COUNCIL ORDERS CLUBS REGISTER CHARTERS FEB. 3

Organizations Must File Constitutions Says Committee.

LISTS ALL OF GROUPS

Failure to Regard Demand May Mean Suspension From Campus.

Inaugurating a drastic three weeks drive to complete the student council files containing constitutions of all campus organizations, the council's committee, headed by Eleanor Clizbe, announces that any group which does not file its constitution by Monday, Feb. 3, will be recommended to the student council for suspension. Suspension prohibits ordinary meetings.

"The committee feels, as does the entire council, that too many university organizations are idle groups, accomplishing nothing worth while," declared Miss Clizbe. "We intend, by this action, to contact all interested organizations, and eliminate those which are inactive," she continued.

Constitutions will reach the committee, composed of Elizabeth Bushee, Bill Newcomer, Miss Clizbe, addressed to the chairman of the council committee on organizations, and left on the managing editor's desk at the Daily Nebraskan. Any groups which have not handed in revised copies or amendments to their constitutions are also asked to leave the material at the Nebraskan before the deadline.

Should File Excuse. "If circumstances are such that it is impossible for a group to have a constitution on file by Feb. 3, the committee will regard it a sufficient excuse if the organization will leave with the reason for delay its name, officers, and purpose at the Nebraskan," stated Miss Clizbe.

Following is a list of organizations for which the council has no constitution:

Alpha Kappa Delta, Alpha Kappa Psi, Alpha Phi Omega, Alpha Tau Omega, Alpha Zeta, Beta Gamma Sigma, Beta Sigma Psi, Chi Delta Phi, Gamma Phi Beta, Delta Phi, Delta Upsilon, Epsilon Sigma Phi, Eta Sigma Phi, Iota Sigma Phi, Kappa Sigma, Lambda Chi Alpha, Nu Sigma Phi, Phi Kappa Phi, Psi Chi, Sigma Chi, Sigma Xi, Tau Sigma Phi, Upsilon Chi Phi, Zeta Beta Tau.

BURR ROSS DISCUSSES AG CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Farmer's Fair Manager Addresses Freshman A.W.S. Group.

Ag college activities was the subject developed by Burr Ross, manager of the Farmer's Fair and vice-president of the Innocents in speaking before nearly seventy-five members of the freshman A. W. S. at their regular meeting in Ellen Smith hall at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Including in the list of ag campus activities such events as Coll. Agri-Fun, numerous departmental clubs, 4-H club and the Home Economics club, the speaker especially stressed one of the biggest affairs of the season, the Farmer's Fair, held the Saturday following Ivy Day.

An interesting factor which Ross pointed out concerning the Farmer's Fair was the fact that all students enrolled in ag college have some duty to perform in carrying out the project. A pageant, in which from 200 to 400 students participate, exhibits of the various departments, concessions, and the inter-sorority riding contest were a few features of the fair which the speaker listed.

The manner in which the fair boards were chosen and the members of the senior and junior fair boards were additional facts which Ross explained. He concluded by showing that the fair proved to be an educational event and was an important method of advertising the university and its activities to people throughout the state.

Dolores Bors, program chairman gave a short review of traditions observed at the university, including the history of the Farmer's Fair.

A committee chosen from the freshman membership was named to assist the A. W. S. board in writing point systems. They are Lois Cooper, Pat Lahr, Jean Hatton and Barbara Rosewater.

Chancellor's Request for Building Funds Ranked As Outstanding News Story on Campus Last Year

By Dorothy Bentz. "History in the making!" University history, at least, is being made daily as students engage in their various campus activities. These outstanding events as they took place during the past year were recalled Wednesday with the selection of the ten best news stories appearing in the Daily Nebraskan during the year.

The stories were selected chiefly on the basis of their news value but skill in writing, treatment, style, and originality were also considered.

Selected as the most important story of the year was that telling of Chancellor Burnett's request for $2,450,000 federal work project funds to be expended on university building and improvement schemes. A list of needed buildings was set up which totaled approximately $5,000,000 and the request was made for less than half of this amount.

