

CAMPUSOCIETY

DO YOU REALIZE, THAT IF YOU were several years younger and less sophisticated and worldly wise... tonight would be your night to howl... it's October thirty-first... and Hallowe'en! We asked several campus luminaries what they would do if they were young and free... again. Lynn Leonard said that he wished he could go out and ring doorbells, but instead he would stay at home and answer them... Faith Arnold sighs for the days of doorknobs sticky with molasses and, like Mr. Leonard, has a personal interest in doorbell ringing. Bill Marsh announced that he would like to find the man who broke his nose last spring in the political squabble and from the ridiculous to the sublime (!) Bill Garlow, very pre-occupied, said that he wanted to stay at home and write law cases!

SEEN on the campus: Peg Nichols, rushing into the girls gym trying hard to make an 8 o'clock... Lea MacDonald and Lloyd Cardwell looking pensively at Pharmacy hall... Mr. Whitney lamenting the fact that Damon Sanden (absent from class) would probably never know the difference between Pteriphyta and Spermatophyta... An enterprising Cornhusker salesman talking a mile a minute to a prospective customer... Bobbie Smith, Mary Lu Motz and Bernie Scherer being most attentive, in front row seats, in Mr. Stoke's political science 103 class... Betty Romans halless and breathless running across campus... A boy opening the door of Mr. Stepanek's English 21 class and asking Mr. Stepanek if he was busy... and all the election outcome guessers busy at their work.

NEIGHBORS feared that catastrophe had happened in the Delts house Monday night when several fire engines, the police and an ambulance appeared, all at once. But it seems that the Delts were quietly playing bridge instead of having a fire or an earthquake... 'twas either a mistake or some enterprising soul's idea of a joke!

FOUR Delta Gammas are planning to go to the Missouri game. They are Marion Sherwood, Peg Nichols, Jane Bell and Ernestine Jones.

THIS afternoon at the S. A. E. house the mothers club will entertain at a tea from 3 until 5 o'clock, honoring the mothers of the pledge class. Mrs. J. J. Snipes will preside at the tea table, which will be centered with autumn flowers. The committee in charge of the affair includes Mrs. Barton Green, chairman, Mrs. E. C. Hardy, Mrs. Will Beachley and Mrs. H. R. Williams. Ninety are expected to attend.
