SENNING SURVEYS FINANCIAL SETUP OF ALL COUNTRIES

U. S. Appropriates WPA Funds for Studies in Thirteen States.

New information concerning the recently inaugurated survey of the financial administration of typical Nebraska counties, was released today by Dr. J. P. Senning, chairman of the political science department and director of the project, which is being sponsored by the university. The survey, which is to extend to all of the 93 counties in Nebraska, is being financed by the Works Progress Administration, according to Dr. Senning's report.

Explaining that the United States government has considered studies of this nature of sufficient value that it would appropriate federal funds for their promotion in at least twelve other states, the director of the project said that he considers it fortunate that Nebraska has been afforded a similar opportunity.

Give Endorsement.
Dr. Senning pointed out that already the most representative of urban governmental units in the state had given their endorsement to the project, and that this should be of value in securing the cooperation of other Nebraska counties. The most recent county to add its support to the move is Douglas, according to latest reports.

A point which Dr. Senning wished to make especially emphatic was that the survey in question would not be an audit "On the contrary," he stated, "it

ICE CREAM ROUNDUP DRAWS 35 DAIRYMEN

Modern Scientific Trends Studied at Meeting at Ag College.

Thirty-five ice cream manufacturers from all parts of the state attended the annual ice cream roundup held on Wednesday in the agricultural college campus. The program this year was designed to attract the attention of the practical ice cream maker and to give him such information as to enable him to keep pace with the modern trend of scientific manufacturing, according to Prof. L. K. Crowe, associate professor of dairy husbandry at the university.

Previous to the meeting on Wednesday, thirty samples of ice cream had been sent in by the various manufacturers of the state to be tested and scored by Prof. W. H. E. Reid, of the University of Missouri, and Dr. P. A. Downs, professor of dairy husbandry. The samples were judged on bacteria count, analysis of fats and solids, flavor and appearance of the package. At the roundup, manufacturers inspected the scored packages as part of a study of ice cream quality.

Prof. Reid, who is secretary of the Missouri Ice Cream Manufacturers Association was the principal

Lawyers, at It Again, Forget Jury; Judge Adjourns Court

Would-Be Attorneys Now Wrangle Over Auto Accident Suit.

The courtroom is set. Beyond the railing a small audience is whispering noisily. Inside, the lawyers review their prospects nervously. The attorneys' table is piled high with thick, heavily bound law books with little slips of paper denoting some law point, undoubtedly of utmost importance. Law college is at it again!

Almost visible behind their large volumes of knowledge, are the attorneys for the defense. They are Henry Keller, Jr., and Robert Dunlap. Across from them, and not exactly glowering at them, are the two plaintiffs' lawyers, A. E. Anderson, and Willis Herman.

NATION'S TARIFF POLICY LEADS TO WAR, SAYS LIBBY

Renowned Pacifist States Drastic Change Needed in Near Future.

Lambasting the present American tariff policy, before a luncheon forum in the Grand hotel Thursday, Dr. Frederick J. Libby charged that unless drastic change is made in the near future it will eventually lead us into war. The forum was composed mainly of University students and professors and was given as a part of the Lincoln Peace Council's International Affairs institute.

"Since peace will have to be paid for with sacrifice, although infinitely less sacrifice than war brings, we as our share must more diligently follow more policies of the trade agreement for reduction of the tariffs," the renowned pacifist challenged.

World in two Parts.
The speaker continued his address by defining the world as being

25 COEDS MODEL IN FOLLIES' REVUE OF NEW SPRING STYLES

A. W. S. Board Committee Selects Campus Women To Display Clothes.

Fifty-eight university girls will display the new spring fashions at a style show, in conjunction with the Coed Follies, March 27. The models were chosen from a group of 140 women by a committee selected from the A. W. S. Board, sponsors of the show.

