

SPRING ELECTION WILL BE APRIL 3 COUNCIL DECIDES

Governing Body Feels More Time to Organize Is Necessary.

FILINGS OPEN MARCH 26
Plan of Revision With Eight Holdover Members Is Submitted.

Eight holdover members in the student council, instead of four as has been the custom, were provided for in a reorganization plan which passed the first vote in the regular council meeting Wednesday night. It was also voted that a recommendation be made to the new council this spring that if feasible the constitution be changed next year so as to provide for four more seniors-at-large.

The plan passed first reading after a report from the council committee on reorganization was heard. The report also proposed a check on registration in the various colleges with the possibility of a reapportionment. Second vote on the proposal will be taken at the next meeting of the council and if it passes will be submitted to the student body at the spring election, which was set for April 3.

Need More Time.
Because of the feeling that the new council members should have more time to organize before the summer this early date was chosen. Filings for the various officers to be filled will be opened on March 26 and closed on March 30, according to the decision reached by the council.
The present set up of representation calls for the following number to be elected: Ten junior men, two from Arts and Science college; and one from each of the other colleges.

FARMERS FAIR BOARD WILL GIVE AG MIXER

Activities Building Will Be Scene of Friday Night Event.

A mixer will be sponsored at the ag college activities building by the Farmers' fair board Friday night. The orchestra selected for the party has been popular at ag mixers this year, according to Charles Rochford, member of the committee.

"These last weeks of school students tend to have a good time," Arthur Peterson, Farmers' Fair manager, said, "so the board decided to sponsor an additional mixer." It has not been the usual practice for the fair board to sponsor mixers, Peterson said, but the board decided, because of the student interest in mixers, to make an exception.

Members of the committee for the Farmers' Fair board mixer Friday night are Florence Buxman, Catherine Agnew, Louis Schick, and Charles Rochford.

RUSSELL PRESCOTT TALKS AT SCHOONER MEETING WEDNESDAY

Incomplete Reports Show 85 Subscriptions Sold So Far in Drive.

With 85 subscriptions sold and many reports incomplete, the Prairie Schooner drive, which was to end today, has been extended until next Wednesday. Russell Prescott, associate editor of the Prairie Schooner and instructor of "English in the university," spoke on "Better ways to sell the Prairie Schooner" at the third report meeting, held yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Ellen Smith Hall.

"The Prairie Schooner is of value to everyone," stated Professor Prescott, "because it has to do with the mind and the intellect. People should be made aware of the fact that although they have no direct contact with it, they should support it like they do any other prominent department in the university such as the chemistry department or our football team."
Professor Prescott reminded the thirty workers present at the meeting that the dollar was really worth only 59.06 cents so that one would not be spending a huge amount when he purchased a Prairie Schooner. He stated that the suffering of spending comes before the article is purchased, and not after.

Frances Kalin was first again in the amount of subscriptions and was followed closely by Virginia Smith. Bash Perkins group led the teams with a total of 21. The next meeting of the workers will be Friday at 5 o'clock in Ellen Smith Hall.

FERGUSON EXPLAINS NEEDS OF RELIGION

Youth Should Decide Own Church Program Says Engineering Dean.

When he was approached concerning the Church Loyalty Crusade Wednesday Dean O. J. Ferguson of the engineering college made the following statement concerning the campaign which now is underway in Lincoln churches:

"The number of persons per thousand who have absolutely no religion is negligible. The number whose religious vision needs improving is appalling. Perhaps one should say it is challenging. And this is the problem facing organized religion, the churches."
"Now I know that you will ask, 'With this task before it, why does the church fall short of its opportunity to interest young people?'"

"Do you not agree with me in an explanation I offer?"
"It is because the program of the church is planned by the 'old' minds, rather than by the 'young' minds. It doesn't fully meet your needs nor sufficiently help you to solve your problems."
"Very well, so far. Now let me ask you one."
"If young folks would like a better church program, why don't you come and make one?"

YEARBOOK SALES CONCLUDE TODAY THIEL DECLARES

No Additional Cornhuskers Available After Deadline.

ORDER COVERS FRIDAY
Annual May Be Purchased On Installment Plan; Sales Higher.

All orders for the 1934 Cornhusker must be in the hands of the annual's business staff today according to an announcement made Wednesday by Robert Thiel, business manager of the yearbook. Covers for the book will be ordered Friday, he added, as no additional copies will be printed, students desiring a book must make their order immediately.

