

CAMPUSOCIETY

IT LOOKS AS THOUGH SUNDAY picnics and other Sabbath celebrations will be curtailed today and next week in favor of dinners, luncheons, and teas honoring Mothers. Practically every house on the campus has planned something for the mothers of the chapter, and the dinners start this week with the Kappa Sigs and the D. S. L.'s. Social chairmen, usually wondering about hour dances and exchange dinners, have their hands full planning favors and programs to please the mothers, and within the next week end, people who live within the charmed circle of sorority and fraternity row will be escorting their parents for the celebration of the day reserved for them.

BETA Sigma Psi announces the pledging of Charles Salem of Lincoln and Norris Weible of Winslow.

AFTER the Mothers day dinner at the Kappa Sig house today, the sixty-five guests will listen to a short musical program. The tables will be decorated in a color scheme of scarlet, green and white, and Mrs. Palmer Smith is hostess to the affair. Among out of town mothers who will be there are Mrs. B. M. Dougherty, Omaha; Mrs. J. E. Porter, Crawford; Mrs. O. E. Ivins, Crawford; Mrs. W. A. Kerl, West Point; Mrs. E. E. Patten, Sterling; Mrs. George Teeple, Denver; Mrs. Paul Ernst, Omaha; Mrs. W. L. Eldridge, Grand Island; Mrs. J. H. Siemson, Grand Island; Mrs. C. L. McGlasson, Wood River; Mrs. A. J. Herrmann, Osceola; and Mrs. E. J. Askwig.

LAST Friday at the home of Dean Amanda Heppner, the faculty sponsors of Alpha Lambda Delta, entertained at tea from 4 until 6 o'clock honoring all the initiated members of the campus. In the receiving line with Miss Heppner were Dr. Winona Perry, Miss Birdeena Donaldson, Marjorie Smith and Lenore Teal, and others assisting were Miss Emma Andersen, Miss Margaret Fedde, Miss Ruth Odell, Miss Elsie Ford Piper, Miss Mabel Lee, Dr. Elizabeth Williamson, Frieda Baider, Selma Goldstein, Irene Hentzen, DeMaris Hilliard, Margaret Medlar, Marjorie Shostak, Helen Kropt and Barbara Barber. The house was decorated with lilacs and pale yellow snap dragons, and the music for the afternoon was furnished by Louise Dickson, Marilou Williams, and Liyan Kratyk.

ANNOUNCED recently was the marriage of Clema Seely and Coleman Gilliland of Humboldt, which took place March 16 in Seneca, Kas. Mrs. Gilliland has attended the university.

NEWLY elected officers of Theta Xi auxiliary are Mrs. G. B. Golding, president; Mrs. Clark Macey, vice president; Mrs. C. L. Storer, secretary; and Mrs. Earl Luff, treasurer.

OFFICERS of the Delta Zeta mothers club were chosen Thursday afternoon at business meeting of the organization. Mrs. H. P. Kaufman will serve as president for the club for the coming year. Other officers elected were Mrs. W. L. Turner, vice-president; Mrs. Perry Jennings, secretary and Mrs. Katherine Conger, treasurer.

THURSDAY evening the Delta Zeta alumnae elected officers for the coming year. Those chosen were Mrs. Lawrence Pike, president; Mrs. Chapman, vice-president; Mrs. Floyd Higgins, secretary; Mrs. Albert Heid, treasurer and Miss Beth Barton, editor of "The Lamp."

IN TOWN for the S. A. E. dinner dance Friday night were Fritz Diemeis, Blair; Charles Schwager, John Clapper and Senator Hunter, Omaha; Corne Collins, New York City; Warren DeBus, Cleveland, Ohio and Bob Graham, Mexico City.

JANUARY 29 in Sidney, Iowa, Mary Violet Strong of Syracuse and Weldon D. Beezley of Grand Island were married. Mr. Beezley is a student at Nebraska.

A BIT late, but still news we hope, is the fact that Calista Cooper will leave immediately after graduation for Tokyo, Japan to visit her brother who is vice consul in the Legation there. She will be gone for two years, and will return by way of India, the Mediterranean, and Italy. Nice graduation gift, we think.

LITTLE GODS GALLEY

(Continued from Page 1.) council, Corn Cob president. From committee chairman, the winning of the Long debate trophy. His freshman year, the rally committee, and the Student Union executive committee. He was tapped treasurer of the Innocents on Ivy day. Irving Hill's personality is dynamic. His energy and zeal are practically unlimited. Having the faith of his convictions, he throws himself into everything with unbounded ardor and eagerness. Likes Hikes With Mayday.

As to the realm of sports, his activities are confined to horseback riding, tennis, and a "seven mile hike every Sunday morning with the favorite girlfriend—to commune with nature." He prefers the country to the city, as he dislikes the dirt and bustle of urban life. He believes, however, that mid-western life is wholesome, productive of fine character, and is proud of having been brought up in the mid-west.

