

SCHULTE PICKS 19 TO PERFORM AT MANHATTEN

Track Squad Will Defend Big Six Champions in Outdoor Meet.

TRACKMEN LEAVE TODAY Three Carloads Expected to Arrive at Destination After Lunch.

The Schulte squad, defending Big Six champions, will leave for the first time on outdoor circuits in Big Six circles this coming Saturday night in a triangular meet with Kansas U. and Kansas Aggies at Manhattan.

Coach Schulte has designated fifteen men to make the trip south. They will leave Lincoln this morning by means of cars which members of the team or team sponsors are taking. There will be three carloads and they expect to arrive in Manhattan sometime early in the afternoon.

Husker stock didn't quite come up to expectations in the indoor Big Six meet, because of their tie with Oklahoma, but confidence has been boosted because of Glenn Skewes' throw in the discus at the Drake relays last week. He heaved the discus better than 135 feet to take third place.

Francis Ayres, former two mile champion, will be lost to the Husker cause as he has been ordered off the circuit for several months because of sinus trouble. He did not run in the indoor meets, however, so it will not be a further detriment to the squad.

The summary of the lineup: 100 and 220 yards—Lambertus, Lee, Roby; 440 yards—Roberts, Belka, Lee; 880 yards—White, Roberts, Funk; mile—Funk, Stroy; two miles—Stroy, Blaser, Funk; hurdles—Dohrmann, Lambertus; vault—Roby, Skewes; high jump—Gray, Toman; broad jump—Gray, Roby, Lee; shot—Hubka, Mead, Sauer, Hokuf; discus—Skewes, Sauer, Hokuf, Mead; javelin—Jones, Chambers, Hokuf, Hubka.

RODGERS PLEADS FOR LOYALTY IN IVY DAY ORATION

ly in the possible effect which may follow here in our own school. University to be Victim. "For of course, we all realize that the university will be one of the victims of the crash. The extent to which we will suffer still seems to be questionable. But it is certain that where people are cutting down budgets everywhere, the school will not be an exemption."

The need of appealing to the people was brought out by the orator, who stated, value to the downward trend of the budgets, and especially since the budget-cutting sword has been plunged to the very heart of the scientific, social and educational institutions, it is necessary for education to take a defensive attitude. The people must be gone to with the plea so that they may see what backed-handed economy it is to curtail the interests of education as exemplified by our university.

Appeals to Alumni. In carrying the appeal to the alumni of the university Rodgers said, "The great body of our alumni has chosen to disregard the crisis that is facing us. I should hesitate to say that the alumni of our university are disloyal, but I do believe that their loyalty is less active than the facts of the situation demand."

"He stressed the fact that if the alumni of the university are not interested in the situation, it cannot be expected that the people of the state will come to the defense. He stated that perhaps we have a wrong conception of the university. The university is much more than mere associations of students and faculty members. The university is not made up of smaller units within it exclusively. It is an immortal institution, which will continue long after all of us have gone. It is an entity. It is to the state what the brain is to the body, the center of research, a center of learning for the youth of the state, but also for the people of the state as a whole.

Will of People. Rodgers said, "The university is a permanent expression of the will of the people of the state. Probably the graduates of the university have missed this conception of the school in the past. Certainly the seniors graduating into the alumni ranks should grasp this larger conception." Rodgers then stressed the possible results of the drastic cuts in the university appropriations of the faculty of the university. He stated that although in the past the school has been particularly fortunate in having great men on the faculty, to keep the university in the high place which it has outlined for itself, great men must be kept as teachers. But if the remuneration is lessened to the extent proposed, more and more of these great leaders will be forced out of the fields of education and into the professions.

In this connection he said, "The young men of ability will hesitate to enter the field of education when the rewards are so far less than the rewards to be attained elsewhere. We are likely to lose the very leaders who have made this school a fine place for young people to be. I do not question the loyalty of our present faculty, which has been tested enough by this time to be proven. But there are other loyalties which can conceivably draw these people away."