A definite checkup on the number of books sold was not available Wednesday, either on the final sale or total for the year. Thiel intimated, however, that approximately 1100 copies will be ordered which is an increase over last year's total.

The book may still be secured on an installment basis with an initial payment of $2.50 and a final payment of $2.25. The regular sales price is $4.50 in one payment.
"Cannot Fill Orders."
"After today it will be impossible to purchase a copy of this year's Cornhusker," stated Thiel, "and any additional requests later will not be filled. Although there are always a few people who want to get books at a late date we are not able to accommodate them. At the present time we are receiving orders asking for Cornhuskers for earlier years, and cannot fill them."

"The value of the book this year is greater than usual," declared Thiel, "as the issue is one-third larger and is available at no increase in price. It is the only true and representative record of college life and activities which a student can always have with him and gives him a return which more than recompenses him for its purchase. The value of the book not only is great at the present but becomes increasingly higher as the years pass."
The book will carry larger sections in college administration, athletics, junior and senior divisions, giving a more complete picture of these parts of university life. The whole of the book is enhanced by the new designs and characteristic unique features.

Feature Coed Pictures.
The high point of the feature section will be pictures of the six coeds selected by Bing Crosby, radio and screen star, as the most beautiful among twenty-five submitted by organized campus houses as their best representatives.

Two pictures of every football team were taken yesterday afternoon at the stadium.

H. B. Johnson, Editor and Publisher Of Watertown, N. Y. Paper, in Fervid Plea for Newspapers to Hire Youth

From Newsdom.
In the latest bulletin of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Harold B. Johnson, editor and publisher of the Watertown, N. Y., Daily Times, makes a fervid plea for youth. His article follows:

"The depression is displaying this tendency as it related to some American newspaper offices: They are failing to take on young men as a natural policy. The papers are endeavoring to hold their old staffs and the inclination is to turn aside the young men who seek places."
"It is true that the smaller newspapers are compelled to act conservatively and this probably applies also to the larger papers. But it is an unwise policy which excludes the young and fresh material."
"Newspaper offices become stale quickly unless particular attention is given to the development of new material. The seasoned men are desirable, but the young men are, after all, about the most valuable assets a newspaper office can have."
"Unless there is a constant filling in from the bottom, a con-

Flashlight Powder Explosion Alarms Nebraskan Office

A thunderous roar, and the old timbers of ancient U hall shook. Staff members, reporters, and hangers-on in the Nebraskan office jumped with surprise. The sound of running feet was heard from the room above. Was there a murmur on the campus? Was the rumpus making a get-away?

In a split second all was action in the Nebraskan office. Every one raced for the door. The group ran upstairs two steps at a time. The curious ones were just in time to catch those responsible for the rumpus making a get-away.

The roar was flashlight powder exploding as the Cornhusker photographers were in the act of getting the Student council picture.

Colorado Freshmen
A Bountiful Source Of Misinformation

BOULDER, Colo., March 14.—Freshmen, ever a bountiful source of misinformation and delightfully naive conclusions, this week had added the following interesting data to the world's knowledge as the result of examinations at the University of Colorado:

"Capitulation was the beheading of people."
"Febroonianism was a new month in the calendar of France."
"When Robespierre once started he got on killing people because there were so many anyway, and he wanted to get rid of them."
"He walked very well to the guillotine and took his death without a whimper."

A feature of the program will be a talk by Miss Ethel Booth, professor at Nebraska Wesleyan university. She will speak on the "Confessions of St. Patrick," a medieval Latin document which she has translated. This document, believed to really have been written by St. Patrick, is now in the possession of Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland. While even this important manuscript omits many biographical references which would have proved interesting, it is still the most significant of its kind. St. Patrick wrote it primarily to defend his religious beliefs.

Musical numbers and readings will complete the program, and the rest of the evening will be devoted to the solving of Latin crossword puzzles.
Everyone interested is urged to attend.

Two years ago the club played in Hastings with "Jingle Bells." That was the only trip made that year. No road tour was made with last year's show "Bar-O Ranch."

According to Musgrave, it will not be known definitely whether or not the show will be taken to the Nebraska towns for a few days. Club members are now negotiating with organizations in the four cities named.
"Members of the cast are getting down to regular rehearsals for 'The Campus Cop' Musgrave said. Ralph "Doc" Ireland is again directing the choruses for this year's production and Herb Yenne, author of this and two previous Kosmet Klub hits is casting director.
