

TEXAS PASSING ATTACK POTENT DECLARES BIBLE

Bohn Hilliard, All Conference Back, Is Capable Passer And Hard Runner.

TEXANS HAVE TWO WINS

Nebraska Mentor Drills Men Intensively on Pass Defense Tuesday.

Reversing the workouts given Monday, which dealt mainly with the aerial offense and the ends going down on punts, Coach Bible stressed the passing defense and the returning of punts in yesterday's drill in the memorial stadium.

"It will be necessary to stress the pass defense somewhat this coming week due to the fact that the Texas aerial display was responsible for the major portion of their scoring power in their game against the Texas School of Mines last Saturday," Bible stated.

Texas Defeats Miners.

The Longhorns defeated the Miners 22 to 6 in their second game of the season which was played on the Longhorn's home field Saturday. While this score did not live up to expectation it can be explained for several reasons.

Coaching the Mine school is a former Texan student who is well acquainted with the type of plays the Longhorns use and the general strength of the Steer squad. Because of this familiarity with the Longhorn style of attack with the Littlefield outfit was unable to run up its usually large score which was characteristic of them last year.

Hilliard Is Man to Watch.

Bohn Hilliard still presents the dangerous threat to the Husker squad as Bohn was responsible for all three of the Longhorn's touchdowns against the Miner team. "One of our greatest worries for the coming fray with Texas will be the stopping of the elusive Hilliard," Bible stated. "Unless this is accomplished there will be much doubt as to the outcome," he added.

There is additional worry in the Husker camp now that Gail O'Brien, tackle, is still on the bench because of his shoulder injury which is failing to heal as was expected. Gail strained his shoulder in scrimmage and has since been unable to participate in any conflict. It was hoped he would be well for the Varsity-Frosh mix last Saturday but as it was still sore it was thought unwise to use it.

Gail is one of the best tackles in the Big Six circles and is one of the best waiting tackles in the game. Seldom is more than two yards made thru him and it takes more than four downs at such a rate for an opposing team to derive much benefit from so small a gain.

O'Brien lives in Omaha and played three years of high school competitive football before registering at Nebraska. Last year he was chosen all-conference tackle for Big Six circles. One writer mentioned him as a prospect for All-American for the coming year. Gail was out most of his initial year of varsity competition because of an operation on his knee. This made it necessary for him to drop school for a semester as he spent the greater part of six weeks in the hospital.

INTRAMURAL TENNIS TO BEGIN NEXT WEEK

Fraternities Should File Entries Now, Harold Petz Announces.

Announcement of the beginning of the intramural fall tennis matches has been made by director Harold Petz. The first series of matches will begin sometime the first part of next week, and Petz is anxious for all those who intend to participate to express their plans.

The fall tennis is part of an extensive intramural sports program which is now devoted to soccer. Concerning the soccer games, Mr. Petz stated "all teams should make a sincere effort to be on the field ready to begin the game on time, and as few postponements as possible will be appreciated from the director's angle."

Swim Week in Progress. "Learn to Swim" week is now in progress, and Mr. Petz is more than pleased with the number of men students who have taken advantage of this opportunity to learn to swim. "I hope that every male student in the university will take advantage of this offer to learn how to swim, with absolutely no cost to themselves," said Petz. "Right now soccer is the most important thing on the intramural sports program, but soon more men will be out for swimming."

Soccer scores the past week: Sigma Alpha Epsilon 1, Beta Theta Pi 0. Beta Theta Pi 3, Phi Delta Theta 0. Beta Theta Pi 3, Phi Delta Theta 1. Delta Sigma Phi 2, Tau Kappa Epsilon 0. Phi Kappa Psi 4, Sigma Alpha Mu 0. Phi Kappa Psi 5, Kappa Sigma 0. Phi Sigma Kappa 2, Delta Sigma Lambda 0. Sigma Chi 1, Alpha Tau Omega 0. Sigma Nu 2, Chi Phi 0. CAMPUS JOES 'COME THROUGH' WITH PRO AND CON OPINIONS ON DUTCH DATE IDEA SUGGESTED IN SRA PROVISIONAL CODE.

were ready to assume mutual responsibility for the success of the date. One of the fears voiced by some of the fellows was about what could be done if the girl did not offer to share half of the expenses after she had previously agreed to do so. One of the best suggestions for a remedy to this situation was that the man should provide himself with enough money to take care of the entire bill and if the girl did not "do her part" see that she was "black-listed" all over the campus.

Everyone agrees that the idea is not present because the men have lost their chivalry but simply because they have lost their generous amount of spending money. If all the money spent on dates in the last three or four years were placed in one pile, one can be sure that it would amount to a sizeable sum.

Whatever the outcome will be of this idea, and it looks as though "dutch treat dates" were a probability, it must be agreed that the idea has its good points in such times as these, and careful thinking is necessary before dismissing or accepting the idea.

Ag College

By Carlyle Hodgkin

CORRECTION: Three students who gave reasons to the judges in the contest at Waterloo Monday were not Willard Waldo, Raymond McCarty and Paul Swanson. Rather they were Willard Waldo, Raymond McCarty and Lyman Wallin.

Coach Morgan took four boys to the contest, all were eligible to judge, and one can never tell about these coaches. The way the boys worked out on the practice judging after they left Lincoln may have determined who would go into the ring for the contest.

