HUSKERS ON EDGE FOR IOWA

Torch Parade Features Rally Tonite

FANS CHEER TEAM ON EVE OF BATTLE

Enthusiastic Iowa-Husker Pre-Game Demonstration Starts at Temple Theater at 6:45; Innocents, Tassels, Corn Cobs Lead Students to Stadium.

CHIEF CONDOT PROMISES ESCORT FOR EVENT

Thousands Radio Listeners to Hear Bible, Parsons, Sauer Speak on Fifteen-Minute Program Broadcast Over Station KFOR at 7:15.

On a mission of Cornhusker spirit, hundreds of Nebraska football fans will meet tonight at 6:45 at the Temple Theater, to join Tassels, Corn Cobs and Innocents in what promises to be the most spectacular pep rally in years. Spurred by enthusiasm for the Husker-Iowa University grid tilt they will follow the flaming torch parade to Memorial Stadium where a fifteen minute demonstration will be broadcast over radio station KFOR.

The torch parade is scheduled to leave the Temple promptly at 6:45, arrangements for the broadcast making it absolutely necessary that the program in the stadium be started on exactly the appointed hour. It will march east to Sixth and R streets, then north to Vine street and then west to the stadium.

Billie Quick's R. O. T. C. band will head the rallying column, followed by the two pep organizations, Tassels and Corn Cobs. Brilliant flaming torches, carried by Corn Cobs will light the rally. Chief of Police Condit has promised a police escort for the event.

For fifteen minutes, from 7:15 to 7:30, thousands of radio fans will hear Nebraska's enthusiastic pre-game demonstration. They will hear Head Coach D. X. Bible, game captain Bud Parsons, and the Huskers' 1933 All-American George Sauer. Efforts to bring the Hawkeye mentor, Ossie Solem and Dick Crayne, his backfield ace to the rally, were dropped when it was learned that the Iowa team will not arrive in Lincoln until later in the evening.

"Every member of Corn Cobs will be present for the rally," president Hill stated yesterday. He announced that members of the pep organization will meet at the Temple at 6:30, and has ordered each member to bring a torch for the rally.

Fraternity and sorority houses have promised their support and cooperation for the demonstration. Every effort is being made by members of the committee in charge to make tonight's rally as big as is possible.

NEBRASKAN CONDUCTS SECOND NEWS CLASS

Reporters Are Expected to Attend Practice Session Saturday.

LEADS WILL BE STRESSED

Reporters aspiring to regular posts on the Daily Nebraskan are expected to attend the second meeting of the practice news writing class Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, according to members of the editorial staff who conduct the session each week.

Concentrating on leads and proper organization of subject matter, the class will be asked to construct news stories from sets of facts that will be handed out. This writing will be done under the supervision of paid staff members and corrected as to journalistic diction and grammar rules of journalism.

This class which met for the first time last week is conducted for the purpose of developing an efficient corps of news writers and reporters according to Jack Fischer and Lorraine Bible, managing editors. Attendance at these sessions, while not compulsory, will nevertheless be considered a valuable qualification when beats are assigned as well as when recommendations are made to the Publications Board.

Fundamentals of a news story were outlined to the fifteen prospective reporters who attended the first class last Saturday, but the managing editors stated that absence from that session does not prevent students from entering the course Saturday morning.

"Any one interested in working on the Daily Nebraskan is invited to attend this class," Burt Marvin, editor announced. This includes those who have already done reporting as well as newcomers who want a try at landing a regular job on the staff. No partiality will be shown and the assignment of beats will be based on ability shown in this practice work."

CHEER LEADERS TRY NEW YELLS AT GAME

Modified Locomotive to Be Led from Middle of Playing Field.

Two new yells will be introduced to the Nebraska football fans during the Iowa-Husker game Saturday.

A short individual yell such as "Yeah-rah-Bible" has been introduced to allow every substitute to be given a cheer.

