Feb. 22 for Unicameral
Legislature.

GOVERNORS TO ATTEND
Proposed Revision of State
Law-Making Assembly
Gains Support.

Impetus to the drive to add an amendment providing for a unicameral legislature to the state constitution was given in an announcement that Senator George W. Norris, proponent of the measure, will come to Lincoln on the evening of Feb. 22 to address a meeting in the coliseum on the subject "This Ox-Cart Government." Col. John G. Maher, head of a citizens' committee interested in the proposal, made the announcement.

A state organization, that will carry on all the work of campaigning for the measure, will be effected at the meeting and plans will be made for the drive that the senator hopes will add his long-cherished amendment to the state constitution.

INTERFRATERNITY BALL TICKETS GO ON SALE

Extensive Campaign Will Be Launched in Houses
This Week.

PRUCKA IS IN CHARGE

An extensive ticket sales campaign, under the supervision of the interfraternity committee, for the annual Interfraternity Ball will be launched in all fraternity houses on the campus this week, according to a statement made yesterday by Norman Prucka, chairman of the group.

Tickets for this event were checked out to members of the Interfraternity council at the last meeting of the organization last Tuesday night, when the committee in charge of arrangements for the ball reported its work on the project.

Prucka urged all members of the council to push the sales of tickets in their own houses all this week. He indicated that a check-up on sales would probably be made about the middle of the week, when the final lap of the sales campaign will start. Tickets will also be available at the door the night of the ball, he added.

The Ball is scheduled for Saturday night, Feb. 10, in the university coliseum. Jimmy Joy and his orchestra will furnish the music for the affair.

Nebraska's Co-eds Might Experiment With This Scheme

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 31—Here's one way to get a date: Carrying bold captions, "Men Wanted," two personals recently appeared in the classified advertising section of The Daily Cardinal at the University of Wisconsin.

One advertiser was willing to pay all expenses to the university prom, provided the date met specifications, which were "at least 5 feet 10 inches tall, a good dancer and a fraternity man."

Bill Tilden Has Nothing But Praise For Arrangement of Coliseum Floor

Nothing but praise for the arrangement of the coliseum floor, on which Big Bill Tilden and his troupe played Monday night, was expressed by the great tennis artist and professional champion Monday afternoon in an interview with a Nebraska reporter. The world champion of many years' standing appeared to be looking forward to his match in the field house with Ellsworth Vines with keen anticipation.

"This court will form the best that we have had the opportunity to play on since we started our present tour thru-out the continent," stated Big Bill, while he was praising the Lincoln arrangement.

Smoke To Thicken.
During the interview he stated that many of the places where he plays, Bruce Barnes, and Vincent Richards have played this winter smoking is permitted inside the buildings, and that the smoke is so thick at times that one cannot see the ball. He declared that it is quite important that one be able to spot the ball, since it is traveling at lightning speed constantly.

The big veteran of hundreds of matches, and many exhibitions, who is grayed about the temples and beginning to show the strain of constant effort, smilingly related

HUSKER DEBATE SQUAD TO MEET IOWA THIS WEEK

Contest Will Be Held on Campus; Try to Renew
Student Interest.

In an effort to revive interest in debating a Varsity team will meet a team from Iowa State College in an open debate in Social Sciences auditorium Wednesday afternoon. Charles W. Steadman and Jack Face will speak for Nebraska on the affirmative side of the top. Resolved: That the powers of the president of the United States should be enlarged as a permanent policy.

"The practice of having debates on the campus was discontinued several years ago," according to Prof. H. A. White, debate coach, "because of the lack of student interest in the activity. If the students give us a good turnout for the appearance these open contests will be held on the campus instead of before local non-university groups."

May Hold Tryout.
Indications seem to point to another tryout this semester, in the opinion of Professor White, though the matter is still very doubtful. If enough men want to compete in the activity the tryout will be held and new teams will be chosen for work later in the year.

PLAYERS OPEN WEEK'S RUN OF MYSTERY DRAMA

'Dangerous Corners' Draws
Acclaim of Audience
Monday Night.

CONTINUES THRU WEEK
Sumption Impresses in Lead
Role of Broadway
Production.

Presenting their fifth drama of the year, the University Players scored a hit in their opening performance of J. B. Priestly's Broadway success, "Dangerous Corners," at the Temple theater Monday night. A full house witnessed the mystery play which enjoyed a nine months' run before packed houses on Broadway last season. Performances will continue at the Temple each night throughout the week with a special matinee scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Has Unique Scene.
Headed by Harold "Pete" Sumption, dramatics instructor, the cast of seven presented a fine performance which drew the enthusiastic applause of the audience which witnessed it. One of the scenes most commended by the audience, and a difficult one, was that in which Sumption, cast in the role of Robert Chaffield, wealthy New York publisher, leads one to believe that he goes off-stage to commit suicide, only to return suddenly, and with a changed voice continues the dialogue as it was in the first act. The scene is unique in that it leaves the audience temporarily bewildered.

Cast Performs Well.
Armand Hunter, in his role as Gordon Whitehouse, a rather effeminate sort of lad, also contributed an effective performance and one much different from those he has previously played.

The performances of the four women in the cast also contributed to the general effectiveness of the drama. Jane McLaughlin, as Maud Mockridge, was convincing and true to life, and Veronica Vilnave's role of Freda Chaffield was well done. Sylvia Schaefer and Virgine McBride in the other feminine roles gave capable performances.

All action of the play takes place in one room in the home of Chaffield. Sumption directed the players in their preparation for the drama and Robert Reade, stage manager, designed and supervised construction of the set.