Library Needed. The story quotes the chancellor as believing that a new library is badly needed, since the present structure does not furnish sufficient housing room for books and is in very poor condition. Another building believed to be in need of replacement was University hall. A story describing the opening of the student union drive was

Coeds Here Surpass Wisconsin Women in Employing Lipstick

Whether the well-worn statement, "The Eyes Have It," should be changed to a new version, "The Lips Have It," has become a baffling question, for startling facts reveal that coeds at the university use approximately 33,925 square feet of lipstick per year.

In a search involving many mathematical curves, it was found that the average area covered by each coed in adding lipstick to her makeup was .95 square inches, as compared with a survey made at the University of Wisconsin where the average was found to be .83 square inches.

Another interesting comparison gives the vital bit of information on just how often the average girl puts on this touch of beauty each day. In this survey, coeds of Nebraska are evidently much more conservative for an average of five times per day would probably seem meager to those at Wisconsin, who have decided that only fifteen to sixty times a day is sufficient to keep them looking young and beautiful.

When it comes to taking the average number of times that lipstick is used per week the situation is reversed and Nebraska's feminine population vov the average per week is forty-three times, thus passing the average of thirty-two set up by young women of Wisconsin.

Believe it or not (and this isn't Ripley) the coeds of Nebraska would be capable of covering four houses, with the amount of lipstick which they use in a year. Certainly the old adage, "Patriotism survived in the lips," would sound better today as, "Cosmetic manufacturers survive by the lips."

BARBERS CLEARED FOR BARB INTERCLUB RIFLE TOURNAMENT

Report on Point System Feature of Meeting at 7:15 Tonight.

Representatives of barb clubs will hear final plans for an interclub rifle tournament at a meeting of the Interclub Council, to be held Thursday night at 7:15 in University hall, room 8. President Bill Newcomer urged all representatives to attend, since regulations of the tournament will be discussed and determined. Permission has been granted by the military department to hold the meet on the university range.

Announcement of a party, to be held in the Armory ballroom Saturday, Jan. 10, was made by Newcomer. Final arrangements for the dance, held in conjunction with the Barb A. W. S. League, will be made at the meeting.

Investigation of a proposed point system for the council will be reported by Newcomer, who has conferred with university authorities on its advisability. Applications for new barb teams entering the second unaffiliated students' basketball tournament will be accepted at the meeting, and a representative of the Cornhusker will make an announcement concerning barbs in the class sections of the yearbook.

NEW PLEDGES TO UNION SEND FUND OVER $1000 MARK

Four Organizations Make Drive Contributions Wednesday.

TOTAL REACHES $1065

Barb Groups Plan Party to Raise Money for Donation.

Four new pledges brought the campus student union building subscription campaign over the $1,000 mark Wednesday. One solicited contribution from a campus institution and three unsolicited from social fraternities were recorded, bringing the total to $1,065.

The added support shown by the student body brought new cheer to the Student Council student union committee, directing the drive to secure official sanction for the project by the Board of Regents at their Jan. 11 meeting. Committee members were confident of the outcome when the Regents consider the proposal, according to Virginia Selleck, member.

To Reach Goal. "We feel sure that we will reach our goal now," Miss Selleck stated. "The support given us by the campus is exemplary of the spirit existing everywhere. The university wants a student union building, and by concerted action we shall have one."

Pledges collected Tuesday included $50 each from three social fraternities, Sigma Chi, Alpha Phi, and Kappa Alpha Theta, and Y. W. C. A. contributed $25.

The drive will be carried on among campus organizations this week and will be concentrated on social groups the week following. The proposed project, which would be financed by means of student and alumni donations and by a federal loan which is to be paid back by an annual fee not to exceed $1 a year per person, would be a center of student activities and amusement, containing two hallrooms, restaurant, and offices for various student activities and organizations.

The Barb A. W. S. and Barb Interclub Council will sponsor a party Saturday night the entire proceeds of which will be donated to the student union building fund.
