About Nov. 15.

FACULTY CONTRIBUTES

Publication Receives 100
Percent Rating by O'Brien.

Nebraska's internationally-recognized literary magazine Prairie Schooner, will be off the press next week, and on sale about Nov. 15, although the date has not been definitely set, according to Prof. L. C. Wimberly, editor of the publication. "Because of types and themes, the staff considers this issue one of the best ever published," stated Wimberly. Not only is the Prairie Schooner one of two magazines out of sixteen which received 100 percent rating by the famous O'Brien literary critic, but it is also listed among those nine magazines which have published four or more stories with three-star rating during the year 1933.

Ginsburg Writes Article.

Occupying the first page of the magazine is an article by Prof. M. S. Ginsburg of the Classics department on "Horace," the Latin poet. The article was written in commemoration of the 2000th anniversary of Horace's birth. Two odes from Horace also appear in the magazine. "Roman Winter" was translated by Margaret Morrow of St. Mary's high school of Omaha. The other "Roman Spring" was translated by Ruth Haron of Doane college.

Other Nebraska contributors are Dr. Harold Stoke, with an article on De Tocqueville democracy in America, and Dr. Martin S. Peterson who has an article on William Allen White, the Kansas editor and author. Miss Mabel Langdon, of the Fine Arts school, has a poem appearing in the issue named "These Things Are Ancient."

Students Contribute.

Students of the university also have contributed. Paul H. Rogers has written an article on "Ants; Central American." Loren Eiseley is the author of Sonnet, while Rudolph Unland of Eagle, Nebraska, has an article appearing entitled "Spring of the Black Blizzards." Wilbur Gaffney, former Nebraska, now with the American Book Co. in New York City, has contributed three sonnets to this issue.

Outstate Contributors.

Contributors are not limited to Nebraskans as many stories are written by people from Minnesota, Illinois, Massachusetts, and poems with authors from California, Ohio and Colorado. Manuel E. Arguilla, from Manila, Philippine Islands, has a story in the magazine entitled "Midsummer." Another author, not from the United States is Clifford Gessler, of Honolulu, Hawaii, with a story named "Awa Song."

TWO REGIMENTS WILL PARADE ON ARMISTICE DAY

Band and Tassels to Take Part in Review and Celebration.

Two regiments from the R. O. T. C. unit at the university, the band and members of Tassels, women's pep organization, will take part in the Armistice day parade Monday afternoon, Col. W. H. Oury announced.

The parade will be in line of march in front of Nebraska hall when the first call is sounded at 1 p. m.

Richard L. Rider and Sherman Cosgrove, both of Lincoln, will command the first and second regiments respectively. Members of Tassels, who will carry the memorial flag, will march in front of the provisional battalion. Following the parade the regiments will form on the athletic field in the stadium where a parade rally and review will be held in honor of the football team and the coaching staff.

A.W.S. BOARD INTENDS GIVE 'TOYLAND' PARTY

Theme of Annual Cornhusker
Affair Centers Around
Toy Shop Setting.

Releasing the theme for the annual Cornhusker costume party, to be held from 7 to 8 o'clock Thursday, Nov. 21, in the Armory, members of the A. W. S. board, in charge of the arrangements, revealed that they intended to make the women's gymnasium into a virtual "Toyland."

"With the setting a toy shop and the entire party based on the toyland theme, we expect to give an entertainment entirely new and different from the parties of previous years," said Mary Yoder, A. W. S. board member in charge of the party.

The Cornhusker costume party is an annual party open to all university women. All women are expected to come in costume and three prizes are given, one for the prettiest, one for the funniest, and one for the cleverest costume. Molly Carpenter will preside as the "Toy Shop Keeper" at this year's costume review. A program, and, of course, refreshments, are featured parts of the evening's entertainment.

Elsie Buxman is in charge of the refreshment committee. She is assisted by Virginia Fleetwood, Helen Jennings, Patricia Meyer, Marjorie Crabill, Jean Fetter, and Martha White. The committee is in charge of selecting the favors is headed by Hazel Bradstreet, assisted by Patricia Lehr, Barbara Selleck, and Francis Baldman.

