of Nebraska to hold the 1933 convention in Lincoln was accepted by the group.

McBride Discusses Sports.

High school sports writing was discussed by Gregg McBride of the Lincoln Star at the Saturday morning session. He explained the compilation of statistics for basketball and football and suggested the various types of stories to be worked up during the season. McBride admonished the beginning sports writer to be careful about commenting on the sportsmanship of the opposing teams and suggested as an alternative that positive comments are more suitable.

Makeup and typography of the school paper were the subject matter of Professor Gayle C. Walker's talk. He explained the types of headlines, recommended changes in style occasionally, warned against too consistent use of the balanced makeup, and stated that the student editor should work out his own ideas as much as possible.

Lo Warren Carlson, Holdrege, told the student editors how his newspaper was financed. The Holdrege schools have adopted a student activities ticket plan which includes all attractions for the year, including a subscription to the school paper. This furnished the staff with twenty-five percent of its revenue, while seventy-five from advertising. In this manner the newspaper is able to be self-supporting he declared.

Owen Analyzes Verse.

The increase in interest in verse writing among high school students was analyzed by Loy Owen, graduate student in the university. Owen has recently completed publishing of an anthology of Nebraska and Wyoming high verse and is also the publisher of a monthly high school verse magazine. He recommended the writing of poetry by high school students as the means to develop appreciation of poetry reading.

E. J. Beaurravage, Lincoln, led a discussion group on the topic of mimeographed news sheets. He gave a talk on the high school annual and led a round table discussion group following his address. Harriet Roush gave her observations of the average high school editorial page and suggested improvements.

Following the business session, the youthful delegates posed for the official convention photograph and proceeded to the new Carrie Belle Raymond Hall where they were guests at a special luncheon. The final event of the two day meeting was the Iowa State-Nebraska football game which was attended by the entire group.

Total Amounts to 135.

Total registration amounted to 135 official delegates, although the banquet was attended by about 160 students and sponsors.

A bus tour of the city Friday morning included visits to the Lincoln Newspapers, the state cap-

That was a narrow squeak against Iowa State Saturday afternoon. A tough line and Dick Grefe just about sums up the Ames team, it was enough to prevent Nebraska from making anything even remotely describing a sparkling exhibition. This boy Grefe spent a very busy afternoon at Memorial stadium. He carried the ball about three-fourths of the time that his eleven was endeavoring to pierce the Cornhusker line, and then he was also conspicuous in the punting and passes phases of the game. Defensively his time was well taken up, as he batted down more than one pass headed by the Scarlet backs. A fine player is Richard.

It is my fervid hope that Saturday's opener will not be typical of the remaining games on the schedule this fall. These games in which the Huskers barely are able to withstand last minute rallies of opponents produce plenty of thrills and chills, but just the same, one never knows when someone will connect with a pass and presto goes the ball game.

Nebraska teams have never been able to throw off that feeling that conference teams are not to be taken seriously. They fail to get excited about their Big Six rivals, while the latter are striving to play their best.

was called back, however and Nebraska was penalized fifteen yards for holding. The Huskers made a determined comeback, with Mathis going twelve yards on a double reverse, placing the ball on the 3-yard stripe. On the next two plays Sauer and Boswell found a strategy. Iowa State taking possession on the 4-yard line.

Start Early Advance.

Starting from their own 41-yard line early in the third quarter, the Scarlet backfield advanced down the field to the 7-yard marker in what was the only semblance of a sustained drive. Boswell's twenty-eight yard end sweep and Masterson's thirteen yard smash through center featured, but the Ames line-men got busy again and stopped up the holes. A pass from Sauer to Boswell was incomplete in the end zone.

Besides Hulbert, the outstanding performers in the Nebraska line were Ely, DeBus, Bishop and Penney. The Husker ball carrying burden was shouldered by Sauer, Masterson, Boswell and Mathis, the starting backfield. Dick Grefe was practically the whole show for his team, the 157 pound quarter doing all the punting while in the game, in addition to most of the passing and running.

FORMER YALE COACH RUNS FOR CONGRESS

Tad Jones Nominated for Representative by Republicans.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (IP). T. A. D. "Tad" Jones, one of the most famous of Yale football coaches who retired two years ago to go into the coal business here, was nominated at the republican convention here as a candidate for the seat in congress held by Representative John Q. Tilson.

Tilson, who lost his party leadership in the last session of congress to Bertrand Snell of New York recently announced his retirement after twenty-two years in congress. Tilson himself placed Jones' name in nomination.

In accepting the nomination, Coach Jones said:

"I have long been an advocate of temperance, and I still hold that view. I have a strong conviction, however, that real temperance cannot be obtained thru legislation and therefore I am unalterably opposed to the present prohibition law—the eighteenth amendment."

Tilson, placing Jones in nomination, said:

"This might be called the celebration of my passing out. If it is a funeral, it is the most joyous I ever attended."

CLASS VISITS OMAHA LANDSCAPE GARDENS

Home Economics Group Tours Marshall Nurseries.

A trip to the Marshall nurseries of Omaha was recently made by the home economics class 231, in connection with their study of art, in connection with their study of art, in connection with their study of art. A series of lessons has been completed which dealt with the principles of landscape gardening.

The class was given an opportunity at the nurseries to learn how principles which they had learned were used in actual practice. The layout of plants, and the design of the gardens, were observed. The rock used in the construction of garden pools is a petrified plant growth from Ohio quarries used because of its unique appearance and because it is extremely porous.

A later trip was made to the home of Joseph Wishart, on Sheridan Blvd., to observe his garden. Other trips are being planned for the near future.

DIRECTOR STARTS COURSES

Ten Men Will Receive Dairy Manufacturing Training At Ag College.