Research Lessened. Due to these precesses, Rodgers pointed out, certain results are inevitable. The faculty will deteriorate, research will be lessened, and the very position of the school, which has taken so long to build up, will be threatened. This, then, is why the loyalty of the alumni must be stirred and the loyalty to the school must be so deeply instilled in the mind of these students new to school. And the people of the state must be made to see the vital need of the school in making the state great.

He said, "several reasons have been suggested for the lack of active alumni loyalty to our institution. The very reason is that the campus lacks certain beauties found in other schools. But this is ridiculous, for the university carries over into life more than any beauty of a campus could do.

Rodgers then pointed out that the largeness of the school might be contributing factor as might be the democratic nature of the university. But these causes might be remedied by restriction of students, and only the most deserving be allowed to come.

"In one field, however," Rodgers said, "the students of today may broaden the experience which will make better alumni of them for tomorrow. This is the formation of closer contacts between the students and the faculty." There are great obvious goods to be derived from such contacts, and we who are students are passing up great possibilities in not availing ourselves of them. The solution to the problem is in our hands.

In concluding his address, Rodgers said, "The fate of the university is partly upon our shoulders. One of our aims must be to develop a group of alumni who will be actively loyal to the school. The solution to the problem lies with us. We must set an example for future students which will cause them to be so thoroughly bound to the school that the bonds will never be loosened."

AG STUDENTS ARE TO GIVE PRE-FAIR PAGEANT SHOWING (Continued from Page 1). to go," said Manager Reuben Hecht today, "all we need to make this the biggest Farmers' fair in history is a good day. Hecht says that students have demonstrated excellent co-operation in Farmers' fair preparation this year, and that only an extremely bad weather can keep the fair Saturday from being a success. THIRTEEN MORTAR BOARDS MASKED ON IVY DAY in a guessing contest. Potted plants in full bloom, lawn shrubs, and other ornamental plants are being offered by the Robert S. Griswold company, the Danielson Brothers Floral company, and the Frey and Frey Florists for prizes to the person who comes the furthest, the winners of the guessing contest, and to others. Twenty-four in Contest. According to Horse Show Manager Bill Ralston, co-eds from eight different Greek houses have filed entries in the Intersorority Riding contest to compete for the silver cup offered by Faulkner Brothers farm. Twenty-four girls will ride in the contest. They are Delta Delta Delta's Mercedes Augustine, Katharine Oury, Dorothy Davis, and Marian Goudy; Kappa Kappa Gamma's Eleanor Raymond and Harriette Love; Alpha Delta Pi's Doris Patterson; Chi Omega's Henrietta Tiarks, Virginia Jones, and La Nelle Harry; Alpha Omicron Pi's Mae Thacker; Delta Gamma's Elsa Swift, Kathryn Tukey, Jean Brownlee, and Virginia Clark; Pi Beta Phi's, Mary Margaret Palmer; and Kappa Alpha Theta's, Mary Helen Davis, Carolyn Link, and Margaret Clapp.

Miss Willa Norris, Inavale, Gamma Phi Beta, was masked president of Mortar Board at the Ivy day ceremonies Thursday afternoon at the university. Miss Anne Bunting, Lincoln, Pi Beta Phi, is the new vice president; Miss Ruth Cherney, North Bend, Alpha Xi Delta, is secretary; Miss Donna Davis, Omaha, is treasurer; and Miss Jane Boos, Howard, S. D., Delta Delta Delta, is reporter. Other members are Miss Martha Hershey, Lincoln, Alpha Chi Omega; Miss Lucille Reilly, Lincoln, Delta Gamma; Miss Alice Geddes, Grand Island; Miss Margaret Buol, Randolph, Chi Omega; Miss Valentine Klotz, Lincoln, Alpha Delta Theta; Miss Jean Alden, Kimball, Alpha Chi Omega; Miss Lucille Hitchcock, Lincoln, Alpha Omicron Pi, and Miss Clara Wilson, honorary member.

The boxing and wrestling events in the evening promise to be a real treat for fans, managers Russell Hughes and Bernard Tomich believe. High spots in the boxing is to be a match between Claire "Kid" Dailey, one of Nebraska's fastest amateurs, and Al Cave, a rough and ready slugger. They will box three three-minute rounds.

