More than 400 eastern Nebraska farmers have now entered the 1936 Nebraska Pasture Improvement contest, according to Elvin L. Frolik, assistant extension agronomist at the ag college. A total of 500 entries is expected by May 1, the deadline for entering. In urging farmers to enter officially the contest before May 1, Frolik stated there appears to be more interest than ever before in grass in Nebraska. ## Celebrations in All Nations Honor William Shakespeare

University Players to Present Festival of Dramas Here in Commemoration of English Poet's Birthday Anniversary.

All over the world Shakespearean festivals are being held this week in honor of the anniversary of William Shakespeare's birthday on April 23 or 24, 1654. Celebrating this anniversary, the University Players are going to produce three of Shakespeare's most famous plays, "The Merchant of Venice," "MacBeth" and "As You Like It," during the week of April 27 to May 2.

In connection with the festivals, Miss H. Alice Howell, chairman of the department of speech and dramatic art, and Armand Hunter, '35, discussed the extent of interest in Shakespeare.

Shakespeare's Tragedy Lives.

"All thru the centuries, whenever a European country has attained any prominence in the drama," said Miss Howell, "it has produced Shakespeare. His is the deathless sort of tragedy that is forever modern and vital." "We might just as well costume his plays in modern clothes and alter the language slightly to present day English," Hunter added, "if it were not that lovers of Shakespeare all over the world honor and preserve the old tradition." "Right now in New York," Miss Howell recalled, "Negroes are putting on 'MacBeth' in a WPA theater in Harlem, staging the drama in Haiti. The play has been such a success that they are bringing it to Broadway."

Miss Howell also remarked on the interest which Hollywood has shown in producing "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and in preparing "Romeo and Juliet" which will be released sometime this spring.

Hollywood Shows Interest.

"Even in Russia Shakespeare has been kept alive almost consecutively, tho in a bloated form, in the Moscow theater," Hunter added. "Hamlet is recently produced there, but since Hamlet is vitally concerned with royalty, and royalty has no place with the communists, lines have been altered and scenes adapted to fit in with communistic propaganda. One scene, as revamped, is particularly amusing, where the king steps out of most imposing and magnificent robes to show himself

FRANK STACY SUFFERS SERIOUS BURNS, CUTS

Blast From Experiments In Chemistry Causes Student's Injury.

Frank Stacy, engineering freshman from Arnold, suffered severe burns and cuts when a chemical solution with which he was experimenting, exploded at his home yesterday. He was taken to the St. Elizabeth hospital where the wounds on his eyes, face and forehead were treated by Dr. N. E. Deppen.

Stacy, who is taking a fundamental course in chemistry, planned to try an experiment with some chemicals left over from his laboratory work. Potassium dichromate, he believed, would lessen the volatility of phosphorus. He mixed the two, at first in a very small quantity, attempting to make it form a paste or solid. He then touched a match to his compound to see if it would burn.

To complete his experiment he placed a much larger quantity of potassium dichromate into a celluloid container, which he held in his hand. When he added suddenly a proportional amount of phosphorus, the chemical reaction was an explosion before his face. Immediately his clothes were a mass of flames.

Mrs. F. B. Hunt with whom Stacy lives, helped the boy into the house where she extinguished the flames and called an ambulance.

Other expenses incurred by this valiant group, the pony chorus, include long hair. The female im-

KOSMET CHORUS SACRIFICES COMFORT FOR 'ART'S' SAKE

Painful operations precede the first and third showings of "Southern Exposure," Kosmet Klub's spring show. These consist of shaving the limbs of the hairy legged and hairy chested pony chorus members.

Each of the little hairs, symbols of manliness, must come off before the transparent silk stockings are donned, according to an edict issued by Doc Ireland, director of the chorus. They itch, too, the fellows say, when growing out. But such is the price of fame and glory.