His major grievance is being left-handed. Because of this distressing fact, "I have been playing tennis for about ten years, and I'm still a doubt at it." He also proclaims loudly the embarrassment of going to a dinner party where the guests are closely packed, and "throwing the whole table into chaos because of elbowing with that left hand." He believes, however, that even this has its good points, stating that he gets good grades because no one, since he was in the second grade and a teacher tried to make him write with his right hand, has been able to read "more than four words in an entire paper."

Yens for Bench. His real ambition is to be a first class jurist, on the United States

WHAT'S DOING

Sunday. KAPPA SIGMA dinner given in honor of the mothers by the active chapter at the chapter house, 1 o'clock. Delta Sigma Lambda dinner in honor of the mothers, chapter house. Alpha Omicron Pi Scottie dinner given by the active chapter for the dates, chapter house.

Supreme Court bench. It is for this reason, primarily, that when he graduates from the Arts college, Irving is going to Harvard to attain his legal education. His idols are Justice Brandeis, Cardozo, and Holmes—men who are independent thinkers, and have served the public welfare unselfishly, without thought of self-profit. They have formulated the American judicial thought in a liberal mold that will live after them for countless years.

Second to his legal enthusiasm, is "Irvy's" love of politics, and all kinds of political maneuverings. This is evidenced by the fact that he stumped the state for United States Senator Burke last fall. In line with his intense liking for politics is his love of oratory. His favorite diversion is making speeches—it doesn't particularly matter what for—at the various sorority houses. "This is for two reasons. The first is because I love to look at all feminine pulchritudine (I think it's a good word) and the second is because I like to practice oratory on anyone who is willing to listen."

Big Fan Mail. "I think the biggest thrill I ever had was winning the international oratorical contest in Washington last summer, and then speaking over the National Broadcasting company network—and seeing the room full of fan letters I had when I got home," he proclaimed.

His past occupations have been many and varied. They have included radio announcing, selling shoes, steel worker. "I read great quantities, especially until very late at night. I prefer historical biographies, and classical fiction. I am interested primarily in personalities in men like Voltaire, Disraeli, Gladstone, Jackson, and even Mussolini. As to political affiliations, I am a very loyal democrat."

Advertise for Peace. A standing question is, "What would you do if you had lots of money?" To this, Hill groaned and considered it for sometime before replying, "With lots of money, I would first endow all possible foundations for the propagandizing of peace and international good will." When asked if he was a pacifist, Hill's reply was, "I am a pacifist, but not an anti-militarist. However, I do think that if half the money was spent on peace and international good will that is spent to advertise militaristic nationalism, peace would be a much more approximate reality."

"With lots of money, I would also do my best to make higher education as cheap and as democratic as possible. I would sincerely devote myself to bettering society. I would take enough money to live on comfortably, and endeavor to make the surplus a constructive benefit to the rest of the world."

Proclaiming himself against the continued concentration of wealth and income into the hands of a few, Hill stated that if America ever has any unifying or revolution, it will be a direct result of allowing this concentration to continue. Wife Must Be Good Cook. His three favorite occupations are speaking, eating, and reading. "Primarily eating—especially my meat. I love to choose good foods and linger over them. I enjoy dancing, but it is secondary to eating. For that reason, my wife must be a good cook." His wife, he stated, is not chosen yet, "not from disinclination, but on account of economic circumstances."

GOV. ROY L. COCHRAN STRESSES VALUE OF ENGINEERS' TRAINING

(Continued from Page 1.) honestly spent. At the engineers' convocation Friday morning, Dr. Barbour, head of the geology department, stated that an engineering education would be of great value to a geologist and similarly a geology education would be of great benefit to the engineer. The two professions are very closely related, he pointed out.

Barbour Speaks. Dr. Barbour also told of the beautiful work that had been done by both geology and engineering students. He presented examples of work in good and bad taste in road building and various types of construction work. The engineer should make it a point, he declared, not to damage nature unnecessarily and do his best to preserve it.

The awards presented at the banquet were: The O. J. Field award to Edward D. Beachler, Lincoln; chemical engineering society key to Raymond Kickok, Lincoln; Sigma Tau Freshman Scholarship Key, to John Parker, Central City; W. H. Sawyer award to Ernest Guenzel, Lincoln; Clark E. Micky award to Clark H. Duncan, Broken Bow; A. S. M. E. junior membership award, Edward D. Beachler, Lincoln; Brashers' Biography award to Howard E. Siemson, West Point. The picture of Arthur E. Kennelly, engineering graduate, was presented by Sigma Tau to the college's hall of fame.

CHANTS BY CHANCE

"Aida," Verdi's greatest opera, presented in the traditional manner, comes to the university tomorrow evening. Those who have heard it, will hasten to hear it again. Others who have not been fortunate enough to have heard it, will miss an opportunity of a lifetime, if they do not attend. One reason it should be well supported is because it is a university undertaking, just as any football or basketball game is, and the same amount of school spirit should be fostered.

