

STUDENT COUNCIL PRESIDENT CALLS SPECIAL MEETING

Organization Presidents to Express Views About Reorganization.

STUDENTS APPROVE IDEA Session Is Result of Unrest In Regard to Unfair Campus Politics.

A special meeting of organization heads has been called by John Gepson, president of the Student Council, to secure opinions of representative leaders concerning the recent attacks on the failure of the council to function as a student legislative organization.

Gepson stated in his letter to organization heads that during the past few weeks there has been a spirit of unrest growing on the campus in regard to unfair policies and toward the ineffectiveness of the Student Council to remedy this accused evil.

Students Express Views. Bob Thiel, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council, was enthusiastic over the meeting.

"I believe that the meeting should prove successful in gaining an unbiased cross-section of student opinion concerning the Council, and some benefit should be derived from the meeting," Thiel said.

Lee Young, president of the senior class, believed that the meeting should provide an adequate vent for the recent attacks on the council.

Women's Orchestra Is Receiving Good Deal of Attention

One of the musical groups that has been receiving a great deal of attention lately is the women's orchestra under the direction of Miss Ethel Owens and Mrs. Edith B. Ross.

The orchestra, which is composed of twelve university girls, has played at many programs since its organization last October and has been very favorably received. The ensemble was recently featured at a music convocation and Sunday will present a program at the All Souls Unitarian church.

Large Ensemble Group. Mr. Howard Kirkpatrick, director of the school of music, says of the orchestra: "The orchestra is one of the larger ensemble groups of the school and furnishes a combination different from most. I am glad to see that it has received a very excellent reception."

ANNUAL PHOTOS SHOW INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

Magee States Ten Pictures Still to Be Taken for Senior Section.

An increase in the number of pictures for the Cornhusker was noted in the checkup made Saturday when the panels for the fraternity, sorority and junior sections were closed, according to Woodrow Magee, editor of the yearbook.

There was an increase of 40 percent in the number of pictures for the junior section, which is the largest of any department this year, due to the decreased membership of sororities and the complete representation obtained last year among them. The fraternity panels showed an increase in size, but only about 80 percent of active members of campus fraternities are represented in them.

Ten Senior Pictures. Ten pictures remain to be taken to fill the senior panels, and after these are closed, there will be no other opportunity to obtain a place in the book. Mr. Magee urged any senior who wished to be represented in the book to have his picture taken immediately, or any fraternity member who had his picture in a section to include it in the class panels, which could be done for the payment of $1.50.

Tabulations from senior pictures that are now in indicate an increase of about 5 percent over last year's figures. The official photographers have made a special request that all proofs be returned immediately, so that the proper picture may be selected and the panels be closed. If these selections are not made soon, the choice will be left with the photographers.

CHECK-UP SHOWS FILING FOR PROM GIRL TO BE SLOW

Music Committee Reports No Definite Arrangements For Orchestra.

Reports from the office of John K. Selleck, in charge of student activities, indicate that filings for Prom girl have been slow. In commenting on this Bill Fisher, who is chairman of the committee, expressed his belief that those who have contemplated filing for this position have been waiting until the last of the week. He urged that eligible senior women consider applying for this election.

Charles Galloway and Arlene Bors, in charge of decorations and presentation, report that several students are working on plans for presentation. The deadline for these schemes to be handed in is Friday, Feb. 16, at 5 o'clock. This contest is open to all university students and the winner will be awarded a $10 cash prize. Members of the Prom committee will act as judges for the plans.

Tom Davies reports that no definite arrangements have been made for securing a band for this function. He did point out that members of the committee have been negotiating with several booking agencies and that they hope to have a selection made in a short time.

STATE COLLEGES AIDING STUDENTS THRU CWA FUNDS

Nebraska Keeps Pace With Other Universities in The Nation.

WISCONSIN GETS MOST Jobs Awarded on Basis of Financial Need and Personal Merit.

The university's plans for dispensing federal grant money to needy students is keeping pace with similar projects in neighboring universities. Students will receive through the medium of part time work over $27,000 or about $15 a month for each of the 454 awarded. Officials of the school are now checking up on the eligibility of the many students who have applied.

The University of Wisconsin received one of the large grants amounting to $50,000 and giving employment to 700 students. This money together with state appropriated money, will give to students of this school more relief money than to any other student body in the country, stated Glenn Frank, president of the school. During last week the Cornhusker varsity, member of National Rifle association, fired a high score of 1351 in the National Intercollegiate Postal match with Iowa State Cyclones. The highest five scorers totaled their scores at the three required positions for the final team rating. Glenn Funk was the highest varsity man and eclipsed the season's record score of 371 with a high 374 at the four positions. Funk has broken his own record several times and has set the club standard during the last semester. John Boyd closely trailed Funk with a 370.

Table with 2 columns: Name, Score. Total 1351. Glenn Funk 374, John Boyd 370, etc.

With the score rising steadily every week, the rifle club advisors believe that the final standing will be far superior to last year's marksmen.
