DURGIN WILL SPEAK AT STUDENT FORUM

Organization to Meet at Temple Cafeteria March 8.

The Sino-Japanese crisis will be discussed by the next student forum speaker, Russell Durgin, during the noon hour in the Temple cafeteria, March 8. He intends to offer the subject from the viewpoint of American concern.

The experiences gained by Durgin in student activities as an undergraduate at Dartmouth college have played an important part in his career, according to information received. For the past seven years he has worked among the students in colleges and universities of Japan as a staff member of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., and attributes much of his success in organizing student groups to what he learned while on the Dartmouth campus. His work of creating fellowship among the Christian Japanese and Chinese students headquartered him in Tokyo, Manchuria. It is here and in neighboring vicinities where he has organized student Christian associations in twenty-five of the fifty-five colleges and universities.

Japanese Recognize Durgin.

Mr. Durgin has been recognized by Japanese authorities several times. He was appointed, several years ago, honorary secretary of Tokyo City Y. M. C. A. The fact that he was asked by the Japanese to be the honorary advisor to the Japanese Olympic swimming team last year is sufficient evidence of the esteem in which he is held. Incidentally the team, which won all events but one and placed in that, trained in the pool of the Y. M. C. A. of which Durgin is the secretary. When Colonel Lindbergh and his wife visited Japan the mayor of Tokyo asked Durgin to serve on the welcoming committee of the city.

Speaker Active in "Y."

Durgin has played an important part in activities of the student Y. M. C. A. and the student volunteer movement ever since he first entered Dartmouth in 1911. He was the campus leader of the vol-

YEARBOOK BUSINESS MANAGER STRESSES INSTALLMENT PLAN

Students May Still Enter Contest for Trip to World's Fair.

A liberal installment plan will be offered students desiring to purchase a copy of the 1933 Cornhusker during the final sales drive, according to an announcement made Wednesday afternoon by Charles Skade, business manager.

The yearbook may be purchased by making a payment of $2 down, a payment of $1 on April 1, and the balance of $1.75 when the book is delivered. Many students who would otherwise be unable to purchase a Cornhusker, will find it possible to do so through this attractive offer, he stated. The Cornhusker may also be obtained at a cash price of $4.50.

Skade states that these are the lowest prices at which a yearbook has ever been offered during a final drive, being a 10 percent reduction over 1932 price levels alone.

The drive, which opened Monday, has been gaining momentum daily, indicating that students realize that no further opportunity to purchase a Cornhusker will be had after the close of the drive. Impetus has been given sales efforts in that the prize of a trip to the 1933 world's fair in Chicago will be awarded the high salesman. The trip will include transportation over the Burlington's deluxe flyer, the Ak-Sar-Ben, and a five day stay at the Morrison hotel in Chicago.

Students may still enter the contest and stand a chance of winning the big prize, by reporting to the Cornhusker business office. Tassels, Corncocks, and members of the business staff are acting as salesmen during the drive.

Miss Lamour, who was Miss Orleans a year ago, and runner-up in the Galveston world beauty contest, has gained great popularity vocalizing with Herbie Kay's orchestra. She was at one time a student at Tulane university.

Herbie Kay and his orchestra come to Lincoln from a tour thru the south and middle west, where they have played at the leading hotels and universities. They have to their credit engagements at such leading ballrooms as the Aragon and Trianon in Chicago and the Black Hawk cafe in Chicago, besides being featured over the air on the Lucky Strike dance hour and the WGN "around-the-town" program.

Tickets to the prom, which sell for $1.50, were distributed to about thirty-five barb and fraternity salesmen Wednesday afternoon, according to an announcement by Lloyd Loomis, in charge of ticket sales. They may be identified by means of white badges bearing the words "Junior-Senior Prom Tickets." Loomis stated that the prom will be open to the public. Admission for spectators will be twenty-five cents.

Lyle Talbot Passes Up Education At College for Career on Stage

A few years ago a row of footlights scored a technical knockout over a solitary study lamp. At the time a few half interested spectators protested an unjust decision and predicted an early downfall for the victor. But they were unaware that the brief but exciting pre-college stage experience of the youthful referee far outpointed anything in his mind that the higher education had to offer. Thus Lyle Talbot, after completing a few months work in the University of Nebraska passed up his college education for a stage career from which he has climbed to be a promising new actor in Hollywood.

A current issue of a popular movie magazine devotes a complete page to Talbot and reveals the fact that "born in Pittsburgh, he moved to a small town (Rushville) in Nebraska, and later moved to Omaha. He graduated from an Omaha high school and immediately joined a small stock company," thus following in the footsteps of his parents, who were veteran stage folk. Later at his grandmother's urging he attended Nebraska university. But Talbot's first taste of the stage proved too strong and he left the Nebraska campus to travel as a hypnotist's assistant.

He soon graduated to tent shows that played through the middle west, the article continues, and for three years was "that handsome young juvenile who knocked them right out of their seats." This was the time that Talbot played leads with the Pierre Watkins Players at the Liberty theater in Lincoln. He is well remembered by many theater-goers here.

After leaving Lincoln, Talbot made an unsuccessful attempt at managing his own stock company, and after a few similar ventures finally landed in Hollywood. He has made eighteen pictures in eight months, some of which have appeared in Lincoln. "No More Orchids," one of his best productions, appeared at a local theater recently.

ENGINEERS HEAR SCHRAMM

Geology Professor Stresses Fact That U. S. Should Develop Resources.

E. F. Schramm, professor of geology, addressed a meeting of the Lincoln Engineers Club following a dinner given by the organization at the state capitol cafe. Professor Schramm's talk stressed the fact that the United States should develop some of its many heretofore untouched mineral deposits.

Their development would relieve the necessity of their being imported from other countries, Professor Schramm pointed out. Asbestos was mentioned as one of the products which could be easily mined in this country, but is imported in large quantities.

Dramatic Society Awards A Prize of Twenty-five Dollars to Author.

"Kaddish," by W. Zolley Lerner, was selected as the best play presented at the annual Dramatic club contest last night at the Temple theater by a margin of five votes. His drama received 108 votes as to 103 votes cast for "The Winning of Harry Jones," by Dorothy Cook and Margaret Deming. The decision was reached by a vote of the audience and the award of twenty-five dollars was presented to Lerner.

In commenting on the three one act plays presented, Miss Harriett Alice Howell, of the Dramatic Art department, said, "I was extremely well pleased with 'Kaddish,' the production of W. Zolley Lerner. His work is 'superior.'" She also commended Dorothy Cook and Margaret Deming, co-authors of "The Winning of Harry Jones" for their "exceptional" work in producing the play.

The other play "Wise Guy" she felt was not in accordance with her idea of the type of drama that should be produced on any stage. "While I was not in the theater during the whole performance I was shocked and pained by the
