

CAMPUSOCIETY

THE BETA'S PUNNED AND THE Theta's screamed, and so, with its usual bang, Kosmet Klub's annual show came and went yesterday. Well represented in the number of campus organizations winning something or other, K. A. T. with Cynthia Pedley as Nebraska Sweetheart, Chi Phi and Alpha Phi, the two winning skits, Pi Phi in last year's Sweetheart, and Delta Tau Delta with Prince Kosmet, the show proved a success as far as actual participation—and what's more, it added another to the list of Nebraska traditions, i. e., Beta's fun is Beta's pun. So surmounting the difficulties of unresponsive lights and audience verra well, Kosmet Klub added another chapter to its success book—and until next year, Addis Ababa.

FARM HOUSE announces the initiation of Albert Moseman of Oakland, Leroy Girardot of Pender, Don Radenbaugh of Grand Island, Morris Kingston of Arcadia, Arnold Petersen of Aurora, Howard Peterson of Oakland, Wilson Andrews of Ponca, Hubert Alloyd of Homer, Byron Sadle of Paxton, and Maurice Peterson of Lincoln.

HONORING the actives, pledges of Alpha Phi entertained at an open house tea yesterday from 4 to 5 o'clock. About one hundred and seventy-five guests were there, including most of Nebraska's Chi Phi chapter. The house was decorated on the Thanksgiving theme, and Mildred Mousel, pledge president, was in charge of the affair.

FRIDAY evening at the chapter house, pledges of Delta Tau Delta honored upperclassmen at a party. Chaperons were Captain and Mrs. W. T. O'Connor, Miss Polly Gollaty, and Mrs. Zella Wolf, and Paul Boumann and Bob Brown were in charge of arrangements. About one hundred couples milled in and out of the house during the evening.

AND THE KAPPA Sigs went Joe College in a big way last night when the pledges gave a house party for the actives. Pennants and banners decorated the fraternity walls, and Bob Stevens planned the affair. Professor and Mrs. J. P. Senning and Mrs. Palmer Smith chaperoned.

FOLLOWING up their Kosmet Klub skit with a similar house party, members of A. O. Pi entertained last night for about sixty couples. Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Basoco, Prof. and Mrs. Lester Orfield and Mrs. Jessie Angle chaperoned, and Elizabeth Smith and Betty Burr were in charge of arrangements. The house was transformed into a winter scene with snow, icicles and igloos scattered here and there.

RECENTLY initiated into Alpha Chi Omega were Jean Spencer and Margaret Hendricks of Lincoln.

MISTLETOE and evergreen decorated the chapter house when actives and pledges of Sigma Chi entertained at a house party last night. Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Hawke, Major and Mrs. Horan, Mrs. Cora Bentley and Mrs. Melsana Daniels chaperoned, and Floyd Baker and Verne Anderl were in charge of arrangements. About one hundred couples were there.

IF YOU came conventionally attired in house party clothes, you didn't get in at the Sigma Nu house last night, for the brethren of S. N. and Sigma Alpha Epsilon chose this weekend for their annual hard times party. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Nye and Mrs. Hal V. Minor were chaperons for the affair, and Buz Fonda and Ted Bradley planned the arrangements.

ABOUT sixty couples attended Farm House party Friday. Professor and Mrs. Hurlbut and Mrs. Frances Pelton chaperoned, and Melvin Grant was in charge. Scarlet and cream balloons and streamers formed the decorations.

AT THE Sig Ep house yesterday, members of the active chapter entertained their dates at a pre-Kosmet Klub breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. John E. Chambers and Mrs. Verne Boyles chaperoned, and Nate Allen planned the affair. About seventy couples attended, and decorations followed the Thanksgiving theme.

Termites Weaken Supporting Timbers in University Library

—Courtesy Sunday Journal and Star.

One of the oldest landmarks on the University of Nebraska campus, the library building, is one of the latest buildings threatened by white termites. Here is a sample of what workers found in the basement when they began installing new steel book stacks which will hold 40,000 needed volumes now stored away in various places over the campus. Note the way the board has been weakened, and particularly the large hole made by the insects. The building, which is of the old wood and joist type of construction, makes an ideal home for the termites and officials are wondering what will happen should the insects work their way upward. Already weakened from its forty years of service, wooden supports could easily be undermined by the pests and the heavy slate roof would immediately constitute a real hazard. Because the old basement floor is infested with the insects, workmen are forced to tear it up and replace it before new stacks can be installed.

The termite, or white ant, very carefully destroys the inner portion of timbers, leaving only the outside shell, knots, etc. If they break through the sides they cover the hole, making it very difficult to discover their presence before the timber fails.

CROPS JUDGING TEAM TAKES MEET PLACES

Huskies End Behind Iowa State for Second at Kansas City.

Nebraska crops judging team, consisting of John Bengston, Don Kilmer, Dayton Klingman, and John Clymer alternate, placed second in the seventh annual intercollegiate Crops judging contest held at Kansas City Friday, Nov. 22.

In the extremely close contest Iowa State earned 5,084 points and Nebraska followed with 5,083 points, both teams scoring the highest in the history of the contest.

Individual ranking in the contest, which consists of three divisions, judging, identifying and grading grain, was Dayton Klingman, second high individual; John Bengston, sixth; Don Kilmer, eighth. Don Kilmer placed first in identification; Dayton Klingman, second in judging and third in identification; John Bengston, fourth in identification.

According to divisions, Nebraska placed first in identification, first in judging, and fourth in grading.

The team will return Sunday, after making a conducted tour of Kansas City on Saturday, and make preparation for a trip to Chicago to compete in the International Hay and Grain show held Nov. 30.