Adams Will Wrestle. Wrestling at 175 pounds, Jerry Adams, Ag College wrestling coach, and Cecil Ackerman, a "varsity" man, promise to give mat enthusiasts the best exhibition. A novelty designed to tickle the battle appetites of boxing fans is a free-for-all match between "Battling" Meridith and "Wolping" Heady. "After they get started," Tomich said, "anything and everything goes."

There are to be several other major and preliminary events in the boxing and wrestling program, the managers said. The events will be just before the dance at the fair Saturday night. "We're ready to feed the Swedes, Bohemians, Germans or what are you, the kinds of foods their grand folks who came over and took the prairie away from the Indians used to have," announce the girls in charge of the Farmers' Fair Cafeteria. Based on the idea of the many nationalities that settled Nebraska, the cafeteria will have hostesses dressed in costumes of the many nationalities serving their characteristic foods. Institutional Management majors have charge of the cafeteria. Miss Dorothy Luchinger is the chairman.

Two New Displays. Exhibits chairman Victor Rediger reports that the two new displays in his program this year, the Exhibit and Snap Shot Contest, promise to be feature attractions. Prizes offered to winners in the amateur division of the contest are a photo-flash reflector and six bulbs by the Nephro Laboratories, a print of the State Capitol by MacDonald's Photo Shop, etching enlargements by the Van Dorn Chop for third and fourth, and a snap shot album for fifth by the Eastman Kodak Company.

Similar prizes are being offered by these same firms and the Townsend Photo Shop for winners in the professional class. Miss Bess Steel, Miss Ada Tucker, and Mr. Dwight Kirsch are to judge the photographic contest.

A leasing large number of entries have been made in the Farmers' Fair Art Exhibit prepared in co-operation with the Lincoln Art Guild, Rediger said. All the paintings and etchings to be on display are the work of members of the Lincoln Guild.

A milking contest, and a baseball game between Seward's Concord college are two of the afternoon features announced by Concessions Chairman Gerald Mott. Perhaps one of the most unusual entertainments will be a train made up of an observation car, a diner, with a rubber tired tractor for an engine. The train will take passengers for short rides around the campus, and lunches will be served in the diner during the rides.

There are to be many other stunts, games, and what not on the concessions list, Mott said. Livestock Parade. A pleasingly large number of en-

Fair livestock parade will take over the campus. LeVern Gingrich is chairman of the parade committee. The Ag college horses will march at the head of the parade, and there will be the four breeds of dairy cattle—Holsteins, Jerseys, Guernseys, and Ayrshires, and then Shorthorn, Hereford, and Angus beef cattle. The parade will be after the afternoon pageant presentation, and before the Intersorority riding contest.

No fair would be a fair without its tent show, and Farmers' Fair Saturday has its tent shows with a bang. Chairman of the Snorpheum show is Ralph Canada, wit and wise cracker on the campus. Canada promises a large number of skits and acts "not too nice or not too naughty" in his show, but refuses to disclose their nature till Saturday. "The Snorpheum this year," he says, "will be a good one."

Back of all the activity in the preparation of Farmers' Fair, lack of the chairman who prepare all the exhibits and concessions and entertainments is the Farmers' Fair board, the twelve cylinder motor that keeps things running. The six senior cylinders of the Farmers' Fair motor this year are Reuben Hecht, manager; Helen Hengstler, secretary; Marion Lynn, promotion chairman; Beatrice Donaldson, concession chairman; Victor Rediger, exhibit chairman; and Ralph Coppenaver, treasurer. And the six juniors are Lorraine Brake, assistant chairman; Valentine Klotz, assistant exhibits chairman; Muriel Moffitt, assistant promotion chairman; Ray Murray, assistant pageant coach, and Cecil Ackerman, assistant promotion chairman.

Director of the pageant is Mr. W. F. Thompson, English department. The special dancing girls have been trained by Miss Clarice McDonald, Miss Bess Steel, Home Economics department, has had charge of costume designing for the pageant. Mr. William T. Quick is to be thanked for the band that plays with the pageant, and Mrs. Tullis directs the special chorus. The songs used were written by the Farmers' Fair pageant by the Fine Arts department.

