

CAMPUSOCIETY

WE'VE TALKED AND TALKED about people that were going to Kansas—now we'll tell you about those that went. They rode all Saturday morning on the train or in automobiles, had their rally in the streets of Lawrence—and then it started to rain! And it rained and rained. One boy found a packing box, cut a hole in the top for his head, and enjoyed the game in comfort. Others used newspapers and blankets for shelter but everybody could wring water out of their coats. Both teams looked alike except the substitutes—when they first went in. The "Chief's" suit plus the mud weighed a mere fifty pounds by the time the game was over. But everything taken into consideration—there's really nothing like a good football trip even though school does go on as usual the next day.

MEMBERS of Elementary Education classes will return to their childhood days again when they attend the costume party and dinner being given this evening at Ellen Smith Hall at six o'clock by the Elementary Education club. Everyone will be dressed as children and prizes will be awarded for the prettiest, cleverest, and funniest costumes. The party has been planned under the direction of Miss Clara Wilson. Jean Huss, president of the organization, and her staff which is composed of Mary Louise Steen, Dorothy Ogden, and Betty Lindholm have made the arrangements. Favors will be given and an original program which has been planned by Elizabeth Shearer will be presented.

RECENTLY announced was the engagement and approaching marriage of Marian Lawson of Hastings to Frank William Sharp of Grand Island. When in the university Miss Lawson was affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta and Mr. Sharp was a member of Kappa Sigma. The bride-to-be is teaching kindergarten in Alliance this year and her fiancée is with the General Motors Acceptance corporation in Grand Island where the couple will reside. The wedding will take place Dec. 1 at the home of the bride's parents.

ANOTHER marriage which will take place soon is that of Bernice Gross to Dr. Rynold Decker of Parker, S. D. Both members of this couple have attended the university where Dr. Decker was a member of Xi Psi Phi. The wedding will be an event of Nov. 29 at the home of the bride's parents. Dr. Decker is practicing dentistry in Parker.

JUST RECENTLY announcement was made of the marriage of Naomi Schleiger of Lincoln to Dr. J. Meredith Boomer also of Lincoln. The couple were married last June 14 in Lake Mahopac, N. Y. Dr. Boomer is a graduate of the university medical school and is affiliated with Omega Beta Pi and Pi Chi fraternities. He is now an intern in the University hospital in Omaha.

A MARRIAGE which will take place Dec. 9 is that of Fern Darline Harris to Harold Crocker. Both have attended the university. The couple will live in Lincoln.

DELTA UPSILON Mothers' club met at the home of Mrs. H. H. Urbach for a one o'clock luncheon yesterday. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. L. H. Pauley, Mrs. H. G. Schmidt and Mrs. F. J. Myers.

SIGMA KAPPA alumnae will be entertained by Miss Charlotte Kizer in her Cape Code studio this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Appointments will be in keeping with the studio, and clam chowder and other favored Cape Code dishes will be served. Assisting will be Mrs. Philip G. Johnson and Miss Florence Zuercher. The twenty guests will spend the evening playing bridge.

DELTA DELTA Mother's club had a bridge benefit at the chapter house Saturday afternoon. There were forty-six tables.

AND WE WISH to apologize for the mistake made in Sunday's column. We stated that Betty Cathers was going to Kansas from the Delta Zeta house while all the time it was Doris Mills.

AND ANOTHER much-expected event happened last night. Bash Perkins, Arnold, passed the candy at the Alpha Xi Delta house while Harold Soderland, Lincoln, celebrated by passing cigars out to his Alpha Tau Omega brothers.

CRISIS FOR MIDWEST COLLEGES IN JANUARY

34-35 Promises to Be Most Critical Year Since Depression.

FEDERAL AID DESIRED

By College News Service.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Midwest colleges and universities in the drought area will reach a crisis early in January, according to this week's expectations of the research division of the National Educational association which stated, following a recent survey, that "the most critical since the depression began."
"The crisis may be expected in January, 1935, at which time many schools will have expended all funds on hand," the survey report stated.
States most drastically affected by the drought menace were listed as Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Utah and Wisconsin. In most of these states the association predicted that a drastically reduced operating term for 1934-35 may be expected unless federal aid is forthcoming.
"There is a slight indication of educational recovery in other sections of the country," the report continued, "but it is so slight that it would require twenty years to regain the 1929 level unless it is accelerated in the future."
The extreme financial plight of the institutions was revealed when the association discovered many schools to have borrowed until they could not obtain additional loans. Other districts were found able to borrow money but only with the threat of bankruptcy staring them in the face. The situation was made more poignant, according to the investigation, by an existing tax delinquency in nine midwest states of 29.5 percent, involving $46,000,000.

Hope was expressed that the federal government would "come to the rescue" of the allegedly floundering educational system. Last year $150,000,000 in federal aid was provided in emergency aid allocations to education in various parts of the country.
Efforts to keep operating expenditures at a minimum was reported as many schools were found to be running greatly overcrowded classes, often reaching sixty to seventy students per instructor. Difficulty was seen in efforts to provide fuel and teaching supplies.
Belief that the downward trend of education, as a national situation, is checked was expressed by the investigation body.
Further progress toward educational recovery and reconstruction is assertedly dependent upon three important factors: (1) the character of the business trend in the future, (2) the action of legislatures which will convene in practically every state during the year and (3) the policy of the federal government as to the continuance of emergency aids to education.

PLAYERS STAGE NEW SUCCESS IN CURRENT DRAMA

seen her kissing a strange man in an automobile.
"There is horror over his parents' final quarrel, and sullen despair in the court room later when he lies to get his mother her divorce. He is just a delighted youngster when he gets a new bicycle, but the next second a cold, remote mask drops across his face as he remembers that his new stepfather gave it to him.
He is ecstatic again, for a while, when he gets back to his father; but crushed, and utterly beaten when he finds that Daddy, too, is going to marry again. And in the end he gives his audience one of the most desolate moments it has had. Here is a bright haired boy in a stiff military school uniform sitting on the edge of an army cot, his round face haunted, trying to set grimly over the bitter consolation, "They'll be sorry some day... maybe."
Hill, Miss Carr Share Honors.
As the father, "Ray Phillips," Irving Hill shared honors with Blanche Carr, "Katherine Phillips," the mother. The two "other" people who married the divorced parents are Melvin Fielder as "Howard Benton" and Elsa Swift as "Louise." Art Bailey as "Chic Nevin," the military academy cynic, was particularly true to life. Six Lincoln boys added zest to the cast, and three veterans who played the roles of "Mr. Procter," the "Judge" and "Mr. Keyes" were Dwight Perkins, Roy Squire and Jack Epstein. Others in the cast were Delford Brummer, Irene Barry, Florence Smeerin and Era Lown, a seasoned Player who will be "Dr. Stirling."
The three acts are divided into nine scenes, ranging from two living room scenes, a boardwalk along the ocean front, a back yard and a sun porch to the military academy set. Costumes were appropriately selected; cast members appear in everything from sports togs to evening clothes and from maid's uniform to military academy dress uniform.

Sets and scenery were in charge of Don Friedly, stage designer and technician, and his stage crew. Properties were assembled by Don Buell and his staff. This play will meet with great success from an audience who appreciates the drama, but for those who are expecting a second comedy such as the recent "Her Master's Voice" will be sadly disappointed. It has an unusually large cast, who handle the lines well. The rest is up to its audience.
Harvard, Yale, and Princeton last week were at odds with each other over the alleged theft of 4,000 copies of the joint football issue of the Harvard Lampoon and the Princeton Tiger.
