TAX CONSIDERED AT OPEN FORUM

Howard Allaway, Head of Student Council Committee On Plan Presents Outline; Professor E. F. Schramm Endorses Idea Strongly.

Over seventy-five students of the university, representing organization and publication heads, discussed the student activities blanket tax as proposed by the student council for the consideration of the student body, last night at the Social Sciences auditorium with Phil Brownell, president of the student council, presiding.

The tax plan, which was accepted by the seniors of the university in yesterday's elections by more than a 3 to 1 majority, was outlined fully by Howard Allaway, chairman of the student council committee which drafted the measure for student approval.

In presenting the plan as it appears on the student ballot, Allaway stated that the tax was designed primarily to distribute the burden of financing of the various activities now existing on the Nebraska campus among the student body as a whole.

While student approval of the proposed plan is not the final action upon the measure, it is highly improbable that the board of regents, which makes the final approval of the measure, will overlook a strong student sentiment favoring the adoption of the measure," explained Allaway.

Would Reduce Levy.

It was also pointed out that the tax would reduce the present activity levy by over 40 percent, as well as increase immeasurably student interest in its activities and institutions.

"Students should realize the fact that the ballot tax represents, in a sense, some maximum estimates, and if any revisions are made by the faculty it will be downward revision only," declared Mr. Allaway.

"Probably the biggest objection to the tax plan is the fact that some students, who constitute a small minority, are unable financially to pay the fee. This matter (Continued on Page 4.)

KIRSCHMAN DISCUSSES INFLATION AT DINNER

Knife and Fork Club, Finance Group, Meets.

Inflation was the subject of a speech given by Prof. John E. Kirschman, of the finance department, at a meeting of the Knife and Fork club Thursday. He also touched upon the various conceptions of inflation held by the public, discarding them in favor of this: "Inflation is a rise in prices intentionally created by changing the currency."

Those being discarded as untrue or partially true were that inflation is an increase in currency, an expansion of bank credit and the idea that going off the gold standard and devaluing the dollar is inflation. This last, upon analysis, is quite harmless, he said.

ANNUAL MEETING OF INSTITUTE TO BE HELD MAY 17

University Is First State Institution to Start Business Meets.

DEAN STOCKTON TO TALK

LeRossignol Is in General Charge of Activities Of Organization.

The second annual convention of the Merchants and Manufacturers institute sponsored by the university will be held May 17 at Social Science auditorium. This year the attendance has been increased to include manufacturers, and the university is the first state institution in the nation to inaugurate organized business meetings in an attempt to bring together representatives from forty-four state business associations to discuss their common problems. The plan is for each association to hold its own business session on the days preceding the Merchants and Manufacturers institute, which will constitute a combined meeting of all the associations.

The program this year includes three men of national recognition, each of whom is a leader in his own particular field. Dean F. T. Stockton from the University of Kansas will speak on "Foreign Markets for American Products." (Continued on Page 2.)

FIRST HURDLE IS CLEARED BY TAX PLAN THURSDAY

Seniors Approve Proposal By Almost Three to One Vote.

VOTERS CHECK ITEMS

Thursday's Poll Expected to Be Advance Indication Of Opinion.

The proposed student activity tax cleared its first barrier towards becoming a reality when it was given approval by an almost 3 to 1 vote in the student election Thursday.

Actual count showed 210 votes in favor of the proposition and 78 against. Only seniors, law students, and graduate students, were asked to vote on the plan Thursday. Lower classmen of the university will record their opinions during registration from May 22 to 25 inclusive.

Asked to List Items.

In addition to voting for or against the plan, voters were asked to check any of several listed items they felt should be included in the tax. Items submitted for a vote and their prices included The Daily Nebraskan, fifty cents; Cornhusker, $3; Awgwan, fifty cents; athletic ticket, $5; Prairie Schooner, ten cents; student council fund, five cents; convocations fund, ten cents, and Student Union building fund, fifteen cents.

Results of the itemized poll, as yet unavailable, will be announced in Sunday's Nebraskan.

Thursday vote is expected in some measure to be an advance indication of the balance of student opinion to be registered at registration. Should the proposal have the approval of a majority of voters, the student council will submit it to the board of regents with a recommendation that it be adopted beginning next fall.

The tax should be compulsory on all undergraduate students on the Lincoln campuses, with exceptions to be made in case of financial inability to pay when approved by a faculty committee.

PROTESTS ARISE AFTER CLOSE AG ELECTION RACE

Indications Point Toward Investigation of All Results.

VOTE IS NOT ACCEPTED

Possible Fraud Is Charged As Result of Many Upsets.

By George Round.

Following one of the most closely contested elections in the history of the agricultural college on Thursday, a storm of protest was pronounced with the indication that the entire election may be contested. Indications late in the evening pointed toward a complete investigation of results, which, some leaders say, did not check out accurately.

The 1933 election was one of the most weird of all times on the Ag campus. Although two of the factions—Farm House and the barbs—were combined, the final tallies indicated that only Alpha Gamma Rho and Farm house candidates were successful in gaining offices.