Jean Wait is the chairman of the entertainment committee. Working with her are Rebecca Oldfather, Jane Dimmery, and Betty Mayne. Ancha Kilbourn is working on the costumes. Publicity is in the hands of Betty Cherny and Regina Hunkins. Jane Barbour and Betty Magee are managing the ticket sales, and Dorothy Taylor is in charge of selecting the prizes and inviting the chaperones.

Dr. Henzlik Addresses Phi Delta Kappa on Progress

Phi Delta Kappa members met Saturday evening to hear an address by Dean F. E. Henzlik on "Freedom of Speech and Professional Progress." Dr. A. R. Congdon led a round table discussion on proposed fraternal reorganization.

LAEMMLE JR. TO SELECT BEAUTIES FOR CORNHUSKER

Producer Agrees to Choose
Six Coeds for 1936
Yearbook.

QUEEN SECTION LARGER

Every Sorority Now Eligible
Enter One Candidate,
Says Pester.

Carl Laemmle, jr., Hollywood producer of Universal Pictures, will judge the beauty queen section of the 1936 Cornhusker, it was revealed Saturday by Faith Arnold, year book editor. "We feel we are fortunate in having Mr. Laemmle act as our judge," stated Miss Arnold. "He is well qualified to pick the six most beautiful girls on the Nebraska campus because of his close association with the nation's film beauties."

In choosing a judge Miss Arnold said that an out of town judge allows no partiality to any of the contestants since pictures of Nebraska girls are submitted by number only. This year each of the six winners of the contest will have a full view picture with a novelty double page layout, thus making the queen section larger than it has been in previous years.

In order to have an entrant in the contest, each sorority house must be by twenty Cornhuskers. Gene Pester, business manager of the year book, stated that thus far every house is eligible for one candidate, five houses may enter two candidates, while three are eligible to enter three candidates.

COUNSELORS REVIVE PLANTATION IDEA AT DINNER ON THURSDAY

Sorority Daughters, Little Sisters to Attend
Annual Affair.

Memories of the old southern plantation will be revived by the Coed Counselors on Thursday evening, Nov. 14, when they stage their annual dinner and party for all university women at Grant Memorial hall from 6 to 8 o'clock. Coed Counselors will attend with their little sisters and sorority women will be present with their sorority daughters.

Plans for a program to carry out the theme of the evening have been made, according to Marjorie Bannister, program chairman. Numbers on the program will include a tap dance by the Y. W. C. A. tap dancing hobby group and a play by the dramatic hobby division. George Anna Lehr will assist in carrying out the motif of the affair by playing such selections as "Old Black Joe" on the piano.

Chairmen in charge of the party include Gladys Kiopy, food; Jean Marvin, waitresses; Erman Bauer, tickets, and Rowena Swenson, general arrangements and closing tables.

Special guests who will attend the affair will include the two sponsors of Coed Counselors, Miss Elsie Ford Piper and Miss Letta Clark; Miss Amanda Heppner, dean of women, and Miss Mildred Green, Y. W. C. A. secretary.

Hold Ticket Check Up. Elizabeth Moomaw, president of Coed Counselors announced that a ticket check up would be made on Friday at 5 o'clock at Ellen Smith hall and that every board member should be notified by Tuesday evening concerning the number of tickets sold. She also added that scholarship reports of barb girls should be handed in on or before the time of the dinner.

A.A.M.E. COMMITTEE CONVENES SATURDAY

Group Discusses Problems
Considered at Meet
in St. Louis.

Executive committee of the Nebraska section of the American Association of Mechanical Engineers met Saturday to consider several problems discussed at the regional meeting held recently at St. Louis.

Prof. A. A. Luebs, associate professor of mechanical engineering is secretary of this section and Prof. W. L. DeBaufre, chairman of the department of engineering mechanics, is chairman. Several Omaha members were present, including C. F. Moulton, who graduated in 1927.

PARTY CLIMAXES CELEBRATION FOR HOMECOMING DAY

Sigma Alpha Epsilon Wins
Trophy for Best House Decorations.

Approximately 800 couples danced to the music of Tom Gentry's orchestra, witnessed the awarding of the cup for the best homecoming decorations and presentation of the autographed football, at the annual homecoming ball, sponsored by the Innocents society, held in the coliseum Saturday night.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was awarded the cup for the best homecoming decorations while Delta Upsilon and Delta Sigma Lambda won honorable mention. The prize winning decoration depicted a huge spider web with Nebraska taking the form of a spider and the Jayhawk becoming hopelessly entangled. At the D. U. house decorations represented a museum with the Kansas Jayhawk as one of the extinct animals. The Delta Sigma Lambda house won an honorary mention with its theater with the one day attraction "Plucking the Jayhawk."

