

SPECIAL COUNCIL COMMITTEE WILL ORGANIZE CLASS

Senior Class Members Plan Mass Meeting on Wednesday.

YOUNG NAMED CHAIRMAN

Prom Committee Sets Ticket Price at $1.50 in Council Report.

Marshalling student forces to effect a stronger organization in the senior class, a meeting of all representative senior men and women has been called by a special committee of the Student Council for 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 27.

"Every senior student interested in organizing his class should attend this meeting," declared Jack Fischer, Student Council president, "as definite and concerted action is the only method to make the senior class organization more than a name."

"We want every class member interested in making the senior class organization something more than a name," declared Jack Fischer, Student Council president. "The council committee has prepared a plan of action that will make the class a strong body, provided that we receive the concerted support of class members," he added.

Senior Honoraries Attend. All senior representatives, including the Innocents, Mortar Boards and Student Council members will attend the gathering. Action came following the long-time attempts of the council to delegate powers to the office of senior class president, resulting in a motion for a mass convention at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

Possibility of the formation of a league of Big Six Student Councils under Nebraska initiative followed the appointment of a committee Wednesday to contact other Big Six schools by correspondence. A similar league held conventions two and three years ago, where problems common to all schools were discussed.

STUDENTS CONTRIBUTE TO MARCH BLUE PRINT

Names of Engineer-Authors Remain Secret Until End of Year.

Two discussion articles, "Products of Nitro-Cellulose" and "New Heating Unit at Mount Holyoke College" by unnamed engineering students are presented in the March issue of the Nebraska Blue Print, student engineering publication, which will be placed on sale, Friday, Feb. 22, according to Marvin Nuernberger, editor.

"Products of Nitro-Cellulose" is a detailed report which considers the products of this industry," from an engineering viewpoint," Nuernberger stated. The second article on Mount Holyoke college's new heating unit describes various aspects of the equipment and relates as to their effectiveness.

Dean O. J. Ferguson in his column gives his views on the licensing by the state of professional engineers. Registering of Nebraska engineers has received considerable discussion among members of the profession. Nuernberger related, and there is now a bill before the state legislature relative to that topic.

Big Sisters' Penny Carnival Saturday Afternoon Features Extremely Low Prices; Fines for Those Not Paying

By Regina Hunkins. Drastic cuts in the usual prom and "frolic" prices will be made when the Big Sisters launch their "two cents a dance" at the Penny carnival, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in the Armory. But the two cents is mandatory, and if you do not pay you may be called before the kangaroo court, fines or imprisonment depending upon the momentary humor of the judge.

Among the booths will be a miniature Ripley's, displaying in cages freaks which you can see about the campus for nothing, but which are worth the penny just to see them in the cages. For instance, you will see a Mortar Board, and maybe an Innocent (though they say they are hard to catch). And of course there will be the collection always to be found in the "Moon." And then if you feel fortunate you might try your luck at one of the games of chance, rigged up for those with gamblers' instincts. (This is especially advisable if you are a good tiddie-de-wink player, and fairly well in practice.)

Something's Wrong! 67 Students Vote Willingness to Marry British While Only 55 Qualify Them for Neighbors

When only fifty-five out of sixty-eight university students indicate that they would be willing to have Britishers or people of that nationality for next door neighbors and sixty-seven or all but one of the same group state that they would be willing to marry Britishers, this denotes some peculiarity in race prejudice or in something, mostly something—thus concluded Prof. H. W. Stoke after giving a pre-judice test to his public opinion class. In the test, prejudice against a number of nationalities was uncovered as well as "feeling-reactions" against many words and phrases such as League of Nations, Protective tariff, Greek Catholic, Ku Klux Klan and so on.

In the first part of the test, Dr. Stoke asked sixty-eight students to indicate their willingness to admit the average of many nationalities to certain associations such as citizenship in their country, membership in their church, as neighbors, as members of their club, and as partners in the somewhat important relation of matrimony. Other general results were that a consistently larger number of students decided that they have people of nationalities which they considered undesirable as regular members of their churches would be alright, but they would not admit the same nationality either to citizenship in their respective countries or as members of their clubs.

SEVEN ENTRANTS FILE NAMES FOR PROM GIRL RACE

Committee Withholds List Until Eligibility Is Checked.

Seven university coeds have listed their intention of running for Junior-Senior prom girl, according to a report received from the student activities office Wednesday evening. Names will not be released until Friday after the registrar's office has approved the eligibility of the aspiring candidates.

Interest shown by the large number of girls filing has proved itself to be greater in this contest than in any other recent competition on the campus. Only two candidates ran for prom girl last year. "We appreciate the support shown both by the girls who filed and by the Mortar Boards for encouraging interest in the filings," stated Virginia Selleck, co-chairman, speaking for the prom committee, "and we hope that those who have shown their intention of running will successfully pass all the eligibility requirements."

TERRELL ASSAILS R.O.T.C. TRAINING IN FORUM SPEECH

Council Representative Sees Hope for Student Peace Movement Disappear.

ATTACKS NAVAL DISPLAY

Informal Discussion Held After Wednesday Luncheon.

While stating that there was still some hope for a student peace movement if people are willing to pay the price, Harry Terrell, western representative of the National Council for Prevention of War, speaking before a group of university students Wednesday noon at the Grand hotel, declared that if present conditions are to continue, such hope will soon disappear.

The speaker cited as an example German universities, which before the rise of Hitler to the dictatorship had 40,000 men enrolled, and that during the past two years of the Hitler regime the number has been reduced to less than 10,000, less than one-fourth of the original number. He pointed out that those men now enrolled must go thru a term of six months of military drill before they are allowed to take up college work, and their viewpoints are ready made for them. There will only be 4,000 male students in the German universities this year, according to Mr. Terrell.

Peace Activities Not Taught. Mr. Terrell emphasized the statement that leadership of a peace movement will not come from the R. O. T. C., and that the tragedy of American universities, and of the University of Nebraska, is not in what it is taught, but in what they fail to teach. In stressing this point, he pointed out that successful activities of the League of Nations and of the World Court could not be found in the courses of study in the universities. Students must find out these facts for themselves, and find out what to accept and what to reject.

"The peace committees are places for workers, and not for talkers," Terrell stated. He strongly flayed those students, especially women, who served on the peace committees, and then attended and supported social functions at the Military ball and other social affairs sponsored by the R. O. T. C.

Colbert of the applied mechanics department who is secretary to the organization.

The Federal Public Works Program in Nebraska, the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation Project, and the Loup River Public Power District Project are to be described and explained by men thoroughly acquainted with the projects. Professor Colbert stated. Mr. Hogan, consulting engineer for Parsons, Klapp, Brinckerhoff and Douglas of New York City and vice president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, will address the group on the subject of general engineering interest. The secretary said, Governor Cochran, university graduate and former chief state engineer, will probably talk on a similar subject. "Engineering students of the university are urged to attend the roundup as the talks by practicing engineers will be of great value to them," Professor Colbert stated. "Students have no registration fees to pay and the only cost to them will be in attending the banquet."
