Preference Shown For White 'Flats' By Nebraska Coeds

"Footprints in the sands of time" might well be changed to "Dents in the library stairs," and it's the college girl with her smartly clad feet who helps to make history when she tramps the stairways. Coeds on the Nebraska campus seem to have a preference for white flats in the spring time, and white flats, black and white, and brown and white combinations are all good this spring. Pigskin and buck are favored materials with perforations galore cut in them.

PEEPING THROUGH THE KEYHOLE WITH Perky Polly

We'd like to encase you in something new every time you visit the ready-to-wear floor. It would be easy to do . . . for something makes its debut every day . . . and we don't think we exaggerate. We know we snoop around and sometimes get our fingers burned handling dresses that are just off the griddle! Today's snoopings netted these finds.

In Our Dotage

We're simply "that way" over the new polka dots. They're different this year. We'll have you know. Instead of the usual white or black or navy, they're pastel on dark grounds . . . and very pretty.

A Little Stiff

There are a lot of stiffs getting around to the best parties. Because crisp net, organza, and taffeta are the things to wear.

Chilly? Try Chinchilla

It's the newest thing for white swagger coats. They'll be grand all summer . . . so we advise buying now to save later tears.

Velvet Scrubs Its Face

Strike us pink, here's a washable velvet. Made of cotton, but who'd know the difference? In jackets, dresses and what not for summer.

Pure and Simple

But how devastating these white gloves can be when worn with dark dresses. They're getting around a lot these days.

We can't remember when coats were more wearable. They're tailored without being severe; dressy without being fussy. You can choose one with fur trimming or one that relies entirely on its fabric and line to make it smart. Sizes 14 to 44.

Answer the call to colors! Wear something gay as Mexico and as colorful. Smart colors have never been so alive or used so effectively. Bright sleeves in dark dresses . . . gay prints on somber grounds all are here, and as attractive in price as in appearance.