The cast is as follows:
Maud Mockridge..... Jane McLaughlin
Owen Peil..... Sylvia Schaefer
Freda Chaffield..... Virgine McBride
Rett Whitehouse..... Maud Mockridge
Gordon Whitehouse..... Armand Hunter
Charles Sumption..... Melvin Preiser
Robert Chaffield..... Harold Sumption

HUMOR MAGAZINE TO BE PLACED ON SALE WEDNESDAY

Four Color Cover Design
Is Drawn by Marvin
Robinson.

With the Interfraternity Ball as its theme, the February issue of the Awgwan, university humor publication, will go on sale in booths located in Andrews, Social Science, and Mechanical Arts buildings, Wednesday, Feb. 6, according to Carlyle Sorenson, business manager of the publication. He stated that he expected sales for this issue to surpass those of any previous number of the publication this year.

The cover design which appears in four colors portraying an embarrassed student who finds his bid missing at the door of the party, was done by Marvin Robinson. A full page cartoon by Robert Pierce, managing editor of the magazine will also appear in this issue.

Ledwith Writes Story.
"Little Red Riding Habit," a short story by Charles Ledwith, is one of the features of the magazine according to Rosalie Lamme, editor of the publication. She stated that there are many cartoons and original jokes appearing in this issue.

One of the new features which will appear for the first time this month is "Around the Dial." In this column, news concerning orchestras, radio and phonograph records will appear.

A two page section of men's fashions, by Charles Bursik, men's fashion editor, will appear in the magazine. This section will appear in the place of the women's fashion section which will occupy a single page in this issue.

Other regular features of the magazine will include "Campus Annals" a column giving the 'low down' on the campus social 'high lights' and the theater section which will be unusually large according to Rosalie Lamme.

Zoology Professor Reports Good Luck In Marine Research

Reports of "very good luck" in his research of fish parasites and marine life near the Galapagos Islands in the South Pacific have been made by Dr. H. W. Manter, associate professor of zoology and special advisor to pre-medic freshmen, in a recent letter to Mrs. Manter.

Dr. Manter, who is carrying on research for the Carnegie institution, arrived on the islands, which are 650 miles off the coast of Ecuador, on Jan. 11. He is one of a party of noted scientists who are investigating various forms of sea life in the Pacific, such as certain species of crabs, algae, corals and jelly fish. Because of the volcanic origin of the Galapagos Islands and the fact that they are seldom visited, Dr. Manter deems them an ideal field for research.

Sponsored by Hancock.
The expedition, which is sponsored by Captain G. Allen Hancock of Los Angeles expects to return to the United States some time during the first week in March. Before reaching their destination, surveys will also be conducted along the coasts of Mexico, Central and South America.

Through the parasites from fish which he will collect on the expedition, Dr. Manter will be able to compare the specimens from the Atlantic and Pacific, having already collected numerous forms from the coast of Florida and regions of the tropical Atlantic.

Since parasites from the Pacific have never before been studied and collected Dr. Manter's research will make possible for the first time an establishment of the degrees of differentiation between the specimens from the two oceans.

Other research workers in the expedition are Dr. Waldo Schmitt of the Smithsonian institution, Dr. William Randolph Taylor of the University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. C. McLean Fraser of the University of Vancouver.

Youthful Admirers Seek Signatures of Famous Court Star

Young Ellsworth Vines is a national headliner in athletics. Along with "Big Bill" Tilden, and numerous other sports luminaries he is constantly before the eyes of the public in the columns of every sports page of the country.

And like our own George Sauer he's subject to a lot of hero worship, for yesterday afternoon a horde of youngsters, many of them too young to know what it's all about, stormed the Coliseum where the tennis star was preparing for his match with Tilden.

Students May Earn 56 Hours Credit Without Spending a Day in College

"Why go to college?" is no doubt the question asked by the student who has 56 hours of university credit and has never spent a day in college.

This is possible for students who are doing correspondence work through the Nebraska University Extension division. The present enrollment of 2,300 includes 2,000 in Nebraska and the remainder in thirty-two states, South America and Canada.

The University extension division, with A. Reed as director, has done much to add to its course of study and to increase its efficiency. The division performs an educational service; it inspects colleges and it is the machinery for accrediting both the Nebraska

HONOR 397 STUDENTS AT SCHOLARSHIP TEA

Senior Honorary Recognizes
Co-Eds with Average
of 80 or More.

The third annual Mortar Board scholarship tea, honoring 397 sophomore, junior, and senior women who earned an average of 80 or above and who made awards, seven hours in the two preceding semesters was held Sunday afternoon in Ellen Smith hall from 3 to 5:30 o'clock.

The receiving line was made up of Dean Amanda Heppner, Mrs. F. E. Coleman, national president of Mortar Board, Willa Norris, president of the active chapter, and the four recipients of this year's Panhellenic scholarship awards, Donna Davis, Jane Boos, Evelyn Diamond and Mary Helen Davis.

Decorations were carried out in yellow and green, with flowers of two shades of yellow being used. Music was furnished by representatives of the three musical sororities, Sigma Alpha Iota, Delta Omicron and Mu Phi Epsilon. Miss Alice Geddes was general chairman of the event and Valentine Klotz was in charge of decorations. Martha Hershey was in charge of refreshments and Jane Boos, publicity and music.

The recognition and encouragement of scholarship is one of the three aims of Mortar Board, according to Willa Norris, president of the organization. The development of leadership and service are also encouraged. Besides the recognition of scholarship students through the tea, the group maintains a scholarship fund, for loans to students of high scholarship standing.

"We rather emphasize scholarship," stated Miss Norris, "and we're proud of the fact that for the last two years the seniors with the highest averages have been Mortar Boards. Donna Davis and Jane Boos were highest scholars, locally this year, while last year the president of Mortar Boards, Margaret Upton, was high."
