

INTERFRATERNITY BASKETEERS GO INTO FINAL SPURT

Undefeateds Have to Fight To Stay That Way Tuesday Night.

With the close of the season drawing near, Tuesday night witnessed the struggles of several undefeated teams to remain in the running. It was the beginning of the end so to speak. The final game will be played next Tuesday and then the playoffs will commence.

Tuesday saw the valiant stands of several lowly teams against the mighty of their league, only to have the celerities fall before the stamina and endurance of the men who made up the undefeated teams. One previously untamed team, however was excluded from the ranks of the vaunted by the machinations of another leader. The Phi Gamma Delta cagers awoke with a bang in the second half after trailing 4 to 3 in the first half, to vanquish the heretofore unbeaten Tau Kappa Epsilon five 17 to 8. The accurate basket shooting and smooth dribbling of Berrie Sherer was the big factor in the Phi Gams second half resurgence.

The Alpha Tau Omega team gave the mighty Phi Psi a great scare by heading them at the middle gun by a 3 to 2 score. In the second stanza however, the Phi Psi arose in wrath at such rough treatment at the hands of the weak but fighting A. T. O. team and secured a 10 to 3 victory. The Delta Tau Delta hoopsters continued their victory march by trouncing Theta Xi 19 to 4. The Theta Xi team never had the slightest glimpse of a chance against the tricky floor work of the mighty Deltas.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon team, which has not tasted of defeat this year were scared out of several years growth before they finally accumulated enough free throws to subdue the Phi Delta Theta barricaders, 8 to 7. The unconquered Sigma Nu team had little trouble in running all over the Phi Alpha Delta team, 15 to 4. Beta Sigma Psi eked out an 8 to 7 victory over the Delta Upsilon basketeers. Alpha Sigma Phi and Sigma Alpha Mu went an extra period before the latter finally edged out a 14 to 11 triumph. The score at the end of regular playing time was ten all. The Xi Psi Phi team beat the Zeta Beta Tau team under the top heavy score of 31 to 8.

The Delta Sigma Lambdas and Farm House teams staged a comedy of errors as the former finally emerged triumphant 8 to 6. Kappa Sigma's rejuvenated team won a 10 to 5 decision from the lowly Alpha Gamma Rho cage squad. Lambda Chi Alpha won by forfeit from Delta Sigma Phi.

The tournament thus far has brought several outstanding teams to the fore. Phi Gamma Delta appears to be the class of the field hard pressed by Sigma Chi, Delta Tau Delta, Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Nu, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. All of these teams are undefeated and any one stands a fine chance of coping the interfraternity basketball title. With all these teams yet in the running, the future holds promise of some bright tussles.

Reporter Kicks Over Traces and Goes Wandering Thru Hearts and Flowers, for Valentine's Day Is Close at Hand

The mating urge in spring, which motivated the initial customs at this period of the year. Incidentally, the original of this feature was started among the pagans because it was thought that it was on this day that the birds started to mate.

Valentine a Day For Love—Oh My
But the fact remains that Valentine's Day, ranking somewhat in the fore of the insignificant memory dates of the month (for instance, those of Washington and Lincoln) in the minds of moderns, is being observed as love's demonstration day. Because he loves her or because she will think he does not, each guy sends his girl a heart or a bit of lace. Charles Lamb says that thru no authority from the anatomy department, the scarlet, triangular pump organ has been named the seat of affections. Otherwise, says the master essayist, Valentines might just as well spread their hypocrisy in this fashion, "Madam, my liver and fortune are entirely at your disposal," or to put a delicate question, "Armanda have you a midriff to bestow?"

But symbolized by red and white the colors rich in the connotation of affection and devotion, St. Valentine's day has been and will continue as a day for reminiscing and romancing, a day of old loves, old laces and old charm. Occasionally, even old things lose their mellowness when dragged too often from their resting place.

Examiners Condemn University Building In Its Early Years

Fears of the public that the structure of University hall, first building erected on the campus for educational purposes, was insecure, caused postponement of the hall's use until approximately eight months after it was declared open, according to a history book account of Lincoln and Lancaster county written by Andrew J. Sawyer.

The volume relates that architects, employed to examine the building, declared it safe for the time being, but insisted that changes be made. Repairs were made, and on Sept. 6, 1871, the university opened with an enrollment of ninety students. Two years later it was learned that the foundation was in poor condition. An order was immediately issued to repair the building and construct it in a more durable manner.

Constant patching processes extended over a period of more than ten years, culminating finally in a new foundation erected of hard magnesia limestone taken from quarries at Roca, Neb. These stones, although showing signs of considerable wear, still form the walls of University hall today.

MINNESOTA EVIDENCE MAY REVERSE RULING

Old Letter Found Concerning Compulsory Military Training.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 11. (CNS). Evidence which could lead to a reversal of the recent supreme court ruling that military training is compulsory in land grant colleges was reported unearched this week in a 1916 "agreement" between the University of Minnesota and the federal government.

"The document appears to indicate an understanding, but no legal obligation," President Coffman said.

The agreement states in part: "The authorities of the University of Minnesota have agreed to establish and maintain a two year compulsory course of military training." Labeled "Section Four," the agreement was quoted at the 1917 meeting of the administrative committee of the senate when a question arose as to the compulsory nature of the work of the junior and senior years of the R. O. T. C.

Minnesota university authorities are assertedly of the opinion that the agreement is not binding but could be terminated by the university at any time.

According to Sveinborn Johnson, legal counsel to the University of Illinois, the wording of the agreement is identical with that quoted in the body of a letter which the war department sent in 1916 to the president of that university.