The other yell will be a modified form of the locomotive. This yell is only to be used once, however, during each home game. When the Nebraska band forms the usual N U in front of the student stands, the yell will be led from the center of the field in an endeavor to bring the voices of the entire stadium crowd into action.

Miss Craig's Exhibit Case in Entrance To Main Library Depicts Evolution of Bible from 4,000 Years Ago to Now

By LORRAINE CAMPBELL.

Those students who use the library during the year will probably be interested in the exhibit case on the right side of the entrance hall, where Miss Craig, the reference librarian, arranges various relevant exhibits during the year. At present the evolution of the Book is shown, beginning with a copy of the Sennacherib inscription, the most ancient written work in the world, dated 4000 B. C., and finishing with several books printed in modern style.

The top shelf illustrates mainly, the earliest type of writing and writing materials, including an actual clay tablet dating to 2000 B. C., and a Sumerian copy of the Lord's prayer written on a palm leaf. Facsimiles of early writing on papyrus are: The Book of the Dead, preserved within the tombs of Egypt; The Maya manuscript in the accordion folded form (succeeding the rolled papyrus form); the Japanese bound type that was blank on the inside and written on the exterior and a page of the first book written with movable type—the Gutenberg Bible.

The library has in its possession an actual page of this Bible. The Library of Congress in 1930 purchased one of the finest complete works of the book for $1,500,000, according to Miss Craig. These Bibles are thought to have been written in Mainz in 1455 and are four times as scarce as Shakespeare's first folio.

The description of the discovery of parchment given in the exhibit is an interesting one. Ptolemy, king of Egypt and Evmenes, king of Pergamon were rivals in the founding of libraries. Evmenes tried to steal Ptolemy's library. Failing, he was forced to find a substitute for papyrus since his country failed to produce this plant. As a result, parchment, a superior material because it could be used on both sides and in binding as well, was discovered and used.

CORN COB FROLIC HOLDS SPOTLIGHT DURING WEEK-END

Music to Be Furnished by Red Perkins and Crew of "Dixie Ramblers."

HAWKEYE TEAM INVITED

Permanent Decorations Have Been Secured for The Affair.

Hailed by members of the men's pep organization as the outstanding function of the fall season, the Corn Cob Frolic, scheduled for Saturday night in the coliseum, will also be in celebration of the Iowa-Nebraska football tussle Saturday afternoon.

"Dancing to the music of Red Perkins and his colored crew of 'Dixie Ramblers,' those attending the affair will also enjoy the setting of permanent decorations which have been secured for the event," Irving Hill, Corn Cob president, stated.

Final preparations for the party have been completed in detail, it was announced. Tickets for the event are being sold by members of the club or may be purchased at the door of the coliseum Saturday night for 75 cents per couple.

Members of the Iowa football team have been invited to attend the event. Coach Ossie Solem's squad will not leave Lincoln until midnight Saturday, and the bids are hoped, by members of the men's pep club, to aid in the creation of good will between the two schools.

The party encountered temporary difficulty when the Corn Cobs failed to secure permission from the faculty committee to conduct the event. However the committee met with representatives of the Corn Cobs, and members of the innocents society and decided to grant the pep club permission to continue with the affair.

By granting the Corn Cobs the use of the coliseum and surrendering their right to the night, the Bar Council made the party possible. Co-operation of fraternity and sorority houses on the campus was also secured despite the short notice given them by the pep organization. "Practically all the houses have responded generously by postponing their affairs until later dates," Irving Hill stated.

Mrs. Harrie R. Chamberlain, national president of the Y. W. C. A., from Toledo, O., will speak at the opening dinner. Mrs. Chamberlain, who was formerly national secretary, was re-elected for the second biennial term. Breta Peterson will preside at the dinner and at all campaign meetings. MILITARY BALL PLANS MUST BE IN BY NOV. 5

Best Idea for Introducing Honorary Colonel Worth $15 to Originator.

