

CAMPUSOCIETY

BLUE MONDAY MAY JUST AS well be changed to blue Tuesday or any day that down slips come out. This time of year, when winter has ended and summer is on its way is a particularly hard season in which to study—you know, pienes and all that sort of thing—and the incentive for cutting classes is bigger than ever. All those good resolutions made at the first of the year come to practically nothing, and Cornhuskers are anticipating the little white slips that spell doom as far as most families are concerned. It's just too bad that school carries on thru spring or that spring comes when it does, for it's so hard to study that most people don't, and then calamity comes in the form of down slips.

SEEN ON THE CAMPUS: Alice Mae Livingston hitch-hiking out 33rd and Vine—A Mr. Eggleston being called down right smartly in history for talking to Dick Fischer—Harry Foster smoking the familiar law student pipe—Bob Funk telling that his life ambition is to pass the candy with about five girls before he gets out of school (Alice Marie take heed)—Eleanor Clize announcing that she is going to the lawn social—a chair in the "Rag" office balancing on one screw—the radio in Bob Wadhams car blaring forth, and of course, running down the battery—Trueman Obendorf explaining the virtues of the chain letter system—Betty Romans agonizing over a term paper—and Dick Schmidt announcing that he would pass the candy if time, occasion and girl were right.

SIGMA Phi Epsilon announces the pledging of Jimmy Fitch of Dennison, Ia., and Milan Starks of Fairmont.

NEW OFFICERS of Sigma Alpha Mu are Gerald P. Cohn, president; Henry H. Schwartz, treasurer; William Flax, secretary; David Goldware, house manager; David Bernstein, historian.

RECENTLY initiated into Theta Chi were Winfield Hodge, Danbury, Conn.; Albert Lane, North Platte; Paul Schoenrock, Fairbury; Milan Wisen, Archer; and Elmer Dohrmann, Staplehurst.

FIVE CIGAR passings last night, and the last one we heard about was the little celebration at the A. T. O. house, when George Wallacker announced his engagement to Dorothy Francis of Cody, Wyo.

ANNOUNCED Tuesday was the marriage of Frances Rymmer of Lincoln to Earnest Ettleman which took place April 26 in Omaha. Mrs. Ettleman is a graduate of Nebraska and a member of Alpha Delta Theta. The couple will live in Omaha.

IN GREELY, Colorado, Rachel Branson of Lincoln and Carl Gilbert of Greeley were married last Saturday afternoon. Bernice Branson attended her sister, and guests from Nebraska included Jane Elizabeth Robertson of Beatrice and Lilemor Taylor of Auburn. Miss Branson is a graduate of the university and a member of Delta Gamma. The couple will live in Greeley.

A CURE for the pre-ivy day jitters may be had for the paltry sum of 15 cents at the Y. M. and Y. W. lawn social tonight in the form of ice cream and cake. The event will take place on the north lawn of the library and the sponsors for the affair are Professor and Mrs. O. W. Reinmuth and Miss Bernice A. Miller.

THETA XI mothers from York, Norfolk and Omaha will be guests of the auxiliary at a luncheon and a business meeting at the chapter house today. Blue and white will be carried out in the decorations and spring flowers will center the tables. Hostesses are Mrs. C. E. Mickey, Mrs. Earl Luff, Miss Jessie McCallum and Mrs. Carl Kail.

IF OUR eyes don't deceive us, and we are very sure that they don't, the famous Kosman-Straub romance is much in evidence again. It seems that there was a slight misunderstanding several weeks ago but now everything is happy again. Well, the course of true love never runs smoothly and maybe the spring weather had something to do with it.

Following this, the group spent several hours, bowling, that is, they used small boulders for the bowling balls, and cows at the foot of the hill for the pins. "At Le Fay," Professor Fling recalled musingly, "there is a rock which the guide book said couldn't be scaled. Being boys with the necessary amount of contrariness, we determined to mount the top. After struggling to a point about twenty feet from the summit, we were discovered by a gendarme, and instead of letting us come the short

AG STUDENTS WILL REVEAL IDENTITY OF 1935 QUEEN MAY 2

Farmers' Fair Goddess to Make Appearance at Annual Dance.

The identity of the Goddess of Agriculture, who will reign over the festivities of Farmer's fair, will be revealed at a pre-fair dance from 7 to 9, Thursday, May 2, in the student activities building on Ag campus. Mel Pester and his band will play for the students who will be dressed in aprons and overalls. This affair is exclusively for students on the Holdrege campus, and is not a date affair. Should anyone appear not wearing the traditional garb of aprons and overalls, he will have his name put on the "tanking list," and will be punished later.