"This letter presumably was sent to all land grant institutions," Johnson assertedly stated. It was declared doubtful that the letter, if it were part of the University of Minnesota's procedure in establishing the R. O. T. C. unit, could be considered permanently binding.

Compulsory military drill at the midwestern university was eliminated last spring by a vote of the board of regents, but the legal ramifications of the action assertedly have not been discussed in any court verdict.

When the United States supreme court this winter ruled military training in land grant colleges to be compulsory, they announced that conscientious objectors must "either bear arms or attend some institution other than a land grant college."

REINHARDT SPEAKER FOR PROBLEMS CLUB

Professor Will Discuss Employment After Graduation.

Speaking on the topic "After Graduation, then what?" Dr. J. M. Reinhardt, sociology professor, will address a joint meeting of the social problems club and the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s at 7:15 Wednesday evening in the Y rooms in the Temple. Dr. Reinhardt will outline the possibilities of employment after the completion of college as well as some of the hazards facing graduates.

Following Dr. Reinhardt's talk Miss Cook, Miss Hoffeditz, Mrs. Burleigh, and Mr. G. H. Agans, all of the social problems club, will further discuss various phases of the subject. Vincent Broady, president of the club, indicated that a general discussion by members attending would follow the formal talks.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR HUSKER TANK VICTORY

Big Six Champion Cyclones Invade Coliseum Pool Friday Afternoon.

Iowa State may just as well rest content with the not very comforting prospect of a terrific battle on Friday afternoon if the proceedings in the coliseum pool are any indications of the showing the Cyclones will make against the Cyclones on that date.

Altho Nebraska has not won from the Staters in five years with the exception of the tie between the two teams in 1932, there have never been such brilliant prospects for the accomplishment of the fact as this year, Jack Minor, Husker swimming mentor, stated yesterday. According to Minor, Scarlet mermen have bettered most of the Big Six clockings in the water events in practice. The meet Friday will provide the Scarlet strokers with their first tests of competition, while Iowa, Big Six champion last year, walked off with a fray last week against Gustavus Adolphus.

"Altho Iowa State holds four of the conference records, if the Nebraska team performs as creditably Friday afternoon as in practice those who attend the meet may expect to see five of the nine conference clockings smashed, Minor stated. The Cyclones hold the best time of the conference in the 100 yard free style, 200 yard breast stroke, 50 yard back stroke, and the 300 yard medley relay.

The Husker splashers who will stroke against the invaders Friday at 3 o'clock in the coliseum pool follow: free stylists: Glydon Lynde, Jim Pixley, Keith Schroeder, Jack Gavin, Ben Rimmerman and Herb Weston; breast stroke: Reed Smith, Bob Gibbons; back stroke: Harry Kuklin, Jack Gavin; divers, Harry Kuklin, Ben Rimmerman.

Traditional Brown Derby of Lawyers Put in Hiding Place

The brown derby, famed symbol of stupidity of the law college is being used no more. Only once before in its history, when the lawyers alleged that the engineers had stolen their traditional piece of headgear, has it been so long in disuse.

It is not that boners are a thing of the past in the law college nor that the engineers have been piling their heads for some time. The real reason seems to lie in the fact that the lawyers no longer seem to favor with each student fearing for his own vanity, and the derby is now secreted somewhere in the law college. The secret of the exact hiding place is being zealously guarded by the lawyers.

WAKE FOREST COLLEGE OFFICIALS BAN HAZING

Hair Cutting Escapades of One Month's Standing Cause Decision.

WAKE FOREST, N. C., Feb. 11. (CNS). Hazing has definitely been given its walking papers by the students and faculty of Wake Forest college here.

Roused with indignation over the hair cutting escapades of 27 students, Dean D. B. Bryan gave a ringing speech which definitely placed the pranksters in shame, forced them to make a public apology, and brought more than 1,000 students to their feet in approval of a resolution to stamp out hazing once and for all.

"Go to your rooms, men, get your shotguns and blackjacks out of your drawers, and send them off this campus. You will no longer have to sleep first in one room, then in another, to avoid the hooded hazers who have terrorized this campus," the dean concluded.

During this address the 27 men sat in the front two rows in mute witness of Dr. Bryan's statement that haircutting days were over. At the end of this speech each man stood up and faced the audience. All of these had confessed some part in haircutting, and through a spokesman promised the student body that no more victims would have their heads bared to the public gaze.

The mass apology of the 27 self-confessed hazers marked the culmination of a hectic week of activity by the faculty and student council. Immediately before Christmas an unprecedented crop of shining domes appeared on the campus, topping off three months of steady haircutting. During the holidays the college administration was flooded with letters and telegrams of protest, and even several intimations of ensuing legal action if conditions were not improved.

"Some of the reasons set forth for haircutting were amazing," Dr. Bryan stated. "Some victims were chosen because they kept clean-

RUSSEL SPEAKS ON SUBSOIL MOISTURE

Prof. J. C. Russel of the agronomy department will discuss "Subsoil Moisture Supply in Nebraska" vision and agronomy department at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, Feb. 12 in 110 Nebraska hall. Following Professor Russel's talk, an open discussion on the topic will be held.

Graduates Complete Registration Feb. 16

Registration for graduate students and city teachers must be completed by Saturday, Feb. 16, according to Dr. F. W. Upson, dean of graduate college, a fee for late registration will be charged if it is not completed at this time.

GRADUATE OF 1911 VISITS OLD HAUNTS

Clarence Pierce, Denver, chemistry graduate of the university in 1911, visited old haunts on the campus Saturday and called upon Prof. C. J. Frankforter of the chemistry department.

Mr. Pierce related that during his last year in the university he worked on the staff of the Nebraskan as proofreader, working from twelve to one each night and receiving as wages a dollar an hour. He was also a letter winner on the '11 tennis team.
