WILLIAMS LAUDS BYRAN AS GREAT PUBLIC PIONEER

Assistant Attorney General Pays Tribute to Famed 'Great Commoner.'

The greatest orator, the greatest liberal leader and the greatest legislator of his time was the tribute paid William Jennings Bryan by Wayne C. Williams, assistant attorney general, in his convocation address yesterday morning.

Quickly sketching the dates and the highlights in the "Great Commoner's" rapid rise to fame, Williams stressed the great accomplishments of a man who received his initial impetus in a city as small as Lincoln was 47 years ago.

"Don't rush to the great cities to begin your careers. New York City and a marble palace are not necessary to produce great men," Williams declared. "Lincoln, a city of 30,000 with one train a day, produced four of America's greatest: Bryan, Roscoe Pound of Harvard, greatest authority on jurisprudence; Charles G. Dawes, leading statesman and former vice president; and General John J. Pershing."

Bryan, "a Great Man," in answer to his own question of what is the best manner to test a great man, Williams declared: "If it is by his talents, there were none pre-eminent. If it is according to his ability to control events, Bryan will stand high. If it is the ability to sacrifice personal advancement to stand by one's ideals, or if it is to have one's principles adopted by the constitution that qualifies a great man, he has had no equal since the time of Abraham Lincoln, 75 years ago."

To Assist With Anticipated Crowd During Husker-Ames Game Saturday

Fifty men are being selected by Sergt. L. C. Regler to assist with the anticipated large football crowd Saturday. Regler, who has been "campus cop" for almost nine years hires 16 plainclothesmen and four women matrons along with 30 fence guards.

"Fence guards I usually try to find men who are on relief and who have large families," he said. "They are paid by the athletic department."

Plainclothesmen are needed to turn in pickpockets and intoxicated persons. The latter is a state violation and a total of 208 men were escorted by jailors below the stadium last year.

Warning Renewed. Concerning an earlier interview Sergt. Regler commended students and warned them at the same time not to double park while unloading. Complaints have been registered particularly on the condensed traffic on the corner of 12th and R streets. First arrest for this offense was made Tuesday noon. The officer urged that students abide by the ruling and pull over to the curb instead of letting pass-

GROUP DEMANDS 'CANNED MUSIC' FOR UNI DANCES

Social Chairmen's Club Declares Boycott on Musician's Union.

By Lucy Goetz. "Canned Music" is in vogue this season for campus fraternity and sorority house parties, according to Nebraska's social chairmen's group, as they quibble with the Lincoln's Musician's union over the price and quality of "house party orchestras."

Latest development of the proposed "boycott" was the warning from Dr. H. C. Zellers, president of the local musician's union, that "If any organization member of this group hires a non-union orchestra, the services of all union orchestras, including nationally known road bands, will not be available to any campus organization, from the military ball on down."

Name Committee. With the support of a numerical majority of Greek letter organizations, and the Interfraternity Council, leaders in the "boycott union orchestras" movement met again last night at the Lincoln hotel, where they appointed Bill Kline, Dorothy Hood, Bill Hollister, Bob Houston, Corinne Smith, and Carmen Moss to contact the Lincoln Musicians union. With the instructions from their organization to "make no concessions," they will demand lower minimum players wages and better music.

Any member of the Interfraternity Council which hires a Lincoln orchestra, either union or non-union, will be fined, according to a resolution passed at the last meeting. Public address system music will be used in the meantime.

"Until a satisfactory agreement has been reached," declared Hollister, "the boycott will not be lifted." The organization next meets Tuesday night in Ellen Smith hall, when the contact committee will report.

INNOCENTS PICK BERNSTEIN HEAD OF PEP LEADERS

Enlarged Squad to Appear First at Iowa State Encounter.

Headed by Dave Bernstein, nine cheerleaders will perform for gridiron fans this autumn on the stadium cinders. Innocents announced the new yell kings today, following final tryouts at the frosh football conflict Monday.

Pep boys selected are: Bill Pugsley, Bob Reddish, Earnest Winttraub, Bob Leadley, Kenneth Jones, Bob Eby, Galen Jones, and Bill Gray. One other will be chosen to wear a scarlet jacket before Saturday's game with Iowa State.

Competition for head yell king had lain between Bernstein and Whitey Reed. However, incomplete marked Reed ineligible, giving Bernstein the position.

First call for candidates was issued last week, followed by practices culminating in final tryouts at the yearling-varsity encounter Monday. A committee composed of Bob Shellenberg, chairman, George Pipal, and Sam Francis made arrangements for instruction and appearances, and Innocents voted on the squad late last night. The society will probably announce the ninth cheerleader tomorrow.

Three of the ten Bernstein, Eby and Galen Jones, are veterans of a year's experience. The others are new to inspiring college pep. Nine, rather than the usual five tumblers, will stand before stadium crowds in order to invoke all possible enthusiasm from greater crowds anticipated by Director Selleck.

REV. DREW SPEAKS AT FIRST VESPER SERVICE

Pastor Gives Description of Measuring Stick for Values of Life.

What Are You Worth?" was the subject of a talk given by Rev. R. E. Drew, pastor of Epworth Foundation, Tuesday afternoon at the opening service of the Y.W.C.A. vespers held at 5 o'clock, at Ellen Smith hall.

Developing his talk, Rev. Drew emphasized three important things as his measuring stick for worth. The first was appreciation, appreciation of art, literature, and music; human understanding was the second, ability to understand others' problems and ideals; his third was a person's faith, the strength and dependence of one upon it.

As special meditation music for the first service of the year, Gladys Swift played a viola solo. Jane Keefer, president of the organization, gave a welcome address as a special feature for those attending the meeting, and Frances Scudder, chairman of vespers, led the devotionals.

As an additional musical feature, Margaret Phillippe, director of the vesper choir, sang "The Rosary."

JANE KEEFER SPEAKS AT AG Y. W. VESPERS

Shobert, Walters, Hoevet Welcome Women at First Service.

Led by Janet Hoevet the Y. W. vesper services began on the ag campus on Tuesday, Sept. 29, at 12:20 o'clock in the Home Ec parlors. Ruth Shobert, president of the Ag Y. W., gave the formal welcome to the women and told them that this fellowship would be one of not only local extent, but also national and even international.

Pauline Walters extended her appreciation for the large attendance and encouraged all to invite the freshmen girls. Jane Keefer, university Y.W. president, spoke on "Your Place in the Y.W.," told them how the Regional Race Commission is set up and introduced Miss Mildred Green, the Y.W. secretary. The theme of the devotionals was "Worthful Living."

The Y.W.C.A. feels that these vesper services which are to be held weekly on Tuesdays at this time, will be a great aid to the women who attend. At this first meeting about 60 were there, a very fine group. Frances Scudder, the co-chairman with the one at Wesleyan, urged everyone to join a commission group or a staff.

Students must be more careful in fraternity and sorority houses. It is very easy for strangers to walk into houses and help themselves to whatever they may want," commented Sergt. Regler. "We have notices sent to us of professional prowlers who go from one university town to another and enter houses. Especially does this occur on football days when no one is left at the house."

While officers of the law are still trying to discover who is responsible for robberies at several of the fraternities on the campus, they have arrested two young men for prowling around sorority houses. They were not university students and were fined for trespassing.
