

The Mid-Year Frolic...Nebraska's Newest...Takes Its Bow to Society

... and as a breather to celebrate the close of a hectic week of final exams!

Myron Lowther

and his 13-piece

CASANOVA

Orchestra

It's time to go out of mourning when once the big bad finals are out of the way. So take that crepe off your shoes and dance them over to where better music and more fun are the vogue for the evening.

Nebraska social lights will be going out the night of the 26th. For that's the premiere of Nebraska's newest—the Mid-Year Frolic. It's the debut of a party that is deemed for success.

You may not have heard of Myron Lowther and his 13 piece Casanova orchestra yet. But when you have, you won't forget the captivating rhythms and harmonies they play. The name isn't "big time." But the music is!

So get a date. Although the night isn't "closed", there are no other student parties booked for that week-end. Won't it be a grand climax for exam week! And tickets go on sale in a few days. But above all, get your date today!