Judging of decorations was done by Maurice Gordon, Richard Ernesti and Ray Ramsay who agreed that the decorations were the best they had seen for many years and the competition was the closest it had ever been.

Decorations at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house were torn down Friday night by eight college boys supposedly from another state, who ripped the spider from the web. The Sig Alphas captured the boys, took them to the police station and then brought them back to repair the display.

REGENTS ASK FOR STUDENT HELP ON UNION DISCUSSION

Faculty, Undergraduates,
Alumni to Consider Problem.

GRAD SUPPORT NEEDED

Completion of Plan Calls
For Added Financial Support.

Advisability of asking the federal government for a loan and grant to be used in the erection of a student union building was discussed by the university board of regents Saturday. Certain members of the board expressed themselves as opposed to assessing additional fees against students sufficient to liquidate the loan of 55 per cent covering a period of the next twenty years.

After some discussion it was agreed to request the students to appoint a committee of three or five to consult with the regents relative to the feasibility of sponsoring the student union building. A committee of the alumni association and a committee of the faculty were authorized to sit with the board and the student delegation for the further discussion of the problem.

The view was also expressed that if the building should be erected, the alumni ought to be active in the project and be willing to subscribe a considerable proportion of the cost.

The request was made that this conference be held before the Christmas holidays.

LOUIS HARTZ FIRST IN NEWS STORY CONTEST HELD BY PRESS GROUP

Enrollment at Convention
Is Largest in History.

Minder trophy for the best newspaper written in the annual news writing contest held in connection with the Nebraska High School Press association, meeting at the university, was awarded to Louis Hartz of Omaha Tech high school. The trophy was awarded by Fred Minder of the Nebraska Press association. Don Fritz of Jackson high school, Lincoln, took second place; Kathryn Holloye of Omaha Tech, third, and honorable mention was given Ruth Kinkor of Fremont, Edward Kotber of South Omaha high, and Jean Sanders of Superior.

302 high school students representing all parts of the state attended the two day session of the association. It was the largest enrollment in the history of the conventions, according to Prof. Gayle Walker, director of the university school of journalism.

Nelle Gingles, Beatrice, was elected president; Bessie Fisher of Lincoln, secretary-treasurer, and Supt. L. M. Hauptman of Alvo, vice president. The next meeting will be held at Omaha.

Jayhawks Score Early by Recovering Kickoff in End

Play After Scarlet Fumble.

By Dick Kunzman.

Kansas university learned a lesson in Memorial stadium Saturday afternoon—and learned it well. Much to their enlightenment, although very much to their disadvantage and disappointment, Coach Adrian Lindsey's title chasing Jayhawks discovered that they'd been tricked into basing their hopes on a groundless superstition, and that there wasn't even a glimmer of truth in that statement about champions not coming back.

When Dana X. Bible's Cornhusker speedster, stream-lined and super-gear-ed, had finished his 1935 conference race Saturday, all in one momentous afternoon Kansas University's title bid had been sidetracked into a 19 to 13 defeat, Kansas State's last Thanksgiving entry was lost in the dust, and Nebraska had written in the Big Six records her sixth championship in the last eight years.

Players Answer Pleas for Humor in 'Let Us Be Gay'

Rachel Crother Hit Opens
In Temple Theater
Monday.

By Willard Burney.

"We want more comedy"—and you shall have it. Such has been the continual demand of Players' patrons—and such is the Players' reply as they complete the final preparations for the opening of Rachel Crother's latest hit, "Let Us Be Gay," Monday evening. With a play that Broadway critics declared "sensational," in the midst of an otherwise uneventful season, settings that literally reek with difference and originality, and with a cast that reads like "all star" week for the university campus, the second Temple production of the season promises to fulfill the fondest dreams of a humor seeking audience.

As the title suggests "Let Us Be Gay" is just that from the opening curtain of the introductory prologue to the final exit of the growly Mr. Bouccicault whose spacious Long Island estate forms the setting for the main part of
