ENGINEERS TO SET UP SUMMER CAMP

Annual Sessions Will Be Held at National Guard Camp.

Camp Nebraska will again be set up this year by the department of civil engineering of the university and will offer university credit this summer to students attending. A long and short session will be offered, the long session from June 3 to August 5, and the short session from June 3 to July 15.

The aim of the civil engineering faculty is to present the summer surveying camp work under conditions which are to be found in practice. The topography and character of the country surrounding the camp offers a good opportunity for project work of various kinds. The Platte river, Elkorn river, Salt creek, several sand pit lakes, drainage canals, railroads and highways are located near the classroom recitations, drafting exercises, and a few field problems that can be performed on or near the city campus at Lincoln. Instruction at the summer surveying camp permits engineering students to obtain practical field experience in surveying subjects under conditions similar to those encountered in actual work, and also provides an opportunity for practical field instruction in hydraulics, stresses in framed structures and water power engineering.

On the executive board of the camp are Professor Richard Daniel Moritz, who will be the director of the summer session, and O. J. Ferguson, dean of the college of engineering. Instructors from the department of civil engineering include Professor C. E. Mickey, chairman of the department, and Professor D. H. Harkness, of the department.

Student assistants at the camp will be Marion Scott and Archibald Bauer.

Students planning to attend the camp shall be required to register for the courses in the office of the department of civil engineering, Mechanic Arts hall, Room 210, from May 1 to May 6 inclusive. All fees must be paid at the office of the finance secretary not later than May 6.

Students at Washington and Lee pay nearly as much for their fun as for their education. It was estimated recently that the value of student-owned cars in Lexington was $10,000, which is one-half of the university's annual income from student tuitions.

Important messages in the days of Mark Anthony could not be broadcast to the world via a newspaper! It took a long time to let the people know what was happening.

And it would take just as long today! So why not use the best method available on the University of Nebraska campus to let your customers know about the bargains you are offerings.

Insert an advertisement in the Daily Nebraskan. It will reach more university customers than any other publication on the campus.
