

Daily Nebraskan

Station A, Lincoln, Nebraska. OFFICIAL STUDENT PUBLICATION UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA. This paper is represented for general advertising by the Nebraska Press Association.

This paper is represented for general advertising by the Nebraska Press Association.

Associated Collegiate Press 1933-1934

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice in Lincoln, Nebraska, under act of congress, March 3, 1879, and at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 20, 1922.

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR. Published Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday mornings during the academic year. SUBSCRIPTION RATE: $1.50 a year. Single copy 5 cents. $1.00 a semester. $2.50 a year mailed. Under direction of the Student Publication Board. Editorial Office—University Hall 4. Business Office—University Hall 4A. Telephone—Day: 66891; Night: 66882. B3333 (Journal) Ask for Nebraska editor.

FASHION EDITOR Margaret Easterday

For May Queen—Elsie Twitters!

It's a far cry from the weather bureau to Wampanoag, Nebraska, but today they have something in common. Weather representatives say it's officially spring. A Wampanoag representative at the same time inaugurates the spring season by throwing her hat into the queen's ring.

Today is the day, let it be known, that the women of the campus flock to the polls to answer the challenge of a great cause. They're going to elect the queen of the May. Hooray! Hooray! Let there be hey-hey. And while we're about it, a few words for the cause of the pride of Wampanoag. She's gorgeous. She's enchanting. She's a candidate for May Queen. And her name—Elsie Twitters.

After a last-minute conference with politicos last night, little Elsie decided her chances for victory were good enough to merit a shot at glory. So her hat is in the ring, and ours is in the air. She's the Daily Nebraskan's candidate for queen, the last and the largest of all the queens of an unusually queeny year.

Besides Nebraska support, Miss Twitters claims she's being sponsored by Mortar Board, Innocents, and election officials. This last, she feels, virtually assures her election.

And the platform on which she's standing is even more moth-eaten than the venerable Ivy Day throne furniture. Here it is, varnished, antiseptic and sparkling:

- 1. A Date For Every Hour. 2. Eighty-three nights. (But after that...!) 3. A mug of beer for every voter.

4. NO MORE QUEENS. Hats and hats—Miss Twitters' lid is in the ring, and ours is in the air. Ladies, the polls are open. We give you a worthy candidate: Elsie Twitters (and admits it.)

Ag College

By Carlyle Hodgkin.

BREAKFAST AT EIGHT.

SUNDAY morning, March 25, is likely to see nearly 150 university students breakfasting together at the Ag college activities building. Last year the Easter breakfast was attended by 115, and the chairmen in charge of program.

When

YOUTH WANTS STYLE

they come here to get it!

Perfect little shoes that dash hither and yon... that employ all the clever young details smart misses are always looking for.

Smoked Elk with brown trim... laced to toe... rubber sole. A joy and its only $3.95

138 So. 13th.

—Picture by Rinehart-Marsden. Aside from wearing a swanky Berg hat by Dobbs from the Magee's Men's Furnishing department, Armad Hunter plays all kinds of leads in University Player productions. But the hat—it's the new Tyrolean model with the severe turnup in the back and a straight swoop down across the front. It has a narrow binding, a pointed or tapering crown, and comes in several different colors.

the reception, and the menu say this year they intend to prepare for 150.

This Easter breakfast, sponsored at ag college each year by the students associated with the Warren and Epworth churches, is a growing tradition on the ag campus. It has been given annually now for several years, and each time the attendance has been larger than ever before. The reasons why the Easter breakfast attendance has grown constantly are not hard to see.

One very significant reason is that it is Easter time. All the girls have their new bonnets—and what else happens to go with them. Now having these new bonnets, it is only perfectly natural that the girls should want to wear them. The Easter breakfast affords an excellent opportunity.

If that reason for the girls' attendance be accepted as valid, then the reason why the boys go becomes almost too obvious to mention. They go because the girls do. The breakfast is, in fact, rather surprisingly a date affair—more accurately, perhaps, it is a do-or-don't-as-you-choose affair.

No less important a reason for the growing attendance at ag college Easter breakfasts is the fact that the morning's program is something quite out of the ordinary. To get up just in time for church Sunday morning is more or less a custom. To get up just in time for Sunday dinner is not too infrequent. But to get up, get ready, and go out for breakfast at 8 a. m. is something different. It is something of a lark.

Then, too, more college students attend church than small town movie goes may think. If the regular Sunday morning program includes a t. e. n. e. n. c. e. at some church, it is an easy matter to let that attendance be, at the program at the Easter breakfast. Dr. Roy Spooner, superintendent of Methodist churches in the Lincoln district, is the speaker and is familiar to no small number of students. They are likely to want to hear him.