Until last year the pageant has been one of the minor events at Farmers' Fair, but last year and again this year it has been built up into one of the most colorful and entertaining events ever presented before a Nebraska audience, according to the opinions of those who have been working to prepare for it.

Five hundred and one women, 57 percent of those enrolled, earned an estimated amount totaling $18,445. Miss Sims said. Two hundred 445 girls earned about $5,873 working by the hour in homes, college departments and for various business houses in Ames. One hundred and two women earned $8,165 working in private homes for board and room. Fifteen other women working for their board earned the equivalent of $533. Living and doing part of their own work in the co-operative dormitories 168 girls saved a total of $3,874, Miss Sims reported.

DEPARTMENT AWARDS NINE RIFLE LETTERS

Major Speer Believes This Year's Club Has Had Successful Season.

Varsity letters were awarded to nine men of this year's rifle team in recognition of their work for the year and fifteen men received medals for their participation on the R. O. T. C. rifle team, according to information released by Major Speer, officer in charge of rifle firing.

"The University of Nebraska Rifle club has had a very successful season," said Major Speer in commenting on the work of the year. "The rifle club is an organization of all students interested in marksmanship and competing on any rifle team. Over 200 men and women participated on the various teams in addition to the firing by the R. O. T. C. unit."

The varsity team this year won the intercollegiate senior R. O. T. C. match fired at Kemper Military academy at Booneville, Missouri. They placed ninth out of sixty-four in the regional Hearst Trophy matches and twenty-ninth out of 174 in the national competition. They also took second place in the Missouri Valley league and ninth in the Seventh Corps Area match.

Six Lettermen to Return. Twenty-seven rifle men will return for the team next year of whom six of them are letter men. The team this year started with four men who had had previous experience. The team officers for next year will be K. A. Dawson, captain, and Richard Nicholson, manager.

The Pershing rifle team placed second out of the ten Pershing Rifle companies firing in the national matches of the organization. The trophy for this match is donated by the national Pershing Rifle headquarters which is located here.

The freshman and girl's teams were organized for the first time this year and not much was done in the way of competition. Sixty women reported for the girls' team.

The men who received varsity letters are Howard Misson, Richard Nicholson, Don Pirie, K. A. Davison, Arthur Freeman, E. D. Beasler, J. D. Boyd, Don Schewe, and J. J. Urban. The men who were awarded medals are Howard Misson, Richard Nicholson, Don Pirie, K. A. Davison, Arthur Freeman, Don Schewe, J. J. Urban, Douglas, B. T. Snipes, H. P. Letton, G. Funk, W. A. Letson, H. Schultz, M. Dunklau, and S. Fleishman.

Sergeant Cecil McGimsey was the coach of the rifle teams and also the non-commissioned officer in charge of the rifle range for the year.

INTERFRAT DEBATE COMPETITION KEEN

Members Winning Team Will Be Awarded Medals.

"Keen competition was shown in the intramural debate tournament this year," according to Prof. H. A. White, debate coach of the university, especially in the final debate which was a close decision in the minds of all the judges."

The contest which was sponsored by Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic society was won by Sigma Alpha Mu on the question of the subsidization of athletics in the colleges and universities of Big Six conference.

"The tournament was very successful" in the opinion of Rudy Vogeler of the athletic department who arranged the contest, "and quite a bit of interest was shown by the organizations competing. The question however was a difficult one because popular feeling was all on one side."

The members of the winning team will be given medals and a silver gavel will be given to the fraternity for a year. The runner up in the finals this year was Delta Upsilon. The first of these annual competitions last year was won by Delta Sigma Lambda on the question of abolition of military training in universities.

a freshman. The pages were dressed in white satin blouses with full sleeves and short satin trunks and plumed hats. Mortar Boards Participate. The attendants to the May Queen were preceded by the masked and black-gowned Mortar Boards. The procession began at the south end of Pharmacy Hall and followed the carpeted-walk to the throne.

The freshmen attendants, Edythe Long, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Virginia Pollard, Chi Omega, were dressed in frocks of azure blue. Bash Perkins, Alpha Xi Delta, member of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet and Tassels; and Marion Smith, president of Delta Gamma, member of the A. W. S. board and W. A. A. council, were the sophomore attendants. Their costumes were in peachtone.