At least ten men will receive dairy manufacturing training at the college of agriculture during the six fall, winter and spring months, according to H. K. Douvan, director of short courses at the college. Applications to fill the ten places are now being received. Men having high school education and those preferably with experience in dairy manufacturing will be given preference in the course.

During the six months the young men are at the college they will receive practical training in dairy manufacturing. After completing the work the men will be placed in either small or large creameries where they will work into expert butter makers, ice cream makers or general creamery managers.

COLLEGE LEAGUE MEETS

Auxiliary of City League of Women Voters Holds Assembly.

The College league, which is an auxiliary of the city League of Women Voters, held its first meeting of the year in Ellen Smith hall on Thursday, Oct. 6, at 4 p. m. Mrs. Ruth Davis Hill, the sponsor for this year, and Mrs. A. D. Schrag, former sponsor, were in attendance.

The College league is a discussion group devoted to political topics of interest to the woman voter, and will this fall center its discussion largely about the coming presidential election.

As Louise Wallace, past president, did not return this year, and Jane Boos, former vice president, is over, it will be necessary to elect new officers. This will be done at the next meeting to be held Thursday, Oct. 13, at which time the platform of the democratic and republican parties will be discussed.

New Rules Held Responsible for Scarcity Saturday Game Injuries

It is doubtful whether any Nebraska game of recent years has a record to compare with that of the Iowa State-Nebraska game Saturday, when not a single minute was taken by either team to nurse the injuries of any of the football players. Only one slight injury was reported after the game—a slightly sprained ankle sustained by Steve Hokuf.

Coach D. X. Bible, commenting on the lack of injuries indicated that he believed the working of the new rules as passed by the intercollegiate rules committee this summer were in part responsible for the record of the game Saturday.

"Of course," he said, "the boys were all in good condition, which had a lot to do with the lack of injuries, but I believe the committee's attempts to make the game safer are going to work out quite successfully."

Expect Prevent Piling.

No longer can backs attempt the strategic play of faking a place kick and then trying to pass or run with the ball. Many an injury resulted from this play, coaches found, because of piling. Piling is also expected to be eliminated when a player has stumbled or fallen to the ground and attempts to continue running. Under the new rules the ball is dead when the runner touched his knees to the ground, or when the forward progress of the ball is stopped.

Another new rule, the use of which was much in evidence Saturday, was the one which allows men to return to the game in any quarter. Formerly a man taken from the game was not allowed to re-enter until the second half, and if withdrawn in the second half his part in the game was completed. The new rule is designed to prevent the practice of leaving injured men in the game because of the reluctance of a coach to withdraw a good man.

Another new rule of the game, not considered of much importance, is the one which allows a team to use the dropkick for a kickoff.

Officials Consider Ban

CLINTON, N. C. (IP). The 225 students of Presbyterian college here, who left the campus in June rejoicing in the decision of the board of trustees of the institution lifting the ban on dancing on the campus, are eagerly awaiting the board's reaction to the recommendation of the Presbyterian synod of South Carolina that the restriction be again placed on the students.

The synod had before it, as well, a resolution to prohibit the students from dancing anywhere and to make it a sin for members of the church in the state to dance, but this resolution was defeated.

SOCIETY PLANS PROGRAM

Meeting of Palladin Literary Group.

The Palladin meeting, which will be held in the Temple building Friday evening, will be featured by a dance act given by Wally Marrow. Other numbers on the program will be songs by the university trio under the direction of Mary H. Thomas, readings by a student of the dramatics department and a piano solo by Eunice Marshall. The meeting will start at 8:30 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

FACULTY WIVES TO MEET WEDNESDAY FOR INFORMATION

Chairman of the committee in charge of this meeting is Mrs. L. W. Lancaster, who is assisted by Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. G. M. Darling, Miss Elisabeth M. Tierney, Mrs. J. M. Lawrence, Mrs. W. E. Lyness, Mrs. A. V. Molzer, and Mrs. O. R. Martin.

The first meeting of the Faculty Women's club will be held Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at Ellen Smith hall. The meeting will be purely social in nature. Tea will be served, with Mrs. E. A. Burnett acting as hostess.

CAROLINA RESIDENTS ATTACK INSTITUTION

Petition Asks Governor to Oust Undesirables From University.

RALEIGH, N. C. (IP). The University of North Carolina, which in the last few years has come to be known in this country and abroad as one of the most liberal state educational institutions in the United States, has been attacked on this very ground by a group of about 100 prominent North Carolinians.

The group this month sent a plea to Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, asking him to "save our state from further predatory acts by these so-called modern educators against 'things of the spirit.'"

The petition asked the governor to oust "the undesirables" at our tax supported institutions of learning.

"We are not attacking... the university," the petition continued. "On the contrary we are rallying to the defense thereof to prevent further poisoning by the enemy of these now attending or who may hereafter attend."

"It is up to you, O. Max Gardner, governor of the state of North Carolina. What will you do about it? You should do something and make public proclamation thereof from Murphy to Manteo and from the borders of Virginia even unto those of South Carolina."

Student publications at the university, the protesting 100 said, "are straws that show whether the wind is blowing toward Moscow, and whence it is coming—the class rooms."

Appearance at the university and the North Carolina College for Women of Bertrand Russell, British philosopher, and Langdon Hughes, negro poet, was condemned. Russell's philosophy was described as "the incarnation of paganism, dressed up in inveigling and seductive non-Biblical terms, and properly branded as neopaganism."

Governor Gardner indicated that he would do nothing about it except to turn the petition over to university's board of trustees. Dr. Frank Graham, president of the university, had no comment to make for publication.
