HUSKERS REHEARSE SIGNALS IN BRIEF SESSION TUESDAY

Bible Runs Men Thru Snappy Signal Drill to Conclude Practice Featured by Lengthy Skull Session; Injuries Force Three to Sidelines.

Following a long indoor skull session and motion pictures, Coach Dana X. Bible sent his Cornhuskers through a short but snappy signal drill on the varsity lot Tuesday. No scrimmage was held and the usual Wednesday afternoon scrimmage will be dispensed with this week.

Several of the Huskers failed to suit up for the signal drill, because of minor injuries sustained in Monday's frosh-varsity tilt, but Trained Cornell indicated that all men would be ready for action against Ames next Saturday.

Ernie White, sophomore quarterback whose passing and field-generalship was a feature of Monday's game, suffered a back injury, but will be in shape to fill Johnny Howell's shoes this weekend if need be. Ken McGinnis, veteran guard, was limping around Tuesday with a bruised ankle. Thurston Phelps, sophomore back candidate, was also in sweat clothes.

Runs Passive Drill.

Coach Bible mustered out Les McDonald and Paul Amen at ends, Fred Shirley and Ted Doyle at tackles, Gus Peters and Bob Mehring at guards, Charley Brock at center, Johnny Howell at quarter, Lloyd Cardwell and Ron Douglas at fullback for the passive signal drill. An eleven, composed of Ed Weir's yearlings, put up the defense against the varsity.

"Don't forget Iowa State" is the dressing room watchword that is on the wall of the varsity dressing room. Coach Bible has impressed upon the Cornhuskers the insignificance of Ames' scoreless tie with Iowa Teachers; the game was played in a drizzling rain and a heavy field of mud hampered both teams. Iowa State is pointing for the Cornhuskers, and nothing would please Coach Veenker more than to upset the proverbial dope bucket by noosing out the Huskers.

Assignments Stressed.

Primary reason for the signal drill was the fact that too many Huskers were missing assignments in the frosh-varsity game and seemed to lack the necessary scoring punch. Blocking and tackling looked ragged in spots, with the first quarter presenting more real football than the last three quarters.

Coach Bible will taper off practices until Friday. No scrimmage will be staged Wednesday, and long skull sessions and signal drills will prevail until the opener with Iowa State.

Cramer Injured in Freshman-Varsity Game

Burton Cramer of Superior, who holds down a first team position at left end on Coach Ed Weir's freshman eleven, is in the student infirmary where he is being treated for injuries received in Monday's tilt with the varsity.

Burt is believed to have torn tissues in his back which, although being painful, probably will not prohibit his playing football.

DEFENSIVE PLAY EXCELS IN FIRST GREEK TUSSLES

Farm House Downs Sig Eps, Beta Sigs Take Zeta Beta Tau; Sigma Chi Bests Beta Theta Pi Opener.

After being delayed due to a conflict with the Varsity-Frosh game, the Greek touch-football season opened yesterday. Play was marked by the sterling defensive play of the winners who in each game kept their goal uncrossed.

League 5 was opened with a pair of games being played. Sigma Phi Epsilon lost a heart breaking game to Farm House 1-0. At the end of the regular playing periods the teams were in a scoreless deadlock. In the extra session, Farm House marked up the winning tally by gaining more and one-half yards while the Sig Eps were losing 13 in the six tries allotted to them. Lowenstein, Glanz and Jensen were outstanding for the winners while the losers were kept in the game chiefly thru the efforts of Zuspan, Elliott and Diers.

In the other league 5 game, Beta Sigma Psi downed Zeta Beta Tau to the tune of 6-0. Kuklin, Friedman and Becker stood out for the Beta Sigs. Keiser, Oelrich and Snieland starred for the losers.

Thriller.

"Many of the fraternities have failed to file alphabetical lists of the players at our office," states assistant director Bill Horney. "This must be done before your first game in order for us to be able to check eligibility lists. This constitutes a part of the entry and should not be overlooked." He continued, "Although we have most of the health cards, many players have failed to have an examination. This is necessary in order to reform to the eligibility requirements."

Today's games:

League 1. Chi Phi vs. Sigma Nu, field 1, 5 o'clock. Sigma Alpha Mu vs. Phi Kappa Alpha, field 2, 4 o'clock.

League 2. Phi Psi vs. Phi Sigma Kappa, field 1, 4 o'clock. Delta Upsilon vs. Lambda Chi Alpha, field 3, 5 o'clock.

The Sigma Chi-Beta Theta Pi game in league four was a thriller from beginning to end. When the dust had settled the Sigma Chis were on the long end of a 6-0 score. The goose-egg was served up to the Beta's chiefly thru the efforts of Taylor and Huston of the Sigma Chi's. Taylor, by virtue of his spectacular kicking, kept the Beta's with their backs to the wall most of the game. Begley and Gish played best for the losers.

