ATTEMPT TO CUT BIENNIAL BUDGET HALTED BY HOUSE

University Appropriation Is Advanced From Committee.

Advancement from the finance committee of the general appropriation bill, granting $3,040,600 to the university, was made Monday by the house despite a short hitch encountered when that body engaged in a bitter controversy over the payment of student fees.

Further movements to slash the university budget were halted in their tracks following Vogt's defeat. Rep. Tachtler immediately withdrew his motion calling for a $240,000 slash in the university program.

Remaining action will primarily take the form of routine procedure as regards the university budget, present indications reveal.

If passed in its present form the bill will carry $76,610 less than the governor recommended and $27,287 more than was allotted two years ago for the current biennium.

$375,000 allocated to the university budget was specifically slated for the college of medicine in Omaha.
