CAMPUSOCIETY

EXAM WORRIES—FOR THE PRES-ent at least—will be east far in the background and parties, music, dancing and all that goes with them will be the only thoughts in the world for most of the students as the whirl of university parties once again gets under way this weekend. There are three formals to be attended besides two house parties and the extra super presentation of Charlie Agnew at the Marigold. What with nearly three weeks since the population of the campus has met in any place except classrooms or "caking" shops it will seem mighty nice to see them all together in formals again-don't you think so?

DELTA SIGMA LAMBDA members and their guests will dance to the music of Eddie Jungbluth when they entertain at a formal this evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Cornhusker hotel, Chaperoning the affair will be Mrs. H. Catherine Stoddart and Eleanor Pleak reported on the Prairie Schooner sales drive, and received subscriptions from members who had sold magazines. Patricia Vetter reported on the proposed proj-talk on an advertising survey sent of two tests conducted in Pittsburgh, Pa. and Columbus, O., showing what types of advertising secured the best results. She illustrated her talk with colored advertisements and catalogues.

The date of initiation was set for Thursday, Feb. 7, and the date of the next meeting of the organization will be announced later.

Morley gave a smothered yelp of delight at a luncheon at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, the other day when a professor described the difference between a university and an insane asylum.

"You have to show improvement to get out of the asylum," said the professor.

tion is doing its best to boost prices in general, the price of going to college in America is sliding down the scale. Tuition charges have dropped on an average of $62 in 125 colleges, the United States office of education shows.

Specialists in the office show that the economical student in liberal arts colleges spends from $540 to $630 a year, with state universities soaking up less of the money than the private schools. Medium cost is incurred in denominational schools. The most expensive man's college in the country in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where the minimum is $1,080.

Then at Northwestern university (Evanston, Ill.), sorority girls decided to stuff a ballot box. They selected a list of names out of the student address book, and used them. It was very sad; some of the names they picked belonged to some of the election judges. So, one day, he got into a huddle with a male student in the