Students who desire to submit a plan for the presentation of the honorary colonel must have it entered by Nov. 5, instead of Nov. 15 as previously announced. Following a precedent established last year, a $15 prize is being offered for the plan that is accepted.

It is necessary to have the plans on this earlier date to enable the committee to consider the relative merits of all, and have time to prepare for the presentation, military officials said.

Plans must be original and must be entirely different from any that have been used in the last four years. Simplicity above everything else must be the keynote of the design, it was indicated.

Former Faculty Member to Address Professional Men's Conclave.

Dr. W. Duncan Strong, former member of the faculty in the department of sociology, will be the principal speaker at the national convention of the American Inter-professional Institute to be held in Lincoln today and Saturday.

With some fifty local members, over half of which are on the university faculty, the Lincoln chapter is being held to the convention for the second time in its nine years of existence.

Illustrating his lecture with slides and motion pictures, Dr. Strong will relate his experiences "On the Trail of Mayan Ruins in Honduras" this evening at the Hotel Lincoln. Dr. Strong, who was very prominent in archeological work at the university, is now anthropologist of the American bureau of ethnology of the Smithsonian institution.

Other convention speakers on the opening day will be Chancellor Edgar A. Burnett, honorary member of the Lincoln chapter, who will give the welcoming address; Alfred G. Pelikan, director of the Milwaukee Art institute, who will speak on "The Influence of Modern Art on Everyday Life"; Dr. Benjamin F. Bailey, who will talk on the subject, "A Physician Looks to the Future"; William C. Knoelke, of Milwaukee, who will deliver an address on "The Challenge of Education in Achieving Economic Recovery"; and Professor Vold, on the subject, "Progress and Prospects in the Administration of Justice."

Those listed to speak on Saturday's program are as follows: Prof. C. Walker Hayes; Jane Adgams professor of sociology and social work at Rockford college, who will speak on the subject, "The Sociologist Sees the Movies and Listens In."; Dr. F. M. Elliot of St. Paul, whose topic will be "Professional Responsibility in the New Social Order"; and F. Dwight Kirsch, chairman of the department of fine art, who will give an illustrated lecture.

Saturday afternoon the convention delegates will attend the Iowa-Nebraska football game, and a tea will be held afterwards in Gallery A of Morrill hall.

Merle Seybolt, Home from Year in Kunschegewerbe Schule, Tells of Student Life in German University

"When a girl in Germany has a date she meets her escort on some street corner, and pays half the expenses of the evening herself." This is just one of the little interesting facts Miss Merle Seybolt, university student, brought back with her from a year's visit in Germany.

While in Germany Merle attended Kunschegewerbe Schule, an art school, and consequently had an extraordinary chance to view German life, especially among the young people.

"German men do not follow the little acts of courtesy which women in America except of their escorts," Miss Seybolt continued. "When entering a restaurant the man always sits down first, leaving the lady to seat herself. It is not uncommon, however, for a man to kiss a lady's hand."

Few girls are admitted to the colleges, most schools allowing not more than 10 percent of the total enrollment to be made up of women. Miss Seybolt declared, so there are no sororities on the campuses, although there are fraternities. The girls who do attend college, she said, are very masculine in appearance and go in for all sorts of sports.

NO CONCESSIONS MADE HAWKEYES

Scarlet Camp Refuses to Admit Superiority of Old Gold Threat; Despite Under-Dog Rating for Saturday Fray by Sports Scribes.

THREE NEW FACES APPEAR IN STARTING LINEUP

Simmons, Crayne, Fisher Combination Promises Long Day for Biblemen; Varsity Seeks to Protect Four Year Record of No Home Losses.

BY ARNOLD LEVINE.

Nebraska refuses to concede Iowa a single thing in Saturday's fray! That was the news which came from Coach D. X. Bible and the Husker varsity as final preparations were made to repel the invasion of Memorial Stadium by the vengeance-bound Hawkeyes Saturday.

