Bible Contacts Huskies for Future Games During Seattle Visit.

Enroute home after a week's trip that carried them to Portland, Seattle, Glacier National Park and other scenic spots in the northwest, Nebraska's Cornhusker football team...

King of Minnesota and Daddio of Pitt at ends, Wildcat of Minnesota and Daniel of Pitt at tackles, Dalle Tezze of Pitt and Strack of Oregon State at guards, and Conkright of Oklahoma at center were the Huskers' line selection.

Nearly unanimously, the Cornhuskers selected Huffman of Indiana for quarterback, and expressed a tossup between the combinations of Uram and Matheny, Minnesota halfbacks, and LaRue of Pitt and Gray of Oregon State for their all-opponent halfback selection.

BALL BEARING With Ed Steeres

The question now on hand that cannot be eradicated by any oral soap is, "How will Nebraska's 1936-37 cage chances be?"

Nebraska has plenty of veterans on hand. Probably none than last year. They have Floyd Ebaugh, Bob Parsons, Elmer Dohrmann, Harry Sorenson, Howard Baker, Paul Amen, Leland Hale, Larry Nelson, George Scott, Cliff Scott, Bill Konda, Al Werner, Ray Baxter, Lloyd Grimm, Ernie White, Bill Scheck, and others; all fast, alert and plenty tall.

One thing, however, that Nebraska lacks is a spark plug. They are like a canoe without paddles. Remember Bud Parsons of two years back? Or Whitaker and Wahlquist of last season? They were only individuals, but even without the capability of holding a basketball they would have been valuable to the team.

Last season at the start it looked as though the elder Parsons' place would be hard to fill, but hence the change. Perhaps the same will be true this year.

So far, however, the team plays in a rather loosely organized style. They break fast, but un-regularly. On some occasions the whole team has taken a nap, while on others they have literally swamped their subordinates.

Director Veener, who has put some fine Cyclone grid elevens on the field in his five years at Ames, succeeded Nelson T. Metcalfe, now at the University of Chicago, as athletic director in 1932 after one year as head coach with the mutual understanding that he would carry the double job only until such time as it was possible to find a satisfactory successor to him as grid coach.

Hails From K-State. Jim Yeager graduated from Kansas State in 1931 and coached from that time until this fall at Fort Hays Teachers college, serving as head coach at Iowa State last season. At Kansas State he was a three letter man in football, holding down a guard post on the Wildcat eleven.

Veener came to Ames from Michigan where he was assistant football coach and head basketball coach, but he left to take the head coaching job at Iowa State to satisfy a desire to be a head football coach and because he was heartily in sympathy with the sensible basis upon which athletics were conducted at Iowa State, according to the Iowa State information service.

Veener Breaks Even. A 16 game losing streak of the Cyclones was snapped when Veener took over the coaching reins in 1931. That year, the Ames team lost only two games and finished second in the Big Six.

Veener coached teams at Ames have won 21 games, lost 21 and tied 8 games, in six years.

Track Coach Robert L. Simpson will relinquish his sports positions, effective July 1, 1937, Iowa State's athletic council announced. Simpson was a star hurdler from Missouri and a member of the 1920 Olympic team.

Daubert has been teaching swimming since 1920 and his swim teams have either won or tied for the Big Six swim title six times.

"A preliminary Study of the Animal Ecology of the Niobrara Game Reserve" is the title of a recent bulletin by Watson Beed, assistant in the zoology department. The bulletin was published by the conservation and survey division, Dr. G. E. Condra dean and director.

STUDENT COUNCIL OPENS FILING FOR PROM COMMITTEE

(Continued from Page 1.) more than 89 credit hours in the university, which constitutes junior standing. Candidates must also meet the general eligibility requirements, which consist of carrying 27 hours during the two previous semesters, and also satisfactorily carrying 12 at the time of filing.

Student Council is setting the date of election early in order to allow sufficient time to secure an orchestra and satisfactory plans for presenting the Prom girl.

Professors H. H. Marvin, T. T. Smith, and R. C. Spencer, all of the physics department, attended the meetings of the American Physical Society at Chicago Friday and Saturday.

Tanksterettes Begin Practice for Circus

Tanksterettes are beginning practice this week for their winter circus to be given before Christmas vacation. It has been suggested to have the men's swimming club and arrange their routine together. This suggestion has not been fully decided upon as yet.

It is absolutely necessary that all members, both active and pledges, swim at least once a week on Monday, Wednesday, or Saturday.

NETSTERS TAKE LIGHT DRILL; AWAIT COACH'S RETURN FROM COAST

With one more night remaining before their head man, Coach W. H. Browne, and two other basketballers doubling in football togs return, the 1936 basketball squad worked out lightly last night. Their action was confined mostly to a few simple setup plays in which they scrimmaged the fast developing freshmen. Thus far the eagles have been handled by the experienced manual of Morris Fisher, assistant coach.

In scrimmages this fall the varsity five have shown only spotted patterns of flashiness, taking the subs sometimes by wide margins and sometimes only by the skin of their teeth. The first quintet has been made up of Ebaugh, veteran center, Baker, veteran forward, Elliott, sophomore forward, Parsons, veteran guard, Hale, senior guard, and Sorenson, handy man.

On the second five Werner, Baxter, Nelson, and Scotts have held the edge. The return of the gridlers will bring Elmer Dohrmann and Paul Amen to the squad.

Reed Aids Wisconsin Educators to Begin Extension Program

Because he is recognized as a pioneer in the extension division field and has developed the work here at the university to a point where it has become the pattern for many other institutions, Dr. A. A. Reed, director of the Nebraska extension division, is in Madison, helping educators at the University of Wisconsin develop a correspondence study program.

He was invited to take part in the meetings by Dean F. O. Holt, dean of Wisconsin's extension division. Dr. Reed's contribution will be to explain the operation of Nebraska's extension division and to give them information as to the possibility of providing correspondence instruction at the high school level.