Student leaders, it was said, were unwilling to accept the final vote tally as given out from Dean Burr's office immediately after the counting board had finished its job. It was charged that possible fraud had entered into the elections which was indicated by some distinct upsets.

Ralston Defeats Filley.

BLUESHIRTS WIN MOST OF PLACES

Vote Cast Yesterday Is One of Heaviest in Recent Years; Difference Between Winner and Loser Is Only Few Votes.

TIE FOR JUNIOR MAN ON PUBLICATION BOARD

Byron Goulding and Woodrow Magee Elected as Senior Men at Large; Margaret Buol and Marie Davis Are Senior Women Named to Council.

The brief one-year political rule of the Barb-Yellowjacket coalition, which swept almost everything at the polls last spring, came to an end yesterday when the vote, one of the heaviest in recent years, revealed that the majority of places went to Blueshirt candidates.

The difference between winner and loser, in most instances, was only a few votes. In one contested position, the vote was a tie for junior member of the publications board. Very few positions were uncontested.

The student council, this year controlled by the Barb-Yellowjacket coalition, will contain a preponderance of Blueshirt men next year. Of the three student members of the publications board, two chosen yesterday were Blueshirts and one position resulted in a tie.

On the student council, the senior men at large chosen yesterday are Byron Goulding, Beta Theta Pi and president of the Innocents society, and Woodrow Magee, Delta Upsilon, member of the Innocents and managing editor of the Cornhusker.

Senior Women Chosen.

The senior women at large elected to the Council were Margaret Buol, Chi Omega, member of Mortar Board, and president of the A. W. S. board; and Marie Davis, Sigma Kappa.

Representatives on the council from the college of arts and science are William Fisher, Alpha Tau Omega, Tom Davies, member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Calista Cooper, member of Pi Beta Phi, A. W. S. board and Cornhusker Coed, and Roma De Brown, Kappa Kappa Gamma and A. W. S. board. Representatives from the college of agriculture are Louis Schick, Alpha Gamma Rho and member of E basketball team, and Florence Buxman, vice president of Home Ec association and member of Tassels.

From the college of business administration the following were elected: Maynard Miller, Beta Theta Pi and member of the Pony Chorus in the Kosmet Klub spring show, and Mildred Kirkbride, Alpha Omicron Pi and member of Phi (Continued on Page 4.)

COLONEL DAILEY SATISFIED WITH UNIT'S SHOWING

Oury Says Parade Is Best Regiment Has Ever Put On.

The inspection of the university R. O. T. C. unit Wednesday and Thursday was pronounced the best, by the inspecting officer, Lieut. Col. George F. N. Dailey, stationed with the 34th division of the National Guards at Council Bluffs, Ia., of any in the schools he had examined. The parade Thursday afternoon was the best the regiment has put on according to Col. W. H. Oury, commandant of the unit.

Colonel Oury believed that the drill was not as good as it could have been because of the bad weather, but both the basic and advanced students did well and the inspection was very creditable.

Theoretical Inspection. The basic and advanced men were given a theoretical inspection on Wednesday covering the work of the semester. The inspection was thorough and complete and was considered satisfactory by Colonel Dailey.

Practical exercises in musketry, marksmanship, first aid, and the automatic rifle were given by the basic men on Thursday morning. The advanced officers at the same time were examined on sketching, military history, military law, and subjects of a similar character.

The main event of the afternoon on Thursday was the parade of the regiment for the reviewing officer. The unit was rated on general appearance including clothing, fit, and the set-up of the regiment. Companies who were called upon to give special demonstrations of particular parts of the drill work of the unit were Headquarters company which presented physical drill, Company H which gave an example of close order drill, and Company E which demonstrated extended order drill. The faculty officers and the higher cadet officers inspected the companies individually.

Following the inspection of the whole regiment, the junior and senior cadet officers were tested with a problem in minor tactics.

LIBRARIAN IS GIVEN ADDITIONAL DUTIES

No Appropriation Is Made For Work Assigned By Legislature.

Additional duties without the benefit of intended appropriations is to be the lot of the university librarian, it was discovered Thursday, when a legislative error in the bill abolishing the state library commission was found shortly after Governor Bryan had signed the bill.

Transfer of the commission's duties to the university librarian was provided for in the bill, but the clause appropriating $1,000 for this purpose, also contained in the body of the bill, was omitted from the title, and is therefore ineffective. Legislators intended that the librarian should have this appropriation but prospects are that the next biennium must be completed without it.

The bill becomes effective Aug. 10, 1933.

PUBLICATIONS GROUP WILL HOLD MEETING

Board to Appoint Staff Members for Next Fall.

The publications board, it was learned yesterday, is expected to hold its spring meeting about the first of June. The meeting will be called so that the board may consider applications for staff positions on the student publications.

The Board has not yet issued a call for filing of applications for the various positions, but it is anticipated the call will come within the next week or two.

Filings will be accepted for positions on the editorial and business staffs of the Daily Nebraskan, the Awgwan and the Cornhusker. Appointments for next year's editors, business managers and assistants will be made at the June meeting.