The junior attendants gownned in mauve dew orchid were Virginia McBride, Phi Mu, member of the Y. W. cabinet, student council, Junior-Senior prom committee, Big Sister board, and Tassels; and Ruth Beverly, Alpha Phi, a member of student council, sorority editor of the Cornhusker and Tassels. The senior attendants were Evelyn O'Connor, president of Delta Zeta, Kappa Phi, Y. W. C. A. treasurer, Pi Lambda Theta, a member of Tassels and Phi Beta Phi, president of the Panhellenic council, member of the Y. cabinet, Pi Lambda Theta and Tassels. Their costumes were in seaton green.

The costumes of all the attendants were of mouseline de sois with moire sashes in deeper tones. They were Victorian style with long slenderizing lines ending in five ruffled tiers. The sleeves were of the Gibson girl style with picot-edged ruffles. Gloves and shoes were of pink roses. Each attendant carried an old-fashioned nosegay.

The flower girls were Beverly Colbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Colbert of Lincoln and Georgianna Coffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Dale Coffman of Lincoln.

The May queen wore a white satin dress fashioned on princess lines with long full sleeves to the elbow and tight bands to the wrist. Her veil fastened at the back of her dress. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The maid of honor was gownned in a dress of bud pink crepe trivole chiffon, styled along princess lines. A short fitted jacket completed the dress. Her hat was a wide brimmed picture hat with a nosegay crown in harmonizing colors.

Phillip Sperry, son of Captain and Mrs. Fred Sperry, was wreath bearer. The train bearers were Burkett Van Kirk and Bobby Schmidt. Parents of both of these children are instructors in the university.

With the annual spring election scheduled for Tuesday and the deadline for filing for offices set at 5 o'clock this afternoon, politics promise to play a very prominent part in campus activity for the next few days.

Active campaigns have been mapped out by both factions, Blue-shirt and Yellow-jacket, and the announcement of platforms and candidates of each will be made Sunday. Fraternity representation in the factions has remained the same as in the election held last fall, with twenty-one Blue-shirt members and the thirteen Yellow-jacket fraternities retaining their coalition with the Barba.

The offices to be filled at Tuesday's election include: Publication board, one sophomore, one junior and one senior member; Student council, two senior men and two senior women, elected at large; two junior members from the College of Arts and Sciences; two men from the Engineering college; one junior man from each of the College of Agriculture, Business Administration, Dentistry, Law, Pharmacy and Teacher's college; three junior women from the college of Arts and Sciences; three junior women from the Teacher's college; two junior women from the school of fine arts; one junior woman from each of the Colleges of Business Administration and Agriculture; and one man or woman from the Graduate college.

Drama.. Glamor ... a Colorful Experience FRIDAY night at eight o'clock the 1933 Farmers' Fair begins. First thing on the program is that colorful pageant, "Progress of the Prairie." ALL the students in the college will be arrayed in gorgeous costumes all the way from the Indian Chief's feathers to the Chanceller's gown. REALLY fascinating are the dancing maidens who usher in the days, months and years, as Nebraska history marches by. MIGHTY are the pioneers and homesteaders who come West, battle with the Indians, conquer the prairie, and build their homes. EACH and every student in the university, and every Lincoln citizen, is especially invited to see "Progress of the Prairie" Friday night. RIGHT at one o'clock sharp Saturday begins Farmers' Fair Proper. Registration for prizes is first, then come the exhibits, and the fun. SHARP at one-thirty comes the second presentation of the pageant, with the dancers, the band, the chorus, the fighting, and the singing. FREE as air and water is the gate to Farmers' Fair. Come and see the exhibits, and enjoy the live stock parade, and mingle with the crowd. ALL afternoon and evening the show goes on: Pageant, Horse Show and Intersorority riding contest, Baseball, Boxing, Wrestling, Snorpheum. IN the activities building are the exhibits—Art, Snapshots, what not. And don't fail to visit the Home Economics Exhibits and Cafeteria. ROLL away clouds, for the stage is set and Farmers' Fair guests are going to see the greatest show in history next ... Saturday, May 6