Showing the latest trends in evening frocks, spring suits, afternoon frocks, and sports clothes, the models will wear outfits from their personal wardrobes. Because the clothes modeled will be those which were selected for general wear by the university girls, the style show will prove to be a reliable index of the styles which will appear on the campus during the next few months. Mary Yoder, chairman of the style show committee, stated.

Girls Selected.
The girls who have been selected to model evening dresses are: Jeanne Jorganson, Inez Heaney, Helen Ford, and Arlene Orcutt. New trends in women's suits will be shown by: Betty Rowland, Marian Rolland, Jeanne Bump, Betty Mayne, Elizabeth Nealey, Virginia Hunt, Jean Tucker, Virginia Fleetwood, Barbara Damewood, Jeanne Gibson, Sally Carter, Harriett Byron, Florence Smeerin, and Doris Weaver.

Chosen to model afternoon frocks are: Mary Kinsley, Eloise Benjamin, Elizabeth Broady, Phyllis Cook, Natalie Relander, Mary Lein, Betty Magee, Jean Lefewich, Virginia Smith, Mary Kay Dewey, Muriel Krasne, Esther Stein, and Eva Mae Thomas. Sports clothes will be shown by: Janice Campbell, Wilma Wagner, Virginia Griswald, Rosalyn Laphinsky, Clementine Nelson, and Betty Christianson.

Beach Wear.
Joyce Liebendorfer and Maxine Durand will model bathing suits. Merie Seybolt will wear beach shorts. Ruth DeKlotz will appear in a riding habit; and Thressa Stava and Mary Cassel in knit suits. Night wear will be displayed by Margaret Munger, in a night gown; Doris Eastman, in pajamas; and Ruth Sears, in a negligee. Grace Shmerda and Janet Hoevet will also appear in morning attire.

Also crowding around the table are the widely interested men of the case; the plaintiff, Mr. Randall W. Clayton (in real life, William Stivers), and the defendant, Walter Steadman, a representative of the Du Teau Chevrolet company. They express their hatred, and the court moves on.

In the first row, her eyes red with tears, her cheeks pale from lack of sleep and hours of worry, sits Mrs. Randall W. Clayton (her friends call her Mary Quigley). It is quite evident that she is the one who has suffered the most. For it seems that one evening when Mr. Clayton was returning from the corner drug store, his old friend Walter Steadman offered him a ride. There was an accident. And now Mr. Clayton is suing the old friend Mr. Steadman and the automobile company he represents as well. His attorneys told him

The appointments are made possible thru the facilities of the national institute of public affairs.

Miss Frances P. ### NEBRASKA CINDER MEN SEEK INDOOR CROWN IN BIG SIX

Fifteen Huskers Hope to Return With Seventh M.V.I.A.A. Title.

Hoping to return to Huskerland with another Big Six conference indoor track championship, Coach Henry F. Shlte's Cornhuskers set sail Thursday afternoon for Columbia. Fifteen varsity Huskers will participate in the preliminary rounds Friday with the finals to be run off Saturday.

Nebraska has captured the M. V. I. A. A. title in 1925, 1926, 1930, 1931, 1932, and tied with Oklahoma for first place in 1933. Oklahoma won in three consecutive years, 1927, 1928, 1929. The Jayhawkers came out on top in 1922, 1923, and 1934. Missouri won in 1924 and Kansas State in 1935. Iowa State has never been crowned champs of the indoor conference.

Schultemen Top.
The five and a half victories of the Cornhuskers indicate that they have been the leaders in the indoor meets. Judging from their two performances this season, the Schultemen top the list. They possess what few track teams have—the eleven track and field events. The high jump is Nebraska's only weak spot, but especially fine sprinters and runners, such as Bob Morris, Lloyd Cardwell, Harold

1936 Significant to Botanist Because of Green Bluegrass

Lawns Coloring Early This Season, According to Dr. R. J. Pool.

