

K.U. HAS ROUGH ROAD IN CHASE FOR TITLE

Nebraska, Missouri and Kaggies Must Be Met On Foreign Soil.

LAWRENCE, Kas.—Clinging to the lead in the Big Six conference basketball race by a narrow margin at the halfway mark of the season's schedule, the University of Kansas Jayhawkers, champions the past two seasons, face a rough and rocky road in the chase for the 1933 crown. Nebraska, Missouri and the Kansas State teams must be met on the foreign court by the Jayhawkers, and Iowa State and Oklahoma at Lawrence, in the final half of the conference double round robin schedule.

The three away from home games loom as especially tough propositions, and Kansas is also doped inferior to Oklahoma in the game to be played here because of having been beaten by the Sooners at Norman in the first half of the season.

Nebraska Game Tossup.

The game that will introduce the final half of the season is that with the University of Nebraska quintet at Lincoln Feb. 3, and in light of the fact that Kansas beat the Huskers by a mere three points in a recent fray at Lawrence the game at Lincoln cannot be rated anything better than a tossup. Nebraska has a veteran and clever group of basketballers and with the presence of Steve Hokuf, guard, assured for the remainder of the season the Cornhuskers are rated by Dr. Allen as one of the most dangerous teams in the conference.

Strange as it may seem to most of the basketball public who have come to think of the Jayhawkers as the leading team of the conference most any old year, the Jayhawkers of this season actually are younger in playing experience than any other team in the Big Six.

A compilation of players used by all the teams for their usual starting lineups shows that on a basis of number of semesters each man has had in varsity basketball, Kansas rates at the bottom of the list with twelve semesters while Oklahoma and Kansas State are the most experienced, each with a total of nineteen semesters of play. Missouri and Nebraska each total seventeen semesters of play and Iowa State totals fifteen semesters.

Final examinations end at Kansas Feb. 2, so the Jayhawkers will trek toward Lincoln Friday, Feb. 3, without benefit of regular practice periods for the full squad prior to the game.

Kansas follows Nebraska by meeting the Missouri Tigers at Columbia, Mo., Feb. 11, then meets Iowa State here Feb. 18, Kansas State at Manhattan, Feb. 25, and finishes the season with Oklahoma here the night of March 3.

HUSKER CAGERS SENT THROUGH LONG DRILL

First Team Scores Easily On Subs, But Play Is Ragged.

A long drill on plays was the fare for Coach Browne's cagers in the Wednesday afternoon workout, and some time was also spent on fundamentals in preparation for the Kansas game Friday evening.

Players making up the first five which worked against the "B" team defense were Hub Boswell and Paul Mason, forwards; Walt Henrick, center; George Sauer and Steve Hokuf, guards. Members of the "B" team were Herman Levinson and Irving Walker, forwards; Herb Hartley, center; Bob Pailing and Schick, guards. Although the varsity got through the opposing ranks for fairly easy scores the play was too ragged to satisfy Coach Browne and he plans to run the quintet through a stiff session Thursday afternoon in the final practice preceding the Jayhawker tilt.

Paul Mason, the Omaha man who was on the first five as a guard last season, probably will start at forward instead of Parsons when the Huskers line up opposite the Mount Oread flippers. Mason earned the post with his scintillating play in the Iowa State mix last Monday.

A second five faced a group made up of "B" team members and the Varsity subs. Members of this second lineup were Ken Lunney and George Wahlquist, forwards; Leland Copple, center; Bob Belka and Bud Parsons, guards.

FOURTH PRODUCTION BOASTS LARGE CAST

'Porgy' Promises to Strike Vibrant Note When Produced.

"Porgy," by Du Bose Hayward, fourth production of the University Players for this year under the direction of Miss H. Alice Howell, will strike a vibrant note in production, according to members of the dramatic department.

Boasting a cast of over fifty individuals, "Porgy" will be the largest drama ever staged by the players, a hired chorus of over thirty negro singers being the largest part of the cast.

"The emphasis will be placed on the spiritual life of the gull-negro," stated Miss Howell Wednesday. "We are attempting to bring to the stage a portrayal of negro life that few in the middle west know about."

The change of tempo in "Porgy" is rapid. In one scene will be portrayed love, hate, and passion, while next might show grief, terror and fear.

Scenic effects will be varied and unusual. Settings designed and executed by Bob Reade, Dick Page and Dwight Kirsch will show the court of a disreputable three story tenement, a room in the tenement and a palmetto thicket on an island. Costumes will be numerous and striking. The cataphony of sounds in the market place, the introduction of bills, offering far more measures than any member of either body of the legislature.

BILLS CONCERNING UNIVERSITY BEFORE STATE LEGISLATURE

The representative from Valley expressed extreme doubt that the bill would be passed, saying that the real purpose of the measure was to stress the need of retrenchment and economy at the institution. "I know that they won't abolish any part of the university," he declared to reporters in discussing his bill. He also informed them that, "I'm not against higher education. And the higher the education is the less I have to say against it."

Abolish Teachers College.

Senator H. E. Sanden of Omaha also turned his attention to the university, placing two bills in the hopper concerning it on Tuesday, the last day for the submission of bills. In S. F. 382 he would provide for the discontinuance of the teachers college and training courses at the university.

This measure is a reflection of the movement of certain groups in the state, who contend that the teachers college on the state university campus is a duplication of the work provided by the four state normal schools.

Withdraw from Organizations.

Another bill, S. F. 381, by Senator Sanden, would require the University of Nebraska and the state normal schools to withdraw from the northwestern association of colleges and secondary schools and forbid their holding membership in any such organization.

A measure which would eliminate the duplication of courses in state supported schools is Sanden's bill, S. F. 379, which provides for the discontinuance of the teaching of arts, sciences, engineering and other courses in the state normal schools which are not pertaining to the training of teachers.

A bill remotely affecting the university is H. R. 105 by Representative Lundstrom, which would abolish the legislative reference bureau and place responsibility for bill drafting under the attorney general with the university library to furnish assistance.

Investigation Begins.

Legislative investigation of the university began last night with the holding of the first joint meeting of the committees appointed for that purpose by the house and senate. The closed session of the joint body was held in the Lindell hotel and meetings of the group will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings to consider evidence brought before it.

Representative Vance, chairman of the house committee, said Wednesday that the opening meeting would be devoted to discussion of procedure. He also indicated that no definite charges had been made and that the work of the committee would be a general surveillance of the financial conditions of the university.