Unfortunately, grand opera doesn't come to Lincoln as often as it does other cities. Only one performance has been given here all this past school year. When a cultural undertaking such as "Aida" is sponsored on our campus, it is to the credit of this institution to have it well supported. As it will be given only once, we will hope that that one evening will see a capacity audience in the coliseum. General admission seats are selling for 40 cents, and reserved ones for 75 cents and $1. Nowhere else is grand opera offered at such popular prices.

Reinald Werrenwrath of the Metropolitan is an artist that draws a large box-office anywhere. He has just completed a season in New York, and we are unusually fortunate to be able to hear him in a production of this kind here at the university. The opera will be sung in English, rather than the original Italian.

Oriental costumes in vivid colors, elaborate scenery, glorious music and a cast of ability promise to make this performance "colossal, stupendous and gigantic." "Aida" has always been known as one of the most colorful of all operas. The production here will illustrate the lives of the ancient Egyptians. It is a story of the capture of an Ethiopian king and his daughter, the Princess Aida, by the Egyptians. The hero, an Egyptian warrior, is in love with Aida, but is loved in turn by Amneris, the Egyptian princess. As the opera comes to an end, Aida joins her lover in his tomb, where he has been placed alive, because he won't marry the Egyptian princess.

One of the highlights of the opera is the Moorish dance done by the ballet. A special ballet of twenty-five members is being brought here for the production. The oriental music, beautiful arias, and martial strains will be played by an orchestra of seventy-five. Leo Kopp, the conductor who was in Lincoln with the Chicago Civic Opera company, is helping direct the performance, and will be one of the back-stage conductors. Vera Lipset of the conservatory faculty is assisting backstage also. The dress rehearsal will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the coliseum, with all the principals, ballet, orchestra, chorus and directors.

"Carmen" was presented here at the university some years ago, but this is the first time "Aida" has been presented. If cultural enterprises such as these are to be continued in the future, a hearty student response is necessary. Tickets may be secured at the office of the school of music, Latsch Brothers, or from student salesmen who are members of the chorus. With the close of the University Play-ers season, this will be the last dramatic performance of the current school year, so may it be supported loyally!

KAPPA SIGMA WINNER IN OLD GOLD CONTEST

Sigma Nu Finishes Second; Chi Phi Grab Third.

Kappa Sigma, favorites since the opening gun seven weeks ago, breezed across the finish line with a 400 vote margin in the Old Gold cigarette popularity contest to win the $50 prize money. The winners tallied 1,151 wrapper votes, Sigma Nu holding second with 780, and Chi Phi sprinting to third with 611. A representative of the winning fraternity may receive the prize check from Dick Schmidt, Daily Nebraskan business manager, in the Nebraskan office at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Over twelve fraternities were entered in the competition, anyone being able to cast a vote for their favorite house by writing it on the back of an Old Gold wrapper.

ENGINEERS' 'SLEDGE' GOES ON SALE MONDAY

Unofficial Humor Magazine Contains Gossip, Grievances. "Sledge," labeled as the unofficial humorous publication of the engineering college, made its appearance on the campus Saturday. The magazine, describing itself as "puck in mimeograph" goes on sale Monday, May 6, in the hall of M. A. building. Not announcing its editors, "Sledge" states in its opening page that it is "published once a year with the permission of an indulgent faculty (but "it must be kept clean). It was intended, originally, that it should provide a means whereby a student might air his grievances against or disclose the supposedly well hidden secrets of an instructor or of another student—without revealing his own name or making himself liable, a privilege, we are quick to point out, he may never have again."

Included are "cracks" concerning both students and instructors. Price for the 1935 issue is 10 cents, it was announced.

ROSENLOF ELECTED OFFICIAL AGENT FOR SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Educator Will Coordinate Activities of 2,600 Institutions.

Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, professor of secondary education, was elected secretary of the commission on secondary schools of the North Central association at the national meeting last month. This position makes Dr. Rosenlof official agent of commission between the association and its 2,600 accredited schools. He will handle all school correspondence, as well as interpret standards when the commission is not in session for the twenty states enrolled.

For eight years Dr. Rosenlof was a member of the state committee of the North Central association for Nebraska, by virtue of his office in the state department of instruction. At the recent meeting he was made a member of the committee at large of the association until 1938. Because of his position as secretary he will also be a member of the editorial board of the North Central quarterly.

High Honor. "Dr. Rosenlof has been highly honored. As secretary of the commission he is in the most important position in the country touching secondary schools," said Dr. A. A. Reed, director of university extension, who has followed the association since its founding. Dr. Reed was chairman of the commission for five years, and during 1933 was president of the association. He has been for many years on the board of inspectors. The oldest car on the campus at Ohio State university (Columbus) is a 1913 Ford roadster, with illumination provided by kerosene lamps.

DR. SHIRK CHOSEN PRESIDENT STATE SCIENCE COUNCIL

45th Annual Meeting Nebraska Academy Comes to Close Saturday.

Succeeding Dr. Nels A. Bengston, Dr. C. J. Shirk of Nebraska Wesleyan university was elected president of the Nebraska Academy of Sciences at the last general session of the convention held in Bessey hall Saturday morning at 8:30.