—Picture by Rinehart-Marsden. Anne Bunting chooses this unusually smart afternoon frock from Gold & Co. to wear for informal house dances, spring parties, and afternoon affairs. . . . aqua blue trimmed in brown. . . a flattering new "just arrived" fashion at Gold's Kampus Corner. The price? It's only 16.50.

The food itself is always an incentive. The end of the semester is creeping closer and closer, and students want to be doing all the things they can while there is still time. Of course, Sunday morning might be greeted with a rainstorm or a blizzard, which would doubtless keep Easter bonnets—and all that goes with them—at home. But granting good weather, it would seem to be the part of wisdom for the program committee and especially the menu committee to be on the job.

AG COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

THAT boy Jack McGarraugh, ag freshman from San Antonio, Tex., last Saturday set the best mark so far this season when he high jumped six feet. He was taking part in an exhibition workout in the coliseum for a group of coaches and players attending the state high school basketball meet. He also took second in low hurdles and went 20 feet 10 inches for a second place in the broad jump. Owen Rist, ag college junior won the shot contest in the same meet.

—Picture by Rinehart-Marsden. Kurk McClean looks most handsome in the new white Shetland Norfolk jacket and brown houndstooth check trousers, from Ben Simon's Men's Department. The jacket has peaked back, all around belt, three pearl buttons (the middle one to fasten), and patch pockets with flaps.

The trousers, a coarse texture Scotch fabric that can really take it, are full in the body but taper to a small bottom. Buttons? No, the newest zipper trousers.

heaving it out 45 feet 11 inches. The weight and speed these men show will come in handy for the jobs they have before them on farmers' fair committee. For Rist is one of the heavy fisted chiefs on the police committee and McGarraugh will probably get to drive stakes on the construction committee.

COLLARS IMPORTANT IN SPRING CLOTHES

College girls will "get it in the neck," for shops are full of collars and neckwear which play an important part in spring accessories (and which do a lot to brighten up an old dress!)

Instead of straight plain collars, the windblown style shows its effect and collars ripple and fluff out from under one's chin. Materials are organdy, lace, —Picture by Rinehart-Marsden. The globe trotter suit featured by Gold & Co., and modeled by Lucille Lampert. A very smart three piece ensemble. . . swagger top coat, under-coat and skirt. Novelty brown with polka dot tie. . . 29.00.

linen, waffled pique, flat crepe or organza. Favorite colors are white, plaids, stripes and checks. Delicacy, intricacy, and femininity are features of these colors which glorify simple frocks.

University men's commercial club will hold its regular meeting in the club room Wednesday evening, at 7:30.

—Picture by Rinehart-Marsden. To top it off Jean Blirvall wears a large navy blue, handkerchief felt hat, which is almost as large as a small umbrella and equally effective to keep the hot Nebraska sun. And it comes from Ben Simon's Millinery department.

Student Council. A special meeting of the student council will be held Wednesday at 5 o'clock in the rooms. A final decision will be reached on reorganization plans, and the junior-prom committee will also make a report.

Keeping Smartly Young

Consult Miss Agnes, internationally known as master of her art, whose counsel is sought by society and celebrities in personality hair-styling, permanent waving, scalp treatment or blended cosmetics to suit the individual complexion by scientific analysis of the skin. Powder, rouge and eye shadow blended to harmonize. Consult Miss Agnes or one of her personally trained attendants. Special appointments, if desired. Phones: B3122 - B6971

Agnes Beaute Shoppe Agnes F. Schmitt Hotel Cornhusker, Lincoln, Neb.

Spring Reveals Exquisite 'JACQUELINE Modes for Easter' advertisement featuring images of shoes and a price of 5.95. Text includes: 'distinctive...yet youthful...elegant...yet inexpensive' and 'Other Styles 3.95 and 4.95'. 'Here are styles with an air of originality...sophistication and design. They express quality to the nth degree...perfect examples of shoes for a perfect Easter. Kidskins...Porette...Tynette...in Beige, Navy, Grey or Black.'

Ben Simon & Sons Important Easter Fashions - In Suits and Dresses. Simon Feature Values That They Are Talking About $16.50 And $25. Vivid Colors— Unique Patterns— Scotch— British— Swagger— Short Jackets— Raglans— Crepes— Sheers— Knitted— A Grand Collection Distinctive Styles Superlative Values

The masculine tribe is GOING SCOTCH. WITH the best dressed young men wearing Shepherd's checks and Glen plaids... mankind is going to have the most varied and colorful career since the clans last baggiped over the highlands. There's an interesting checkered career for you in these fine woolens of authentic design carefully selected by Robert Surrey... tailored with that soft drape and smoothness of line that lends distinction and character to young men's attire. ROBERT SURREY CLOTHES $35. Ben Simon & Sons.