-UNI PARTY

More Than Thousand Attend Second Affair in Coliseum.

More than one thousand persons danced to the music of Deb Lyons orchestra at the university coliseum Saturday night in the second All-University party of the year.

The coliseum was specially decorated for the occasion with orange and black streamers alternating from each end of the building. The orchestra was located on the stage which had been reduced in size to better accommodate it. Blue and silver settings formed the background for the orchestra.

Shortly after 10 o'clock Wally Marrow's vaudeville troupe took over the program and presented ten acts of vaudeville, with Wally Marrow acting as master of ceremonies. During the slight intermission before the acts, Ray Ramsay entertained the crowd with a few remarks and introduced the vaudeville.

After the stage show a thousand colored balloons were released from the ceiling and were caught by the dancers. The air was soon filled by confetti and serpentine. A new idea in university parties was innovated by Ray Ramsay. He acted as a host to the dancers, introducing strangers and helping them become acquainted to prevent the formation of the customary stag lines.

Chaperones for the party were Dean and Mrs. T. J. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ramsay. Jack Coupland indicated that he was pleased with the success of the party, saying, "We are pleased with the way the crowd received the entertainment and hope to give them a program as good or better next time. We feel that the success of the party rests largely in the quality of entertainment. This year it is possible to get the best."

Hart Jenks, Actor and Former Student, Takes Lead in First Players Production

Hart Jenks, New York actor, will play the lead part of Hannibal in the University Players first production, "The Road to Home," presented for the week of October 24.

He was the "Othello" of last year, the play that was acclaimed by the best of the Shakespeare authorities in Lincoln. Mr. Jenks is a former Omaha, who entered the university and gained prestige in the dramatic department and in the Players. Later, he became a member of the departmental faculty, but finally departed for the east where he gained highly creditable notice from the metropolitan critics. Five years ago, he returned to Lincoln to play the lead in "Caponaschi," taken from Browning's "The Ring and the Book." Three years ago, he was "Hamlet." Last year he came to the campus as "Othello." This year he comes again as "Hannibal" in "The Road to Home."

Mr. Jenks has appeared in four or five different Shakespearean productions in the east since his absence from Nebraska. While he doesn't claim that he would be a highly dexterous Ophelia, Mr. Jenks could be the remainder of the cast without undue strain. He has appeared as Hamlet, the ghost of the murdered king, Claudius, Rosenkrantz, Fortinbras, Horatio, and has understudied Laertes and the First Player. "Shakespeare has been the major of my life work," he declares.

Mr. Jenks has appeared in the east with Walter Hampden, Ethel Barrymore, Tyrone Power, William Faversham and Helen Menchen.

"I do enjoy working with student actors for they are really much quicker to learn than actors who have been long in the business," he says.

"The students are plastic clay with receptive minds, eager and enthusiastic to learn. They do not have the unyielding manner of many older actors."
