

LONG OFFERS $250 BIZAD SCHOLARSHIP

E. H. Long, manager of the College Book Store has offered a $250 graduate scholarship in business research to be given to a student at Nebraska for next year. Dean J. E. LeRossignol of the college of business administration today announced the offer, and said the award will also include exemption from tuition for the student. The scholarship will be given to a graduate of the university who has majored in economics and business organization, and who has made a good record in scholarship while an undergraduate student. Dean LeRossignol said the winner would be named within a few days. A similar scholarship was offered recently for next year by J. E. Miller, president of the Miller and Paine department store. Both will go to graduate students interested in business research.

NEBRASKANS RECEIVE TEACHING POSITIONS

Twenty-three students and former students at the university have received teaching positions recently, according to the department of educational service. Melda Alber, Council Bluffs, Ia., will teach at the Iowa School of the Deaf, Council Bluffs, Ia.; H. B. Christianson, Ong to be superintendent at Daykin; Marion Dunlevy, San Diego, Calif., goes to the Sherman elementary school at Omaha; Viva Engel, Wood River to Mead; Elmer Greenberg, Crawford to Omaha Technical high

Nebraskan Asks for Additional Reporters

In order to cover all the news on the campus of interest to summer students, the Nebraskan asks that a reporter be appointed in each organized rooming house. Each reporter should visit or telephone the Nebraskan office as soon as possible, to make arrangements for getting his news into the issues.

Any other summer students who are interested in newspaper work, or who instruct in journalism and English in high schools may get practical experience on the summer Nebraskan. The paper will welcome you to its staff that it may better handle campus news during the school season.
