O. K. LINCOLN!

Nebraska's "rep list" was given a swell treat Saturday evening when the Lincoln hotel entertained two hundred collegians at a dinner dance.

During a two-course dinner, music by Dave Hain and special entertainers kept the two hundred happy, and the rest of the evening was spent in the other ballroom with a newcomer to campus musical circles, Clyde Davis and his orchestra. To the Lincoln's charming hostess, Mercedes Timmerman, the campus has been sending congrats on a good idea.

"Cuz" Anderson and Jack Potter were seen through the train windows bound for points east.

the "valley of democracy," as he calls the Mississippi river country because it seems to him the most thoroughly American part of America.

"As a student of American history and civilization," stated Dr. Schoenemann, "I am bound to study most the middlewest. The continentalism of the east does not impress me. What is good in America is of American growth."

In the University of Berlin he is director of the America-Institute. Himself the author of several books on America, he has published the doctors' theses of many of his students, concerning the American novel and theater.

Collegians Here Youngsters.

The greatest difference between German and American students, according to Dr. Schoenemann, is the extreme youth of the Americans. German men and women do not enter universities until they are the age of American juniors in college. Up to that time they study in secondary schools.

"In general Germans are more individual in matters of dress," the doctor declared. "Americans are so standardized. An American man would not dare to appear in a straw hat after Sept. 15, nor would he be seen in a felt before that date. In Germany we think nothing of these things. If a man wants to wear a straw hat far into the fall, he wears it."

As a whole, however, according to Dr. Schoenemann, women of the United States are better ressed than German women. They have more money to spend on clothes.

The German conception of the American woman is of a beautiful and spoiled queen, whom men put on a pedestal. This idea is partly the result of American moving pictures.

Liked Anthony; Detests Flies.

"The latest moving picture hit in Germany before I left," stated Dr. Schoenemann, "was 'Broadway Melody.' It had a three months' run in Berlin, playing to packed houses every night. Something in the rhythm of it captivated German audiences." He thought a moment, then added gravely, "Some of the actors in that show were really great—the snoring expert was an artist."

Since his arrival in Lincoln, the doctor has seen and enjoyed 'Anthony Adverse.' There is one thing about Lincoln that he decidedly has not enjoyed, however. "These Nebraska flies," sighed the Herr Doktor. "They should be tamed."

For hundreds of years the Persians have known the secret of fine flavor. In the dead of night a Persian "melon-diviner" may wake up his wealthy master to enjoy the perfect melon—picked by lamplight at its exact moment of full maturity

The Secret of Fine Flavor..

Like the Persian melon, the Turkish tobaccos used in Chesterfield are watched day and night.

There is just one right time to take off the leaves... that's when they have ripened to their fullest flavor.

Often the tender ripe leaves are gathered just before the dawn... to preserve the full "spice" and aroma for Chesterfield.

Chesterfields are made by Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. ... and you can depend on a Liggett & Myers product

From our own Southland we take mild, ripe tobaccos chock-full of Southern sunshine; then we go 4000 miles to the fertile shores of the Mediterranean for the fine flavor and aroma of Turkish tobaccos. These tobaccos give Chesterfields their milder better taste.