The games were marked by a large attendance and much en-

Slippery Sam Takes Double Lateral for Ten Yards

Sam Francis, Nebraska's leading candidate for all-American gridiron honors, took a lateral pass from Ron Douglas and skirted the freshmen end for a first and ten to set up the pins for the Redshirts' second marker of the afternoon.

Howell (13) tossed the ball to Cardwell, the "Wild Hoss" passed to Douglas, and Ron in turn flipped it to Francis. Other varsity men shown in the picture are Bob Mehring, left guard, (11), and Paul Amen, right end, (33).

CYCLONES SET TO TRIP HUSKERS IN SATURDAY MIXER

Veenker Prepares to Match Speed, Blocking With Biblemen.

Revenge has become the keynote on the Iowa State campus following last week's scoreless tie with Iowa Teachers, and with Nebraska as Ames' next grid foe, the Cyclones expect to wreak havoc in Huskerland next Saturday.

What Iowa State hopes to do and what Iowa State does are two different things. Ames should have run rough-shod over the Teachers, but their backfield lacked the power and drive to put the ball over. Coach Veenker is busy at Ames now trying out reserves in the blocking, halfback and guard positions in an attempt to bolster the Ames' running attack.

Coach Veenker is faced with the necessity of speeding up the interference for his fast, but small, ball-carriers. Miserable playing conditions last Saturday made it impossible to hazard a guess as to the actual strength of the Cyclones in their tie game with the Teachers eleven, but the weakness in blocking that the coaching staff feared was readily apparent.

"Our blockers at the guard positions and in the backfield were too slow for the ball carriers," Coach Veenker stated. "Many times the ball carrier beat his interference to the line of scrimmage. Mud and rain—the great football equalizers—left no opening last Saturday for the Cyclones to uncover their aerial attack."

Nine seasoned major and minor lettermen, backed by a host of big sophomores, will enable Coach Veenker and his line assistants to put a hunky, alert forward wall on the field with assurance of reserve power.

Capt. Clarence Gustine, 175, and Rowland Rushmore, 180, are almost sure-starters at the flank positions, but they will be supported by Bill Partridge, 185, a junior, and five sophomores headed by Chuck Heilman, 180.

Harold Schatroth, 195, and Al Bauman, 185, a regular in 1931, two more lettermen, appear to have the inside track in the race for tackle berths, with Al Stoeker, 195, minor letterman, not far behind. A husky quartet of sopho-

Mrs. Tullis has handed a big assignment to those students registered for chorus. She has already started work on the oratorio, "Elijah," but the gang says it's a lot of fun, anyway. There's a big group out this year and Mrs. Tullis says she has some fine material.

The frosh wish every drill day could be like Monday. Captain Grove did not assign any drill to those who wished to attend the freshman-varsity game. Of course there was a good representation at the game. Captain Grove promises to make up for it next week tho. Guns and other equipment have arrived so active work can be started next week.

ELY 'WELL PLEASED' BY NUBBINS' SHOWING

'B' Squad Tutor Commends Work of Men at Kearney.

"I was well pleased with our team's showing. We had some good blocking and hard running, which are essentials of good football."

In that laconic statement, Coach Lawrence Ely, Nubbin mentor, summed up the performance of his charges in their 26-2 triumph over Pop Klein's Kearney Antelopes last Friday. "Ernie White's work at quarterback was especially commendable," stated Ely as he watched his pupils cavorting around the practice rectangular in preparation for their next game with Nebraska Wesleyan at Wesleyan Bowl, Oct. 16.

In view of the fact that many varsity performers are injured, the definite texture of the "B" team will not be known for at least two weeks. Head Coach D. X. Bible decided to postpone the expected "cut" in the varsity ranks in order that he may have enough capable reserves on hand to pull the team thru the wear and tear of the Iowa State and Minnesota contests.

Besides Nebraska Wesleyan, the Husker reserves meet Midland, Oct. 20, and Doane, Nov. 20.

Howard hints at a mixer and other things that suggest a lot of fun for the year.

HERBERT SCHMIDT TO PRESENT PIANO RECITATION TODAY

Herbert Schmidt, pianist, will present the musical convocation this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Temple theater. His program includes: "Melodie," Gluck-Spanghals; "Caprice," Gluck-Saint-Saens; three movements of "Italian Concerto," Bach; and four movements of "Sonata, E minor, Op. 58," Chopin.

This is the second in a series of musical convocations to be presented each Wednesday by faculty members, visiting artists, and students of the school of music.