One advantage in holding Swanson as alternate is that he will still be in school next year and will be eligible to make the trip again. That will give the team one experienced man. Mr. Morgan doubtless had that in mind when he selected his three men.

WHAT MADE AMERICA?

Speaking to Ag college students and faculty at the convocation Monday morning, Mr. Louis J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, placed no small responsibility on the shoulders of young men and women trained in agriculture.

"We have not yet attained economic liberty of stability," he said. "We cannot have economic liberty or stability until production and distribution are controlled. To accomplish that is a task that would make the conquering of the west of the freeing of the slaves look small. But if the forces that control production and regulate distribution come from the government at Washington, the whole undertaking is doomed to fail. The forces that control this great adventure must come from an organized and intelligent rural people. That is the challenge to education."

A pretty big order, one would be inclined to say. If control of production and distribution is bound to fall in government hands, then how is it that such a project can be accomplished by Ag college students? Rather a big order, one would say, and especially when one considers the attempts farmers have made in the past to be organized and intelligent, and the mess that everything was in when the government finally made this attempt at production and distribution control.

But even if Mr. Taber did give Ag students a large order to fill, he also gave them a very worthwhile discussion. Perhaps no point that he discussed was more true and more significant than the one he made by saying that "America is turning its back on the things that made America." That has been the whole trend of recent times. Individualism made America. But America finds itself in a bad mess, and the only process by which it seems to make any headway getting out of that mess is the process of socialization.

Enroute to the west coast, Mr. Taber was persuaded to stop off in Nebraska Monday. While here he spoke at the Ag convocation, the chamber of commerce, and at a closed meeting of the Cornhusker Grange in the evening.

OTHER SIDE OF THE HOUSE.

If there are, by chance, any girls who read this column, they have found it hopelessly devoid of anything particularly interesting to girls. Perhaps the remedy for that situation is at hand.

Miss Margaret Fedde and Miss Bess Steel, home economics department, are going into the huddle one of these days to pick two home economics girls who can be depended upon to furnish information and ideas for the ag college column. They will represent the other side of the house.

That will be an excellent arrangement in several ways. It will be good experience for the girls. It will help to make the column readable for home economics students. It will help to fill the column every day. And most significant of all, I will enjoy co-operating with the coeds.

LATE RETURNS.

Reports on Ag club's campaign to sell Daily Nebraskan subscriptions on ag campus seem to be slow coming in. No one knows yet whether the drive went over with a bang, or whether it didn't go over with so much of a bang.

But the boys seemed to get off to a bad start. Arthur Peterson, leader of one of the teams, had to be out of town part of the week. Willard Waldo, another leader, went to Waterloo with the judging team. The boys on the teams wandered about the campus like an army without a captain.

But the latest dope is that the gang will get together tonight, organize their work, and complete

Game Captains

CLAIR BISHOP HUBERT BOSWELL

Hubert Boswell and Clair Bishop, left halfback and left guard respectively, have been appointed by Coach Bible to act as co-captains in Saturday's game against the Texas Longhorns to be played here in the Memorial stadium at 2 o'clock.

Hubert and Clair are each playing their third year with the varsity and are both seniors. In order to be eligible for a captainship it is necessary to have to their credit ninety hours. "Bos" comes from Ravenna, Neb., and Clair is a Lincoln man.

"All seniors on the varsity squad will be given a chance to be captain," Bible stated, "and as there are about fifteen of them it will be necessary to appoint co-captains in many of the games."

the campaign. Then we can get the results, and perhaps the subscribers will get their papers.

THE GOOD OLD FARM.

On the way down town this morning the bus met a man driving a span of sleek black mules to a buckbord. He was a youngish, square-jawed fellow in blue overalls and jacket. He looked for the world like some up-and-coming farmer in a western town who was driving his mules to town on a day when the roads were too muddy for his car.

It was good to look at that long-eared pair and that square-jawed driver. There was a kind of a quiet power about them, a kind of realness and everlastingness.

Rounding the corner at 22nd and Vine, the driver drew back the end of his line and gave the off mule a sharp cut on the flank. In response the mule wiggled his ears, switched his tail.

TECHNICAL DIRECTOR RESIGNS FILM WORK

Nevers Declares Pictures Would Reflect on the National Game.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP). Because he said he believed the film would reflect on the national college game, Ernie Nevers, assistant football coach at Stanford university and former All-American full-back last week quit his job as technical director of a football movie being filmed here. Nevers had been employed to direct a movie designed to show a college badly in need of money hiring a great football coach and a squad of stars to pull the institution out of the red. "I don't want to be identified with such a picture," Nevers said after ten days on the job. "Such a thing is the exception rather than the rule. It would reflect on the college game."

GREEK COUNCIL EFFECTS CHANGE

(Continued from Page 1.) selected to draw up a code of ethics on fraternity rushing, which would serve as a moral guide in observance of rush rules. The council voted to send Prof.

E. F. Schramm as its representative to the national Interfraternity Council convention to be held in Chicago the week end of Oct. 14.

Feeling that there was need of immediate action on the problem of musicians for Greek social functions, Thiel appointed a committee consisting of Byron Goulding, chairman, Lee Young and Elton Ross to co-operate with a Pan-Hellenic committee, in working on the problem.