About 160 women on the ag campus went to the polls, April 16, to vote on 16 candidates for the Goddess of Agriculture. Those eligible for the honor were: Edna Gieger, Gertrude Iler, Edan Grainger, Eunice Johnson, Margaret Kerl, Marjorie Lowe, Helen Lutz, Bernice Preston, Katherine Rollins, Esther Schoenleber, Melba Smith, Marjorie Bien, Arlene Bors, Mrs. Elsie De C. J. Eileen Stoltenberg and Ruth Wolfe.

Seven candidates were voted on by each girl. The one receiving the highest number of votes will become the goddess of agriculture and the six polling the next highest number of votes will serve as her attendants.

The committee working on presentation of the goddess is Lois Allen, chairman; Elinor Chase, Roxine Latta, Eleanor McFadden, Truma McClellan, and Eleanor Bignel. Gilbert Erickson is chairman of the dance committee. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Loeffel, and Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Davis, faculty advisers to the Farmer's Fair board will chaperon the dance, and other advisers will be present.

share of those funds. Political connivers are busy conniving again. Republican appetites, long since they've been appeased, have sent the party's leaders to Excelsior Springs, Mo., for the conniving. Excelsior Springs is known as a health resort. Perhaps political health can be found there, too.

BRITISH statesmen are pretty even tempered fellows. All thru the Stresa conference they were able to tone down somewhat the ardor of her colleague's desire for a German denouncement. Now they are gettin' sore. They have reason, because it isn't hard to remember the horror of the seas, Germany's wartime U-boats.

Their anger comes from Hitler's naval policy, by which he is expected to launch a fleet of new submarines before long. Add a number of cruisers, destroyers, and you have another reason for Britain's anxiety. Secrecy surrounds reports that have been given out. Germany won't give much information but they've admitted they have placed orders.

So British officials, along with French and Italian statesmen, are still clinging together. They agreed on unification at Stresa a few weeks ago, and they are sticking to it. France sent a man to London to talk submarines and another to Italy. The French air minister, when he gets to Rome, is expected to negotiate some sort of a French-Italian air agreement.

The situation in Europe offers an excellent opportunity for development of some exceedingly fine statesmanship. While it is generally agreed that war is highly undesirable, conditions exist which lead one to believe it is not altogether improbable. Diplomatic maneuvers, it is hoped, will be able to precede, and take the place of, hostile military maneuvers.

of the week were still a long way from enacting liquor legislation. The senate and house have had trouble getting together. Both had different ideas, and neither has been willing to give in. Fear of a special session to settle the question has been sounded.

A special committee of six has been named to reconstruct the Sullivan bill. Three senators and three representatives are at work in an effort to hasten the legislation. Other members of the legislature are hopeful, and still others are waiting for the committee of six to fail agreement.

STATE ACADEMY TO PRESENT ALL SCIENCE PHASES
Special Reference to the Great Plains.

The delegates will relax from their meeting and session discussions at an informal reception in the Grand hotel parlors preceding the annual banquet which will be held at the same place at 6:15. The past president of the Academy, E. R. Wightman of Doane college, will be the main speaker at the dinner. His talk will be entitled "Let Us Lock Ahead."

At the last general session of the convention at 8 o'clock Friday evening, Victor E. Levine, head of the department of biological chemistry and nutrition, Creighton university, school of medicine, will offer an illustrated lecture to the group at Morrill hall, entitled "Glimpses of Life in the Arctic."

Chairman of the biochemistrynutrition section of the convention is Victor E. Levine, Creighton university. Claude J. Shirk, vice president of the academy from Nebraska Wesleyan university, will serve as chairman over the biology sectional meetings. Presiding over the chemistry gatherings will be D. J. Brown, of the university chemistry department.

Earth science will be under the direction of G. C. Leuninghoner, Midland college. Curtis M. Wilson, Crete high school, will preside over the meetings of the Nebraska Council of Geography Teachers.

Sponsored and presented by the Caducean society of Creighton university school of medicine, the program of the history of science section meetings will be under the chairmanship of Nicholas Dietz, Jr., Creighton university.

Nebraska Professors Serve. Nebraska university professors are serving as chairmen in the remaining sections: Mathematic, A. L. Candy; Physics, Roy C. Spencer; Social Science, James M. Reinhardt; High School section, P. G. Johnson, and Nebraska Science Teachers association, Earl Schroer, vice president.

The junior division of the Nebraska section of A. A. S. is being organized this year to serve especially the interests of high school students and teachers of the state. The first program is being planned to be given in 1935. Neil M. Ward, Municipal university, of Omaha; LeRoy B. Smith, Omaha South high school, and P. G. Johnson are in charge.