The year 1935 will not only be remembered by the layman because of the intense cold, but it is becoming more significant to the botanist. Dr. R. J. Pool, chairman of the department of botany at the University of Nebraska, says this is the first time in many years that the bluegrass has remained green up until almost Christmas and has turned green by March 1. Usually lawns may show clear in only a few protected spots this early in the season, but bluegrass in practically every Lincoln yard is now turning from a colorless tan to a delicate green.

"In spite of the unusually long period of unusually low temperatures, lawns are now coloring,

Horse Barn Being Decorated For Junior Stock Exhibit.

Final preparations in the form of decorating ag campus horse barns are being made for the Junior Ak-Sar-Ben, animal showmanship contest, sponsored yearly by Block and Bridle, honorary animal husbandry organization.

About 75 of the university and short course students have entered the contest scheduled for Saturday night at seven o'clock. According to Prof. R. R. Thalman, sponsor of the project, contestants will be judged solely upon their performance in the ring, and the preparation of their animal. "The student who can take the poorest animal and make it show the greatest improvement will be the contest winner," stated Prof. Thalman.

Awards of a ribbon and a necktie will be given to each of the five men receiving the highest rating in his class. The winner of each class will receive a cane, and will compete with the winners of the other classes for the grand champion ribbon and trophy cup.

"These contests are a fine training for men planning to go into the livestock business, and they attract a great deal of attention from the spectators," remarked Thalman.

Presentation of Prom Girl Climax of Junior-Senior Ball in Coliseum.

Dancing to the musical strains of Joe Venuti, master of the violin, and his 18 Venutians will furnish entertainment par excellence for those couples attending the Junior-Senior Prom this evening. Adding color to the evening's entertainment will be the picturesque presentation of the 1936 Prom Girl.

Speculation is high as to the identity of the queen of this last party of the formal season with competition keen between the four candidates: Bonnie Bishop, Lorraine Hitchcock, Nola Alter, and Lorene Adelsack.

Campus opinion is, however, agreed as to the excellence of the band selected for the annual ball. College students are reported to be a determining factor in the success or failure of any dance band, and the number of Venuti phonograph records purchased here indicates that the work of Joe Venuti is exceedingly popular.

Plays with Whiteman.
Paul Whiteman featured the nimble fingers of Joe Venuti, presenting him as the ace "hot fiddle" of the Whiteman group for eight years. He was deeply immersed in his music, writing new tunes, working out difficult arrangements and playing his inspired violin.

Venuti's hold on the public spread from this country to Europe. The clamor for more Venuti recordings and more Venuti renditions of his "hot fiddle" could not be denied; so he left the Whiteman band for the other side of the ocean. He was supposed to play at only two concerts in London. He remained for more and finally made 17 appearances on the Continent, giving concerts in the leading capitals, among them Copenhagen, Stockholm, Brussels, and Amsterdam.

DR. EDWARD BARTOW TALKS TO CHEMISTS

Iowa State Professor Will Give Water Treatment Explanation.

Particularly interesting to all chemistry students will be tonight's American Chemical society meeting, according to Dr. H. K. Armen Page, featuring the program is Dr. Edward Bartow, speaking on "Water Treatment." Open to all interested people, as well as chemistry students, the meeting will start at 8:00 in general lecture room of chemistry hall. No admission will be charged.

Dr. Bartow is head of the Iowa State chemistry and chemical engineering department, and national president of the American Chemical society.

With slides and actual experiments, he will demonstrate methods for purifying city water of mud, bacteria, gases, and salts. Especial attention will be given to control of "floc formation" in water filtration, accomplished by adjustments of hydrogen in concentration.

According to Dr. Bartow, mud and bacteria are in suspension, gases and salts in solution. Settling, filtration, aeration, distillation, chemical treatment, and other physical and chemical processes are used to remove these impurities. As an added feature, Dr. Bartow will also devote part of his lecture to a description of the electromose process, and to a discussion of a new detergent which is better than soap in hard water.
