COMMITTEE CONVENES TO PLAN CONFERENCE

Joint Group of Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. Workers Select Two Leaders.

Saturday noon and Sunday afternoon, Feb. 19, and 20, a committee of University of Nebraska students from the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. met with an Estes Planning committee consisting of Miss Stella Scurlock from Kansas City, Mo., and Harold Colvin from Topeka, Kans., the two field secretaries of the Estes Conference, in order to make plans for the annual Y. W.-Y. M. C. A. Conference to be held in Estes Park this summer.

Nebraska has charge of the conference this year. Bob Bowers of Kansas Wesleyan, chairman of the Y. M. C. A. Rocky Mountain Field Council was also present at the meeting. Elizabeth Schwartz and Rae Kinney of Doane attended.

Name Two Leaders.

Two leaders have already been secured for the conference this summer: Powers Hapgood, Harvard graduate, whose interests took him into the coal mines of Colorado, Illinois, and England, and who is now with the Columbia Conserve company of Indianapolis, an experiment in Industrial Democracy; and Bruce Curry from the Union Theological Seminary, New York City, a stimulating speaker on the Life of Jesus.

One of the special emphasis of the conference will be on the economic question, although a great many other present day problems will be included on the program.

Conference this year will be self-entertaining. Students doing their own housekeeping in cottages rented at seven dollars per student for the conference period of ten days. This will reduce costs so that the total expense for a Nebraska student should not be more than nineteen dollars for the ten days, exclusive of traveling expenses. Students usually make combinations for travel so that the car expense is comparatively small.

Because the "Tutors, Just Tutors" latest issue of the Harvard Lampoon resembled the general appearance of "Babies, Just Babies," new children's magazine edited by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, too closely, it has been banished from the mails, a recent press dispatch stated. Citizens of Cambridge protested in such numbers that the entire issue of 3,000 copies was held up until an opinion could be obtained from university authorities.

Judge Ben Lindsey will confer at New Haven this week with Yale authorities. The judge early last fall started a campaign to influence college students to marry for emotional stability.

NEW NATIONAL HEAD TALKS TO DRILLERS

Brown Speaks Before Joint Meeting National and State Groups.

K. M. Brown, Fairmont, Minn., who was elected president of the American Well Drillers association Tuesday night, addressed that group in a joint meeting with the Nebraska Well Drillers association in Morrill hall Wednesday afternoon.

Praising the work of the state geological conservation and survey departments, President Brown told the delegates that neither he nor anyone else could forecast what the future will present. It is up to the individual.

Referring to well drilling, he stated that prosperity is up to the drillers themselves working as a unit. He warned that there were hard times ahead and that in the past there had been too much stress on geological formations rather than on how the prestige of the well drillers might be raised.

Other officers for the national association elected in a meeting at the Lindell hotel are H. H. Brown, Blair, Neb., vice president; L. J. Faust, Kankana, Wis., treasurer; R. O. Monroe, South Bend, Ind., secretary, and P. W. Thrope, Des Moines, Ia., secretary of committees.

Following the election, the well drillers saw a three reel motion picture showing the manufacture of well casings and pipes. Then they were entertained with a Dutch lunch at the Lincoln hotel.

The Wednesday afternoon meeting in Morrill hall was opened by the president of the state association, Olson, welcoming the members. Brown responded and R. O. Monroe of South Bend, Ind., outlined accomplishments to date of the American association, including a code of ethics, standard specifications for the drilling procedure, contract forms and standard log forms for distribution to association members.

In the national association now are North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois, Indiana, Colorado, Pennsylvania and Maine.

Dr. George E. Condra, under whose direction the university is sponsoring the convention, was toastmaster at a banquet at the Lincoln hotel Wednesday, at which time other members also spoke.

Contemporary Comment

Most Important Process Of Government.

Universities are not the only educational institutions finding it difficult to maintain their standards in the face of the depression. High schools throughout the nation are confronted with problems equally pressing and equally difficult to solve. President Hoover recently called a conference of eighty representatives of industry, labor, agriculture, and education, which is referred to as the "Citizens Conference on the Crisis in Education." Its purpose is to devise means by which high schools throughout the nation can maintain high standards of education in spite of drastic reductions in income.

Increase in the rate of students in public high schools from 1920 to 1930 was at the rate of a new class of forty pupils every fifteen minutes during an eight hour day, according to the education office. In the two years since 1930, high school enrollment has increased 15.13 percent. Current expenditures in school systems have decreased from approximately $1,068,900,000 in 1931-32 to $1,013,600,000 in 1932-33, a reduction of 6 1/2 percent in one year.

Teachers' salaries in city schools have been reduced from $774,500,000 to $734,500,000 in the past year, a reduction of 5.04 percent. The average reduction for rural school teachers in the last three years has been estimated at 9.9 percent for elementary teachers and 9.6 percent for secondary teachers.

In order that the efficiency of our public school educational systems be maintained it is vital that the public realize that money saved on education is, in the final analysis, false economy. Our democratic government requires an educated citizenry and the cheapest means of educating the citizen is through an effective elementary and high school system. As President Hoover pointed out in his address to the conference, "Education is the first charge upon all the citizens and local governments. . . . The proper care and training of the nation's children is more important than any process that is carried on by our government."—Minnesota Daily.

REV. HUNT DISCUSSES FINANCES AT VESPER

Wife Must Cooperate to Have Family Life Run Smoothly.

"Making Rough Places Smooth" was the topic of Rev. Ray Hunt's talk at Vespers Tuesday, Feb. 21. This talk was the fourth one of a series of six on "Love and Marriage," given by Rev. Hunt.

Rev. Hunt emphasized the point that both the husband and wife must co-operate in order to make "rough places smooth." He believes that every family should have a budget.

This question was raised: Should girls ever pay the bill, or how about going "dutch?" It was decided that this problem had to be worked out individually, but that at the present time it might be advisable.
