2,500 WATCH WHILE CEREMONY REVEALS MISS JANE AXTELL

Present Honorary Colonel At Annual Opening of Formal Season.

Jane Axtell, Alpha Chi Omega of Omaha, was presented as Honorary Colonel at the Military Ball Friday evening at the coliseum as approximately 2,500 spectators watched the American flag raising which revealed the campus choice.

The scene of presentation was dawn at an army barracks. As it grew lighter, reveille was blown by the bugler. A troupe of men poured from the barracks for the flag raising and the band appeared in the rear. Company sponsors lined up in front of the troops, the color guard began to prepare for the flag raising and a cannon was fired.

When the flag was up about ten feet, it was draped about the base of the standard and as the flag was slowly raised, Miss Axtell was revealed.

Cadet Colonel Roscoe R. Kruger, Sigma Phi Epsilon received Miss Axtell. Phillip Scott Sperry small son of Captain and Mrs. G. W. Sperry carried a bouquet of callilies to Mr. Kruger, who in turn presented them to Miss Axtell. A silver screen dropped from the ceiling displayed Miss Axtell's name to the spectators.

Four Review March.

Cadet Colonel Kruger, Miss Axtell, Cadet Lieut. Lloyd C. Moffitt and Miss LaVerle Herman, regimental sponsor, reviewed the grand march in which all of the cadet officers participated, while the R. O. T. C. band played for the march.

The coliseum was decorated completely in red, white and blue, producing a flaglike effect. The ceiling of the building was nearly covered with the large American flag measuring 85 by 176 feet. Red and white streamers were draped from the edges of the flag to the Sauer and Fahrbruch Pass To Husker Wingmen For Counters.

DALLAS, Tex.—Nebraska wrote the final chapter of a fine 1932 football season with a 21 to 14 victory over Southern Methodist university at Dallas Saturday afternoon, but a dazzling air attack touched off by the Huskers in the first half barely proved sufficient margin to win.

Steve Hokuf closed his Cornhusker grid career in a spectacular manner, scoring two of the Nebraska touchdowns on passes from Sauer and Fahrbruch in the first two periods. The Mustangs tallied once in the second quarter and again in the final stanza.

One of the oddities concerning the S. M. U. tilt was the fact that the Nebraska team realized each touchdown on a pass, while the Mustangs supposedly a strong aerial eleven, was the first outfit to score against the Scarlet through the line. Travis and McNutt alternated at the ball carrying chore in producing the Methodists' first score, punching their way through tackle and center from the Husker 40-yard line.

Hokuf Recovers Fumble.

Fumbles played a large part in aiding the Nebraska scores, Hokuf recovering the ball on the S. M. U. 37-yard line on the first play of the game. A Sauer to Penney pass gained fifteen yards for a first down on the 22-yard line. Mathis and Staab worked the leather to the 8-yard line from where Sauer tossed a pass to Hokuf for the touchdown.

A penalty for clipping slapped on S. M. U. gave Coach Bible's team the ball on the Methodist 40-yard line. After two passes by Sauer were knocked down, the Husker fullback shot another to Hokuf, who grabbed the pigskin on the 10-yard line and ran the rest of the distance unhampered.

Ray, left half for the Mustangs, fumbled a few minutes later on his own 25-yard line and Hulbert recovered. Fahrbruch came in for Sauer at this juncture, and the Crete sophomore flipped a pass to Hokuf on the first play for a touchdown. Masterson placekicked all three extra points.

A Cornhusker fumble late in the third quarter enabled the Dallas team to gain possession on the Nebraska 27-yard line. Short gains through the line were clipped off by the Mustang backs as the fourth quarter started, and then Travis passed to Ray for a first down on the Husker 7-yard line. Travis tossed an aerial to Fuqua