For the second consecutive week, Col. Bible's men are rated the underdogs as the "wise money" and boys "in the know" predict an Iowa victory. The Huskers have displayed no fear of the Hawkeyes to date, however, and the revamped eleven which is scheduled to take the field Saturday is at its peak and itching for the fight.

Coach Bible is a firm believer in signs and the placard "Iowa Next. A Fine Chance to Make A Comeback," which adorns the grey-walled dressing rooms seems to pretty well typify the spirit which the Huskers have shown in practice this week.

It is unusual for Nebraska to be on the short end of the betting, especially on its home field. It is also unusual for Nebraska to be smarting from anything like a 20 to 0 defeat. Couple these situations with the fact that Nebraska is defending a record of no defeats on its home sod since 1930 and perhaps the source of what seems to be a new fighting spirit in the team, is no longer a mystery.

Iowa, however, also has a score to settle. The sting of a 7 to 6 loss to the Huskers last year—a loss in which Nebraska's winning touchdown was disputed—still is a delicate subject with Coach Ossie Solem and his boys who have sworn revenge.

Acting to remedy the defects so apparent in the Minnesota encounter, Coach Bible has made three changes in the starting lineup. "Lanky Les" McDonald, the elongated offensive threat from Grand Island will get the nod at left end. Ladas Hubka, the Table Rock boy, who almost singlehandedly stopped one of the Gopher offensive threats last Saturday, will hold down the right guard berth. Russ "King Kong" Thompson, the Whitney giant, will get the initial call at right tackle with his 230 pounds.

McDonald is expected to add to the scoring punch of the Husker attack via the air while Hubka and Thompson are expected to bolster the Scarlet defense, which functioned only at the goalposts last week.

GROUPS FILE ENTRIES FOR FALL REVUE SKITS

Kosmet Klub Receives Total Eighteen Applications For Annual Show.

MAY REJECT FEW ACTS

Eighteen campus groups had filed entries for skits in the annual Kosmet Klub Fall Revue at the deadline Thursday night. This is the largest number of applications in recent years, according to Tom Davies, president of the Klub.

Completed applications include the following organizations: Kappa Kappa Gamma—Alpha Tau Omega; Sigma Chi—Phi Kappa Phi; Sigma Alpha Epsilon—Kappa Alpha Theta; Alpha Delta Theta; Delta Upsilon—Delta Gamma; Alpha Phi; Pi Beta Phi; Beta Theta Pi; Pershing Rifles; Chi Phi—Alpha Chi Omega; Delta Zeta; Carrie Belle Raymond hall; Sigma Alpha Iota; Gamma Phi Beta; Phi Gamma Delta—Zeta Beta Tau; Delta Tau Delta; Alpha Sigma Phi and Chi Omega.

Preliminary judging of acts will be held Oct. 22, when some skits may be eliminated. Skitmasters will be appointed from Kosmet Klub immediately after the first eliminations.

Workers for the fall revue were appointed to their committees at a meeting on Thursday afternoon. DuKe Reid, Ted Bradley and Bill Colwell will serve on the production committee. Hugh Rathburn, Jack Pace, Bob Shellenberg, Bob Funk and Roy Kennedy will work on the business committee. Workers on the presentation idea committee are Johnston Snipes, Dale Oder, and Vance Leininger.

Dwight Perkins, Douglas Harpner, and Ross Martin were appointed to the sweetheart election committee. William Stenzen and George Walliser will serve on the contest committee. For the advertising committee, Floyd Baker and George Ramel were selected, and Gene Franke, George Fips, and Lloyd Friedman will work on the publicity committee.

Further describing German schools, she added, "Every school has a definite time each day, usually 10 o'clock in the morning and 4 o'clock in the afternoon, set aside for serving coffee. This is done despite the fact that, judged by American standards, the German coffee is very poor."
